GIRL'S MOTHER ALTERED DEATH STORIES, CLAIM

Mrs. Dora E. Limerick to Tell Truth on Stand, Lawyer Says.

FEARED INVALIDATION OF INSURANCE POLICY

Several Witnesses Heard at Coroner's Inquest; To Be Resumed Today.

The mother of the slain Beulah Limerick will testify before a coroner's jury that she instructed her son, Vernon, and William E. Paddy to lie to detectives if questioned about the girl's activities on the night before she was murdered, according to her attorney.

Fear that an insurance policy would be invalidated if the insurance company learned that the girl "ran around and drank" is given by F. Joseph Donohue, attorney for the Limerick family, as the reason for Mrs. Dora E. Limerick's instructions to two of the four men who are held in connection with the murder.

Sigfred Michaelis, a plumber, friend of the girl, is expected to introduce some startling testimony to the effect that Richard Reed, another man held for investigation, showed him a .25-caliber revolver while at the Limerick home. It was a bullet from this type of gun that mortally wounded the girl early on the morning of December 31.

Saw Gun on Table, Claim.

Capt. Edward J. Kelly, assistant chief of detectives, says that Michaelis will testify that he saw the pistol lying on a table in the room where the murder occurred, and that Reed acknowledged it to be his property. Detectives have seized a .32-caliber automatic from Reed, but have not located a .25-caliber pistol of Reed's. Reed and the slain girl represented themselves as man and wife while renting the home in which they lived with Vernon Limerick, police said.

Mrs. Limerick's decision to "tell the truth" came at the conclusion of a day of conflicting testimony submitted by witnesses before the coroner's jury that is sitting in the board-room of the District Building.

Mr. Donohue, interviewed last night, said that Mrs. Limerick will admit before the jury that she gave the instructions to Vernon and Paddy to mislead the authorities, regarding her daughter's activities.

Flaherty Tells of Inquiry.

Most of yesterday's testimony was taken up by the story of the investigation as told by Detective Sergt. John A. Flaherty, head of the homicide squad. Sergt. Flaherty pieced together the story of the investigation that involved Vernon Limerick, William E. Paddy, Richard Reed and finally, Patrolman Robert F. Langdon.

A packed room listened with rapt attention as Sergt. Flaherty unfolded his story. People were jammed into the room and others waited outside to gain admission.

Coroner J. Ramsey Nevitt presided. The three suspects sat behind the counsel table and listened attentively as Sergt. Flaherty narrated the story of their involvement in the murder. Directly behind the prisoners were the family of the slain girl and the relatives of the men who are held. Among this group was Mrs. Rose V. Langdon, wife of the imprisoned policeman.

Said Mother Caused Change.

When Vernon Limerick was first questioned, Sergt. Flaherty said, he said he accompanied Beulah to the dance. "Later he revised this statement and said he had lied. That he had not accompanied Beulah, but had gone to the Sky High Whoopee Club dance with a man named Dewey Ryan.

"He was asked why he changed his statement and he said he had been told by his mother that, if questioned, he should say nothing about Beulah running around or drinking because his mother feared that it would interfere with the collection of an insurance policy."

The gray haired head of the homicide squad then told of Paddy's second interrogation and that he, too, said that the mother had instructed him to testify that Vernon had accompanied Beulah to the dance at Capitol Heights.

Paddy Escorted Girl Home.

"Paddy," said Sergt. Flaherty, "told me that he brought the girl to 18 Nineteenth street southeast, and left there at 1:15 o'clock. He walked out East Capitol street to Biand's lunch room and then went to his home. He said he knew nothing of her death until the next day, when Earl Reed (a brother of Richard) notified him of her death.

Sergt. Flaherty then told of his visit to the home of Mrs. Limerick at 116 North Carolina avenue southeast, to interview her. "We planned to confront Mrs. Limerick with her son as to settle the statement as to her instructions to the two men. Mrs. Limerick absolutely denied that she had given any such instructions.

Since that time, Sergt. Flaherty said, the three men, Reed, Limerick

YEGGS GET $15,000 IN BALTIMORE BANK

STOLEN AUTO IS TRACED

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Jan. 9.—Six bandits, armed with a submachine gun or sawed off shotgun, robbed the Commercial Savings Bank here of $15,000 today and escaped in an auto believed to have been stolen from Alexander Armstrong, former Attorney General of Maryland, police believe.

According to witnesses, the six men filed out of the car in front of the bank. A seventh confederate was left at the wheel. They entered the bank, in which there were about twelve employes. There was only one patron, the institution having just opened for business.

Isaac Rosen, 67, was about to deposit $100. Ellis Cohen, the treasurer, was busy at the rear of the room and his father, Harry Cohen, the bank's president, was talking to Rosen.

When the men, all well dressed, came in they appeared in such jovial mood that the younger Cohen suspected a joke when one of them threw open his coat and disclosed the gun. Several other employes also failed to take in the situation, even after the armed intruder ordered: "Come on. Hold up. Hold up."

He jabbed the muzzle of the weapon into Rosen's stomach, one of his accomplice's at the same time grabbing the patron's $100. Rosen later had to be treated by a physician for shock.

After the employes had been herded together, one of the bandits went behind the counter and cleaned the drawers of bills, ignoring the silver. Another went to the open vault and stuffed approximately $15,000 in packaged bills into his pockets.

William Cura, the colored janitor, was working in the cellar when he heard the commotion. He came up

WILL OFFER RESOLUTION

(Associated Press.)

The unseating of Senator Davis (Republican), Pennsylvania, on the ground that his ticket in the last primary and general elections spent approximately $1,200,000, will be demanded in the Senate by Chairman Nye, of the campaign funds investigating committee.

The North Dakota senator, who failed on December 2 by 58 to 27 to have the Senate withhold the oath to the former Labor Secretary while his committee made further inquiry, said yesterday he would introduce a resolution to declare Senator Davis' seat vacant as soon as the committee has completed its investigation and reported to the Senate.

Because of other pressing matters facing his group, he said it probably would be more than a week before the proposal is made.

Senator Davis would not comment when informed of Senator Nye's plans, but said he had discussed the matter with his colleague, Senator Reed.

Senator Nye said he felt it was his duty to present the resolution "in the interest of consistency."

"On the record as it stands now," he said, "I don't see how I could be consistent and refrain from offering such a resolution if others did not do it. The situation is not changed as a result of our later investigations but with the record remaining as it does I will have to offer a resolution declaring the seat vacant.

"I have not discussed this with the committee. It would not be a committee resolution because that is not a function of the committee. The investigation shows that $1,200,000 is about the figure involved in the

Features in The Post Tomorrow

The Red Cross has been attacked by some of its enemies following reported food riots in Arkansas. Did it deserve the things which were said about it? David Rankin Barbee in a splendid article tomorrow will answer that question. It will be a truly illuminating story on what the Red Cross has done, is doing and is planning to do wherever there is need for its services.

"Statement Making a Fine Art Now" is a readable, laughable yarn about that always interesting topic, politics, wherein the writer discusses the "yen" of those in public life for issuing statements daily and sometimes more often than that. This outline of the recent statement flurry will be found in the tabloid magazine.

Another enlightening story in the magazine deals with depression, its cause and cure. The author makes the statement that depression and prosperity are matters of public thought and then goes on to prove his point.

Edith Johnson continues her series of articles on modern day problems and their solutions, while another of the "Crimes in Ink" will entertain magazine readers.

Many other engrossing tales, both feature and fiction, will be found in the magazine, together with news from all over the world, the latest sports, club activities, theater gossip and a rotogravure section combine to make The Post enjoyable to every one.

NEW FOOD BILL FILED AS HOUSE HOLDS AID PLAN

LA FOLLETTE URGES ADDED RELIEF FUNDS

Hunger Riots and Bank Runs Laid to Communism by Wood.

(Associated Press.)

With one food loan fund waiting on a House sidetrack, another was loaded upon a legislative conveyance yesterday in the Senate, in the hope that the other branch of Congress might be prevailed upon to give it a clear signal.

No signs of this were immediately apparent in the House, however. Leaders there had made no attempt yesterday to gain an agreement to send the general drought loan measure to conference, to smooth out the differences over the food provision. Three previous attempts have failed.

Senator Caraway, of Arkansas, the Democrat who sponsored the amendment already in dispute, offered another to provide $15,000,000 for food loans. This one was proposed as an addition to the deficiency appropriation bill, already passed by the House, and would have to take the same course as his previous amendment to allow the same amount. Under the rules the proposal must lay over for a day.

Reports on Distress.

Caraway's move was made after Senator La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin, had assailed the administration for "failing" to provide adequately for drought and unemployment relief. He read reports of unemployment distress in many cities, which he said showed the greatest suffering was in small communities, where there was insufficient wealth to take care of the needs.

Many mayors of cities of more than 5,000, in replying to his questionnaire, had asked for Federal aid, he said.

Criticizing the Senate program for the remainder of the session, La Follette said immediate attention should be given to measures providing food and clothing for drought sufferers, and either providing Federal aid to cities, to relieve unemployment, or affording resources to the Red Cross.

Program Held Inadequate.

Using testimony before a Senate committee on the emergency construction program as a basis, the Wisconsin senator said it would provide direct employment for only 130,000 men.

"When we find that even Col. Arthur Woods, chairman of the President's Unemployment Commission, estimates the unemployed at 5,000,000 we see how utterly and tragically inadequate the relief program is," he said. "The program is merely a plaster on the situation."

Meanwhile, as both Republicans and Democrats refused to agree on technicalities of procedure for the

FIGHT PRECIPITATED BY DISCHARGE OF 2

Board's Ousting of Chief Solicitor and Accountant Stirs Opposition.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

For the first time in history, so far as known, the Senate late yesterday voted to recall the nominations of three men after they had previously been confirmed and entered upon their duties.

By a vote of 44 to 37, it voted to recall the nomination of George Otis Smith, chairman of the Federal Power Commission, and then in rapid succession, and without record vote, called for the return likewise of the nominations of Commissioners Garsaud and Draper, who, with Chairman Smith, dismissed Charles E. Russell, chief solicitor, and William V. King, accountant for the commission, in the first meeting of the new commission during the Christmas holidays.

May Hold Up Salaries.

The President was requested to return the papers of the three men to the Senate. This, it is definitely known, he intends to refuse to do, on the ground that the Senate acted without constitutional authority. Thereafter the case is expected to hang in the balance until finally determined, presumably in the courts. Efforts in the meantime will be made to hold up their salaries in the appropriation bills.

The climax to one of the most bitterly fought cases yet to come between Mr. Hoover and the Senate came after 7 o'clock and after Republican leaders had succeeded in limiting debate.

Thirteen Republicans voted with the virtually solid Democratic line-up for the recall of Smith, while only five Democrats joined with the Republican regulars, 32 of them, in opposing the recall.

Fight Gathers Strength.

The fight had been under way for five days. Gathering surprising strength from the outset, the attacking senators, led by Senator Walsh, of Montana, made quick to make a power issue of it, and yesterday's debate was climaxed with the charge by Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington, that the Republican party indisputably is controlled by the power interests.

Senator Brousard (Democrat) Louisiana, joined with administration defenders in declaring that King and Russell were dismissed automatically by the new power act, that it was unsound assumption that their dismissal was due to any leaning by the commission to the power trust, and that the Senate had no right to recall the men now for something they had done after assuming their office.

Dill Names Nutt.

Dill declared that Joseph R. Nutt, treasurer of the Republican national committee, had said he had no power connections, but that "Who's Who" credited him wit hbeing chairman of the "board of the Fort Worth Power & Light Co.

"I don't know whether he or the book is wrong," Dill said. "We do know today that every time the power question is raised we find the Republican party universally on the side of the great power interests.

"The power question is here to stay until we put a President in the White House who will insist that the

WOMEN FLIERS END ENDURANCE FLIGHT

LOW FLYING PROTESTED

Los Angeles, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—The endurance flight of "Bobbie" Trout and Edna May Cooper was brought to an abrupt end at 5:20 p. m. (P. S. T.) tonight after 122 hours 20 minutes of continuous flight. Joseph Martin, flight manager, said he ordered the girls to land.

Mr. Martin said his decision was based upon the belief that the Department of Commerce would object to the girls flying as low as they found necessary. He said citizens of Inglewood, near the Municipal Airport, were circulating petitions of protest addressed to department officials.

Mr. Martin denied motor trouble, evidence of which was present this afternoon, had caused the flight's unexpected end.

The girls lacked but 3 hours 58 minutes of tripling the former womens' endurance record of 42 hours 16 minutes set by Miss Trout and Elinor Smith, of New York.

Los Angeles, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—New troubles came to Bobbie Trout and Edna May Cooper just as they reached smooth sailing today in their endurance refueling flight, after surviving five days of bad luck.

Ideal flying weather prevailed after three days of rainstorms and a peaceful atmosphere settled over their monoplane, the Lady Rolph. But as they neared the 120th hour aloft at 2:30 p. m. an ominous cloud of smoke began to pour from the motor, a signal that the power plant was weakening.

The fliers dropped a note that the gauge was showing far too much consumption of oil.

Woman Claims Baby Is Held for Board Bill

Tulsa, Okla., Jan. 9 (A.P.).—Alleging her 16-month-old baby is being held in lieu of baggage for a $46 room and board bill, Mrs. Marie Noel, 25, sought aid of the courts today in recovering the child.

She filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus, accusing Mrs. Flora Hinze, rooming house operator, of keeping the baby, a girl, as security for the payment of the debt.

Mrs. Hinze was ordered by Judge S. J. Clendinning to bring the child into common pleas court tomorrow for a hearing on the petition.

WOODCOCK REPORTS WORK OF HIS REGIME

4,000,000 Gallons of Beer and 711,000 of Liquor Seized in Six Months.

WICKERSHAM AIDS LEAVE

(Associated Press.)

The seizure of more than 4,000,000 gallons of beer and 711,000 of liquor was made known yesterday by Prohibition Director Woodcock as the fruit of Federal enforcement during his six months regime as the Nation's dry chief.

This announcement followed close upon the departure from Washington of two more members of the Wickersham Law Enforcement Commission, with both indicating their own prohibition problem had ended and the solutions to be offered by the commission were nearing the start of their journey to the White House.

Only six of the members remained in the Capital and at least four were working on other phases of the commission's crime investigation. The forecast that the Wickersham report would be out of their hands early next week remained unchanged.

Prohibition Director Woodcock, in summarizing six months of dry law enforcement, said fines of $2,314,837 had been assessed against violators along with jail sentences totaling approximately 8,000 years.

At the same time he announced a change in status for the dry administrators and most of the deputy administrators in six of the twelve prohibition districts. Heretofore all have carried the word "acting" before their titles, but this will be dropped.

ARMY-NAVY TRUCE FORCED BY HOOVER

Functions of Air Service in Two Branches Definitely Are Agreed To.

BOTH CLAIM VICTORIES

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

In his role as commander in chief of the Army and the Navy, President Hoover has forced a truce in an ancient row between those two forces, one that goes back to the days when Gen. "Billy" Mitchell was trying to get a unified air service.

The peace pact was announced yesterday following a conference between Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the Army.

As a result of it, each service now knows more about what its functions are with regard to defending the American coast with airplanes and seaplanes.

Almost identical statements outlining the agreement were issued by the War and the Navy Departments. the Navy statement said:

"An agreement has been consummated governing the operations of the Army and Navy air forces during peace. Basing their conclusions on those fundamental principles of national defense which should properly govern both services, the agreement reached leaves the air forces of each free to develop within well-defined limits and each with a separate and distinct mission.

"The naval air forces will be based on the fleet, and move with it as an important element in solving the primary missions confronting the fleet.

"The Army air forces will be land based and employed as an essential element to the Army in the performance of its mission to defend the coasts, both at home and in our overseas possessions, thus assuring the fleet absolute freedom of action without any responsibility for coast defense."

To the man in the street, the row between the two services over their respective spheres in aviation may be difficult to comprehend, and it also may seem a bit silly; but it has been a real "burning issue" to military and naval men.

The Army airmen have been charging that the Navy airmen were trying to usurp their function of defending the coasts, and they pointed to what had happened at Coco Solo and at Pearl Harbor.

In Coco Solo, which is at the Atlantic terminal of the Panama Canal,

Wood in Washington Is Intimate Friend Of Three Presidents

Fishes and Plays Poker With Cleveland, Tends Sick Wife of McKinley and Kicks Football With Roosevelt; Eager for War in Cuba.

Lieut. Leonard Wood remained in Arizona four years, although Gen. Miles fairly shook the foundations of the War Department trying to have him transferred to his own staff. In 1889 Wood was sent to the Presidio at San Francisco and in November, 1890, brought thither his bride, Miss Louise A. Condit-Smith, of Washington. He passed four busy and happy years at the Presidio as assistant post surgeon, gathering fame, incidentally, as a football player on the Olympic Club Team. In 1893 he was transferred to Fort McPherson, near Atlanta, where he remained as post surgeon for two years. He was captain of the football team of the Georgia School of Technology and once was nearly mobbed by the adherents of the University of Georgia Team, which he had helped to defeat. In 1895, Wood was transferred to Washington as assistant attending surgeon.

CHAPTER VII.

Washington • • • September • • • The air is like a blanket; the streets are soft under foot. In soiled victorias, in the shade, colored hackmen lounge and doze. A few dripping tourists suffer the purgatory of the Capitol plaza for the sake of the paradisal coolness of the marble corridors. The streets, for all their impressive width, their way of going on and on in their imperial plan, are the streets of a small town, graciously shaded and almost deserted. This pleasant city has been dreaming for 30 years and sees no reason why it should not go on dreaming. The bustle and elbowing in the country northward and westward, the struggle toward commercial empire, find no reflection between these sedate brick fronts. The wrangles in Congress make hardly more impression than other wrangles at midnight on back fences. The departments send no sparks through their open windows; the legations yawn and dream of Paris.

The country itself is very hot these September days and, like the colored hackmen, full of dreams.

There was nothing dreamy, meanwhile, about the corpulent gentleman who presides over the destinies of the odd conglomeration of 70,000,000 idealists, sentimentalists and hard-fisted getters-and-spenders who constituted the American people. Grover Cleveland regarded himself in no sense as a potentate but rather as a kind of general manager under contract with these 70,000,000 to direct their affairs; and he directed them with a concentration on the matter in hand and a stolid disregard of

Calvin Coolidge Says:

State legislatures are now in session. Almost as much as the Congress, they will affect the public welfare. They should face all the facts. That will be difficult. It is axiomatic that half the world does not know how the other half lives. But State legislatures are fresh from the people. They know the conditions of their own neighborhoods much better than congressmen know them.

Some people are suffering from lack of work, some from lack of water, many more from lack of wisdom. These facts have been emphasized all out of proportion to their importance. Other facts of abundant supplies of good raw materials, credit, productive capacity and the ability of a free people to take care of themselves when necessary are being almost entirely ignored. Cities and towns are responsible for relief. Give them all needed authority to raise and expend their own money for that purpose. That and local charity will be sufficient. Recall the principle of President Cleveland that it is the business of the people to support the Government, not of the Government to support the people. We can supply enough of our lack of wisdom. We do not need to increase it by unwise legislation.

Mr. Dill declared the President would "play into the hands of the power people if he refuses to send the nominations back."

Links President and Shoals.

"The American people," he asserted, "are entitled to know where the President stands on this issue. On Muscle Shoals we know where he stands. He wants power sold at the switchboard so that the Alabama Power Co., a member of the power trust, can sell power at its own rates."

The Muscle Shoals bill was in the way of agreement between the Senate and House conferees, but they again have become deadlocked on the question of chemicals that private interests should be permitted to manufacture at Muscle Shoals.

Aside from this, however, it has become apparent the President is not in favor of the compromise, previously reached by the conferees, by which the Government would operate the power plant and build transmission lines for the distribution of the power. This being the case, it is doubtful if the bill will ever reach him.

Opponents Jubilant.

It is very apparent, however, that his opponents are more jubilant than they have been for some time in the belief that they have struck two blows on the power question at the same time.

Some senators last night, notably Senator Borah, professed to believe the President, "in view of the record in this case," would cooperate with the Senate and return the papers to the Senate. No one, however, not even Senator Borah, expects him to do so.

Senators Jones, of Washington, and Couzens, of Michigan, insisted the question of recalling the nominations had no relation to the power policies of the Government, but turned simply on the Senate's constitutional right to recall them.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, had insisted the Senate was within its right in recalling the three nominations the first executive day after they had been confirmed. They were confirmed just before the Senate repassed for the Christmas holidays.

How Trouble Started.

When the three members originally came before the Senate there was little opposition to them, and although Senator Wheeler, of Montana, tried to launch a fight he could muster only five or six votes on the roll call. Even Walsh had originally voted for the three men.

The trouble started when shortly after entering upon their duties they dismissed not only King and Russell, but Frank E. Bonner, executive secretary of the commission, who had been at odds with King and Russell for some time. It was this friction within the commission that brought about the new commission.

Senator Hiram Johnson said he had no misallusions about President Hoover returning the nominations.

"I voted to confirm these men," he said. "Since then I have learned something about them, enough to cause me to vote to recall their nominations. I will not vote on the theory of the senator from Idaho that the President will cooperate with us. I do not believe that he will.

As Johnson Sees Issue.

"I believe that he will cling to these appointees. We are confronted with an irrepressible conflict here. The real issue is that these commissioners have definitely aligned themselves on the side hostile to the people of the United States. We have got to decide whether we are for the power trust or for the people."

Administration senators contended the Senate was trying to impeach the men in an indirect way; that the very fact that the Senate was up in arms against them because of their first action in office showed they had assumed their duties and were beyond the jurisdiction of the Senate, except through impeachment proceedings.

Bulkley Opposes Howell Raid Bill

Ohio Senator Criticizes Measure on City Enforcement.

Sharp criticism of the Howell home raid local prohibition enforcement bill was voiced yesterday by Senator Robert J. Bulkley, of Ohio, who announced his purpose to oppose the measure when it was called up on the floor of the Senate for consideration.

The Howell bill has been given first place on the legislative program of the Republican Senate steering committee for this session, assuming, of course, that the pending maternity bill will be disposed of before adjournment.

The legislative program of the steering committee is not an especially important one, viewed from a national aspect, inasmuch as it avoids legislative proposals which have been espoused by insurgents and liberals as necessary to consider.

This action, Woodcock said, is no reflection upon the dry leaders in the remaining districts, since he has time to inspect the work of only half the country.

The administrators removed from the trial status were Jonathan S. Lewis at Boston, Andrew McCampbell at New York, Commander John D. Pennington at Philadelphia, William N. Wooruff at Cincinnati, Col. J. F. J. Herbert at Chicago, and William G. Walker at San Francisco.

The prohibition director said there had been worked out a system of efficiency ratings for each of his army of 1,400 agents, designed to give "a correct and fair picture of the ability" of every man. Each will be graded upon his rating in the prohibition schools, the conspicuous acts he performs, and the length of his service.

In a summary of prohibition work for December, Woodcock also made known that for the first time in months the number of cases disposed of exceeded those placed on the court dockets. He interpreted this as a reflection of the bureau's plan to capture the large commercial violators of the law, getting "bigger and better" cases whenever possible.

The two Wickersham commission members to leave the Capital were Judge William S. Kenyon, of Fort Dodge, Iowa, and Monte Lemann, New Orleans lawyer. Other absentees were Judge William Grubb, of Birmingham; Miss Ada Comstock, president of Radcliff College, who is ill, and Newton D. Baker, of Cleveland, who has sailed for Europe.

APPEAL IS HEARD FOR PIKE SCENERY

GAS STATION IS OPPOSED

Determined to protect the scenic beauty of the Rockville pike and its environs, from commercial encroachments, the large estate owners of this section appeared in court at a zoning hearing held last night in the Bethesda County Building. The Montgomery County Commissioners sat as a board of zoning appeal to consider the petition for rezoning of the triangle at the intersection of Rockville pike and old Georgetown road, filed by William A. Oftmann.

The petition asked reclassification of the property from residential "A" to commercial "B" in order that a gas station can be erected on the triangle.

Residents of the Rockville pike and old Georgetown road and representatives of the Rockville Chamber of Commerce and the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce laid before the commissioners their dream of a scenic highway entering the Nation's Capital second to none in the country. They claimed that granting of the petition, which has been disapproved by the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, would open the way for commercial invasion of the pike and undo their beautification efforts of years.

Called Also Hazard.

C. Griscom Randall, president of the Rockville Pike Citizens Association, said that the association opposes the rezoning because erection of a gas station would constitute a traffic hazard as well as mar the scenic beauty. Frank C. Smith, representing the Rockville Chamber of Commerce, said that the Rockville Chamber had adopted resolutions opposing commercial encroachment and that the chamber wants a beautiful gateway to the Nation's Capital.

Leonard Nicholson presented two petitions signed by nearly every resident of the Rockville pike and old Georgetown road opposing rezoning. Frederick Bradley declared that the zoning of the property was prior to the development of old Georgetown road as a residential center and that the owner should have asked for rezoning before the residential development.

Mrs. John R. Holmes opposed the rezoning on the ground that a gas station would further complicate the present dangerous traffic situation and suggested that the county commissioners buy the tract for a park. Karl Borby declared that an opportunity now presents itself to the citizens of the pike to beautify it themselves. He suggested that this land be made a park to be financed partly by the citizens, partly by the county government, and through donation by Mr. Ostmann, and that a marker be erected dedicated to some great event or character in the history of the road.

Worse Than Billboard.

E. C. Brandenburg declared that the interests of one individual should not have precedence over the interests of the whole community and that a gas station would be more unsightly than billboards. He said that the encroachment of the commercial interests would interfere with the residential nature of the section and eventually would cause lowering of property values, which would cause a loss of revenue to the county. Mr. Brandenburg said that John F. Wilkins, former owner of The Washington Post, had considered buying the land for presentation to the county as a park, but that he had considered Mr. Ostmann's price of $2,500.

Stedman Prescott, attorney for Mr. Ostmann, denied that the gas station would constitute a traffic menace. On the other hand, he said, the illumination would make night driving safer and would tend to make motorists slow up for the intersection. He said that to his personal knowledge one of the signers of the petition opposing the rezoning had sold twenty corner sites in residential sections of Washington to be used as gas stations.

More Gas Stations Threatened.

He claimed that failure to rezone would work a hardship on Mr. Ostmann, who has been offered a high price for his property. Charles Marbury, also an attorney for Mr. Ostmann, said that $8,500 had been offered for the property for which Mr. Wilkins had considered $2,500 excessive.

Elisha Hanson and M. Copeland, property owners in the section affected, declared that they would also sell their property as gas stations if the reclassification is granted.

George P. Sacks, president of the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce, stated that the Bethesda chamber opposed granting the petition.

Lacy Shaw, president of the Montgomery County Commissioners, who presided, announced that the commissioners intend making a thorough study and that it probably will be two weeks before their decision is announced.

GLEN ECHO WILL ASK LARGER BOND POWER

Will Tell Maryland Legislature Money Is Lacking for Improvements.

SHAW TO STUDY ROADS

Amendment to the charter of the town of Glen Echo so that it can issue bonds against the town in excess of $500 a year will be asked of the present session of the General Assembly of Maryland, according to Mayor H. T. McCuen. The town has decided not to align itself with the western suburban district of Montgomery County and will continue to handle its own fiscal affairs.

Town officials do not believe that the 30 cent district tax would be adequate to pay for the needs of the town, pointing out that this would only raise about $900 a year as the present taxable basis of the town is approximately $230,000. The town now collects about $1,500 yearly in taxes. The sum of $900 a year would barely pay for the lighting of the town, Mayor McCuen said.

The present charter prohibits the town from issuing bonds for more than $500 a year and the amount borrowed must be repaid within the year. If the proposed amendment to the charter is approved by the Legislature, the town would be permitted to borrow approximately $11,500 to pay for an ambitious program of street and sidewalk repair and construction and to make other municipal improvements.

This would provide the modernization of the town's municipal plant without making it necessary to raise the present tax rate of 50 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. The tax rate does not provide enough money at one time to make any noticeable progress in the provision of streets and sidewalks and to care for their repair which has led to haphazard street location and no definite street program.

The town officials also feel that the charter should be amended to provide certain qualifications for the mayor and members of the town council. The mayor would be required to be at least 35 years old and a property owner and resident of the town and members of the council would be required to have reached the age of 25 years and to be property owners and residents.

Lacy Shaw, president of the Montgomery County commissioners, and John N. Hunter, president of Hunter Brothers, large machinery supply house of Silver Spring, will leave today for St. Louis where they will attend the sessions of the American Road Builders Association.

Commissioner Shaw, who has been a proponent of good roads since his accession to office, expects to learn much of the latest information on road building and upkeep at the meeting, which will be held Monday and Tuesday. In view of the fact that an ambitious road building program has been recommended by the Montgomery County Civic Federation and probably will be authorized by the State Legislature and county commissioners, Mr. Shaw feels that he should make every effort to study road building developments, he said yesterday.

Mrs. Clay Plummer has been elected president of the Ladies' Bible Class of Epworth M. E. Church, Gaithersburg. Other officers elected were Mrs. John Mullinix, vice president; Mrs. Webster Seward, secretary, and Mrs. Roland Walker, treasurer. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. William G. Davis, who served refreshments.

Alfred Harding, colored, 23 years old, of Rockville, was arrested yesterday by Montgomery County Policeman Roy Bodmer and charged with the larceny of seventeen chickens from the hennery of Emory Hendley, of near Rockville. Harding will be arraigned in police court at Rockville today.

Officer Bodmer recovered six chickens, which were identified by Mr. Handley as being his property. Identification was made by ownership marks which had been placed on the chickens.

Melvin Proctor, colored, of Brookville, Md., was arrested yesterday on charges of larceny of coal from the Brookville public school. The warrant was sworn out by William T. Downs, of Brookeville, who told Policeman Roy Bodmer that he had seen the Negro carrying coal from the school. Proctor will be arraigned in county police court at Rockville today.

Mrs. Martha Blundon has been elected president of the Woman's Guild of Grace Episcopal Church, Woodside. Other officers elected were: Mrs. Halsey Rogers, vice president; Mrs. Frank Pohanka, treasurer; Mrs. Faun Monroe, recording secretary; Mrs. Ralph Bubb, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Walter Brown, auditor.

Silver Spring's new $8,000 fire engine is expected to arrive about Thursday, the local volunteer fire department has been notified.

TWO MEN WANTED IN FAIRFAX LOCATED

WELFARE REPORT MADE

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

After eighteen months' search, Sheriff Eppa P. Kirby has located two men, Willie LeHew, alias James Snellings, and Columbus Campbell, alias Earl Nichols, in the jail at Frederick, Md., where they are being held by the Maryland authorities on a number of criminal charges, including calf and car thefts. According to Sheriff Kirby, the two are alleged to have stolen a calf in October, 1929, from U. S. Walters in McLean, taking it into Washington to sell it to Walter Brown.

Early this week Sheriff Kirby was notified by the Frederick, Md., police they had arrested the two men for similar thefts in that State. Deputy Sheriff Henry Magarity made a trip to Frederick and identified the men and placed a detainer warrant from Fairfax against them. Sheriff Kirby states that as soon as the Maryland authorities are finished with them they will be returned to the county.

Marty Stein, 19, and John Butler, 19, giving their address as Philadelphia, Pa., were lodged in the Fairfax County Jail yesterday, charged with grand larceny. According to Deputy Sheriff George P. McCann, the two youths entered the store of Rex Ingram, on the Washington-Richmond highway at Petlands, and asked for a piece of pie, and while Mrs. Ingram was getting it snatched several articles of merchandise, valued at about $100, and ran, finally escaping on a motorcycle. The theft occurred about 9 o'clock Thursday night.

They were arrested early yesterday morning in Alexandria by Policeman Wesley Snoots and several of the articles alleged to have been stolen from Ingram were found in their possession. A third youth, giving his name as Thomas Johnson, 19, also of Philadelphia, was arrested at the same time. They were taken before Justice of the Peace Arthur Kirby, at Groveton, by Deputy Sheriff McCann and Fairfax County Policeman Arthur W. Mills.

There, the police say, Butler and Stein admitted the theft, exonerating Johnson. Justice Kirby ordered Butler and Stein held for the action of the grand jury and Johnson was released.

The report of Mrs. Louise Manghum, superintendent of public welfare for Fairfax County, for the last year shows that a total of 684 calls were made during that time. Their nature has been varied, as may be seen from the following report: Court cases settled or dismissed, 11; convictions in court cases, 3; delinquents committed to the State Board of Public Welfare, 20; feeble-minded commitments 'juveniles), 2; insane commitments adults, 6; juveniles on parole, 11; cruelty to children, investigations, 15; requests from families to place children, 11 families; number of children placed in families, 12; children not in school, investigations, 16 families; adults requesting employment, 3; adults employed, 3; families supplied with food and clothing, 30. This number does not include those on the county poor fund. A majority of these families have received food and clothing at various times through the year; families and children returned to other States, 8; investigations made for agencies for other States and counties, 11.

The financial report for the year shows that contributions amounted to $595.25 and expenditures to $469.64, leaving a balance to start this year of $123.61. In addition to the contributions of money there was also a large amount of clothing and food.

Mrs. Manghum urges that any one in the county knowing of persons who are in distressing circumstances to notify her at once or communicate with the following members of the county welfare board: Judge A. C. Ritchie, Fairfax; Mrs. J. Hunter Mack, at McLean; Mrs. Randall Caton, R. F. D. No. 1, Alexandria; Miss Mattie Grundy, Falls Church; John W. Brookfield, Springfield, or Mrs. Russell A. Lynn, at Herndon.

Mrs. Lucy Anna Robey, one of the oldest residents of Fairfax County, died yesterday afternoon at her home in Merrifield. Mrs. Robey was born in Watertown, N. Y., 96 years ago and moved to Fairfax County with her parents when only 13 years old. She lived near Idylwood until the time of her marriage and has lived in her present home since 1869.

She is survived by two sons, Ernest Robey, of Merrifield; Herman Robey, of Idlywood, and five daughters, Mrs. Ella Robey, of Woodburn; Mrs. Clara Kidwell and Mrs. Ada Carleton, of Merrifield, Mrs. Lillie Melhorn, of Idylwood and Mrs. Alice Alexander, of Washington, and a large number of grandchildren and great grandchildren. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Southern Methodist Church at Merrifield, with the Rev. C. A. Cannon, of Falls Church, officiating. Interment will be in the Merrifield Cemetery.

The Woodlawn Gavel Club has installed its new officers for the coming year, as follows: Thomas Hastings, president; A. H. Gebb, first vice president; Keith R. Barney, second vice president; Mark Freeman, secretary and treasurer; Thomas R. Nixon, chaplain, and Herbert W. Walker, sergeant at arms. They were installed by Past President Walter C. Woolf. The principal speaker of the evening was Robert S. Barrett, of Alexandria, who spoke on "Masonry in Europe."

The following officers of the Falls Church Lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, at Falls Church, were installed with elaborate ceremonies by District Deputy Grand Master Charles E. Butler, of Alexandria; Wilbur Fisher, noble grand; William Herrman, vice grand; C. W. Crossman, recording secretary; J. R. Gorham, financial secretary, and J. G. Abbott, treasurer.

The installation was attended by many of the members of Serepta, Potomac, Arlington and Accotink Lodges. Following the installation State Deputy Grand Master Frederick L. Flynn, of Alexandria, addressed the lodge. The most important event of the evening was the attendance of George W. Bontz, of the Potomac Lodge, who received the honors of the order in recognition of his services.

Forty years ago Mr. Bontz served on the degree staff that instituted the Odd Fellows Lodge at Falls Church. Mr. Bontz was 80 years old last Tuesday.

The holdup was so smooth, one of the girl employes said, that when she felt something pressed against her back she thought it was one of the other girls being playful. The pressure was caused by a pistol in the hands of one of the robbers.

When the men departed, Ellis Cohen defied their warning to remain still and gave chase in a commandeered car. The pursuit was fruitless. All of the men were about 35 years old, he told police.

ALEXANDRIA ALLOWS 497 TAX PROTESTS

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The local board of tax equalization has made its report, which indicates that of 759 persons who appeared before the board to protest the assessment of their property made by the board of assessors, 497 claims were allowed and 67 withdrew their applications. The amount of assessed valuation cut off by the board was $604,998.

The total assessed valuation of the property represented in the protests was $2,712,816.90, or slightly more than 13 per cent of the total assessed valuation of all Alexandria real estate, which is approximately $36,000,000, according to the original assessment, which was cut in half by the equalization board.

The board finished its hearings December 31, and since that time has been engaged in the clerical work incident to notifying the complainants and preparing its report. Many special meetings were held in addition to the regular meetings of the board, in order to complete its work as speedily as possible.

The board was composed of Michael T. Dwyer, chairman; C. W. Davis, Charles W. King, and Elliott F. Hoffman, who acted as clerk.

The hearing of the application of the Alexandria Water Co. before the State Corporation Commission, in the company's application for an increase in rates for water consumption, has been officially set for March 2, according to information received by Commonwealth's Attorney Albert V. Bryan, who is associated with City Attorney Carl Budwesky in representing the city before the corporation commission.

Mr. Bryan was also notified that the commission has postponed the effective date of the proposed rate increase to April 1, the original effective date having been announced as February 1, 1931. The schedule of increased rates was filed by the water company with the corporation commission October 30, last.

The street cleaning department will dispense with animal-drawn carts Monday, and four trucks will be placed in service, three in active use and one in reserve, according to City Manager Wallace Lawrence. This will mean than 12 horses owned by the city and used in this work will be for sale shortly.

It is believed that the use of trucks in the collection of trash and garbage will greatly facilitate the work. Dr. James J. Garvey is supervisor of the street cleaning department.

The fire siren which has been at the intersection of King and St. Asaph streets will at once be removed from its present location and installed in the tower of Columbia Engine Company No. 4, South St. Asaph street. This action was decided upon at an informal meeting of the city council.

It was originally intended by the city council to remove this siren to Potomac. This proposed action, however, was strenuously objected to by No. 4 company, and the order was modified.

The No. 4 company has also requested that a siren be installed at the intersection of King and Royal streets. This request, however, has not been acted upon by the council.

The local "Forty and Eight," honor society and playground of the American Legion, will hold its second ladies' night celebration at 7 o'clock next Friday evening at Hurshey's new Pirate Cove, at King and Royal streets. Clyde B. Lanham is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements, and is being assisted by Howard L. Arnold, Halley Dove, Joseph Fagelson, Ernest H. Hinkins, Charles W. King, H. B. Lemon, F. S. Remschell, Thurlow White, J. A. Boston, George F. Downham, W. Milton Glasgow, Louis F. Hoy, George R. King, James T. Preston, jr., Eugene Simpson, R. N. Moffett, Franklin De-Dier, Richard B. New York, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—Frank Martin, 44, dived headlong to his death today through a twelfth-story window of a West Forty-fourth street hotel and thereby "beat the rap" as head of a ring which has swindled hotels throughout the country of $50,000 by passing worthless checks.

Arrested in his room by a detective on complaint of the National Surety Co., Martin turned back ostensibly to get a magazine. Instead he ran to the window and leaped headlong.

GIRL'S PARENT FIXED DEATH TALES, CLAIM

INQUEST IS UNDER WAY

and Paddy, have been questioned but they steadfastly stay with their revised story. Then threading his way through the entangled investigation Sergt. Flaherty explained how Patrolman Langdon became involved in the slaying.

Langdon perked his head up at the mention of his name and riveted his eyes upon the witness. Another interested spectator was William Deegan, brother of Charles Deegan, the fatal shooting of whom brought Langdon and Patrolman Henry Rinke before a coroner's jury in 1925.

"On the morning of January 2, Sergt. Flaherty continued, "Detective Peck, of the Fifth Precinct, notified me that Langdon had found a bullet hole in the mattress of the cot where the girl slept, a shell in a coffee mug and a bullet under the flooring of the cot."

Said Sister Feared Langdon.

"While we were preparing to go to visit Langdon, who was on guard at the Limerick home, Mrs. Julia Bywaters, sister of Beulah, called Capt. Kelly and said she had some important information for us.

"On the way to the Limerick home we stopped to talk with Mrs. Bywaters and she said that her sister feared Policeman Langdon; that he had walked into her bedroom in the early morning hours, accused her of misconduct and could tell her of every one who went in and out of the house, and knew the books she read.

"On one occasion Mrs. Bywaters said Langdon had told Beulah that he had 'once bumped a woman off,' and he impressed her as being a 'bad man.' Then he went to the Limerick home and met Langdon."

Told of Langdon's Finds.

Langdon showed them, Sergt. Flaherty said, where he found the bullet hole in the mattress, blankets and quilt; where he found the bullet, and the coffee mug, in which he said he found a cartridge shell. The cot was in a front basement room, and the coffee mug was on a table in the kitchen of the three-story frame dwelling.

The homicide head then exhibited the blankets and mattresses and the coffee mug. Some difficulty was had in locating the bullet hole in the quilt. A search of ten minutes ensued, during which some wag in the back of the room suggested that the bullet hole might have been stolen.

"Langdon said he was looking for a gun," said Sergt. Flaherty, and I asked him if he expected to find one in a coffee mug. Te said 'Yes' and told us he had emptide sugar bowls in his search.

Found No Bullet Holes.

Assistant United States Attorney William H. Collins asked Flaherty if he had scrutinized the quilts, blankes and matress on January 1 and he replied in he affirmalve and added that he had found no bullet holes. Langdon's discovery was made early on he morning of January 2.

Langdon explained, the detective said, that he had investigated several complaints of disorderliness about the Limerick house. Early on the morning of December 31, he said, Langdon admitted following a man who emerged from the place.

"Langdon described this man minutely. He said it was about 1:20 a. m. He followed him to Bland's Lunchroom nearby, saying he believed he was going to a speakeasy. He inquired of a man in the lunchroom as to the identity of the young man and learned it was Paddy.

Admitted Peering Into Room.

Later Langdon admitted, Sergt. Flaherty said, that he had peered into the basement about 4 a. m. and saw the girl lying on the cot with her feet protruding from the blankets, as if trying to warm them at the stove. He flashed his light into the door window.

Langdon admitted, Sergt. Flaherty said, that he had entered the girl's home early one morning and that she had told him she had several cards from detectives and policemen. Asked who the detectives and policemen were, Sergt. Flaherty added, Langdon responded "I am no squealer." He said that on this occasion there was a man in the room by the name of Edward Myers, or Myers Edwards.

"On January 3," said Sergt. Flaherty, "I said to Langdon, 'isn't it true that you entered the house on that morning, accidentally discharged your gun, then stepped out of the place, because, as an officer, you would be unable to explain your presence in the house.'" Langdon replied: "No, if I had been there, I would have faced the music."

Denied He Warned Girl.

Records at the Fifth Precinct station, Sergt. Flaherty added, show that a written complaint had been made about the house and that neighbors had complained to officers on that beat. Langdon denied, Sergt. Flaherty declared, that he had ever warned the girl "not to tell other officers of his visits."

There was a disparity in testimony as to the condition of the murder room on the morning of the murder. Dr. Lyman J. Greene, an interne at Casualty Hospital, said that "immaculate slips and sheets were on the bed. Police and fire rescue men said that there were no sheets or pillow cases on the bed when they arrived.

Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald, who performed the autopsy, testified. He removed a battered .25-caliber bullet from the girl's head. He said there was a bruise on her left arm and a cut on her nose. He also found traces of alcohol in her stomach.

Dr. Greene testified that he told a policeman that the case was a coroner's case and denied that he said death was due to natural causes.

Policemen Saw No Blood.

The fire rescue squad and police of the Fifth Precinct disagreed as to the presence of blood on the pillows. Patrolmen Raymond L. Eubank, J. H. Bennett, John R. White and said they saw no blood on the pillows.

Lieut. A. C. Kefauver, of the fire rescue squad, testified that he saw blood under the girl's head when he tied a cloth about her head to close her mouth. Private Sherwood Perry, of the fire rescue squad, corroborated Lieut. Kefauver's testimony.

Fred G. Byrne, an undertaker, of 816 H street northeast, testified that he obtained permission from the coroner's office to move the body to W. W. Deal's funeral parlors, where Carl Anderson called his attention to the blood on the back of the girl's head. He, in return, notified the coroner.

Said Langdon Visited Him.

Byrne said that Langdon visited him on January 1 and "tried to find out something from him concerning the condition of the girl's body.

The inquest, originally scheduled to be held in the District Morgue, was shifted to the District Building when it was found that the morgue room was too small to accommodate the 52 witnesses summoned and the relatives and friends of the dead girl and the imprisoned men.

James Shea is counsel for Paddy, Reed and Limerick, while Harry T. Whelan, Louis Whitestone and W. W. O'Connell are representing Langdon. Mr. Collins is handling the Government's case.

The inquest will be resumed at 11 o'clock today. It will probably last until early next week.

Officials to Study Terminal Problem

With the Alexandria-Washington Electric Railway facing the possibility of having to abandon its operations because of the lack of provision for a terminal in the Government triangle area, officials of the line will confer with the National Capital Park and Planning Commission today, at the Navy Building, to decide what is to be done about the situation.

The company officials will be told of plans of the planning commission for a subway on Fourteenth street northwest, through the Mall, which would be used jointly by the line and the Washington Railway & Electric Co. The interurban line would be asked to meet 300,000 of the expense of establishing the improvement.

Suggestion has been made that the cars be run north of the Avenue, and loop around on the tracks of the Washington Railway & Electric Co., but the Public Utilities Commission is understood to be opposed to this proposal. If the electric railroad is abandoned, it would necessitate addition of 20 buses to care for patrons, according to Robert L. May, owner of the line.

Game Officials Speak At League Conference

Speeches by Maryland and Washington fish and game authorities featured the annual conference in Baltimore yesterday of the Izaak Walton League, Maryland and District of Columbia Regional Council. The address of welcome was given by Mayor Broening. Merle E. Towner, president of the Maryland Game and Fish Protective Association, presided.

Washingtonians who gave talks were Dr. M. D'Arcy Magee, Henry O'Malley, commissioner United States Bureau of Fisheries; Lewis Radcliffe, deputy commissioner of the same bureau, and Talbott Denmead, assistant United States game conservation officer in the Department of Agriculture.

DROUGHT SUFFERERS GET SYMPATHY VOTE

Episcopal Social Group for Washington Province Adopts Resolution.

13 DIOCESES INCLUDED

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 9 (A.P.).—The Protestant Episcopal Social Service Commission of the Province of Washington, in session here today, unanimously adopted a resolution expressing sympathy with movements to relieve conditions in the drought-stricken area of the province.

The Province of Washington comprises thirteen dioceses in eastern Pennsylvania, all of Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia.

The Rev. R. D. Nelson, of Winchester, Va., offered a resolution urging the membership of the church in the province of Washington to do everything possible in furtherance of the plan recommended by former Gov. Harry F. Byrd, of Virginia, for drought relief. A resolution had been adopted by members of the Winchester Portestant Episcopal Church requesting the provincial commission to take the matter up.

Adoption of the resolution was urged by the Rev. Mr. Nelson, but a motion was unanimously adopted stating that, "As the membership of the province comes from industrial and agricultural territory, it does not feel qualified to take definite action. However, the provincial conference expressed deep sympathy with any move that may be made to relieve conditions in the drought area."

Bishop Frank W. Stewart, of Bethlehem, Pa., was authorized to appoint a committee to study marriage laws in the province, with the object of making recommendations for the enactment of such laws as would make for uniformity.

The next meeting of the commission will be held in Baltimore between October 15 and November 15.

Gift of Massachusetts Legion Will Be Hung in Virginia Capitol Monday.

HIS LAST, ADMIRAL SAYS

Winchester, Va., Jan. 9 (A.P.).—Miss Westwood Byrd, daughter of former Gov. Harry Flood Byrd, will unveil a portrait of Rear Admiral Evelyn Byrd, the gift of the American Legion, Department of Massachusetts, to the State of Virginia at the Capitol, with appropriate ceremonies Monday.

Mrs. Richard Evelyn Byrd, mother of Admiral Byrd, Harry Flood Byrd and his family, Admiral Byrd and his family, and Thomas Byrd and his daughter, and Gov. Pollard were the only specially invited guests to the unveiling, but the public at large has been extended an invitation to be present at the ceremonies, which will be held at 2:45 p. m.

Shows Admiral Sailing.

The painting, which shows Admiral Byrd sailing for the South Pole, is the work of Joseph G. Cowell, of Massachusetts. It was presented to the State of Virginia at the national American Legion convention held in Boston last October.

Col. B. M. Roszell, past commander of the Department of Virginia, will deliver the presentation address and the portrait will be accepted by Gov. Pollard.

The unveiling will be held in connection with the annual conference of the post officers of the American Legion.

Address by Governor.

The legion women's auxiliary and the Virginia Society of Forty-and-Eight also will meet here Monday and the principal address of the day will be made by Gov. Pollard.

CONVICTIONS MOUNT ON DRINKING CHARGE

Increase Has Followed Dry Law, Figures Indicate at Charlottesville.

CHECK 21-YEAR RECORD

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Jan. 9.—In the year 1920, the year in which the eighteenth amendment became effective, there was a noticeable increase here in convictions on the charge of drunkenness, under statistics compiled by Maurice F. Greaver, chief of police. The number continued to mount until 1926, when there was a sharp decline, the record shows, but the total picked up again in the following year, and has steadily increased since then.

The survey covers a period of 21 years, from 1910 to 1930, inclusive. It is based on prohibition cases tried in police court.

In 1919, 77 persons were found guilty of being drunk. In the following year the number was 111, and in 1925 the court adjudged 494 guilty of the same offense.

The number convicted of drunkenness each year was as follows: 138 in 1910, 236 in 1911, 133 in 1912, 104 in 1913, 77 in 1914, 98 in 1915, 143 in 1916, 80 in 1917, 83 in 1918, 77 in 1919, 111 in 1920, 257 in 1921, 400 in 1922, 384 in 1923, 414 in 1924, 494 in 1925, 236 in 1926, 260 in 1927, 300 in 1928, 369 in 1929 and 320 in 1930.

For the first six years no person was convicted in Charlottesville on a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of ardent spirits. For the next five years less than five were convicted each year.

Beginning with the year 1921, the statistics covering conviction on this count were: 16 in 1921, 34 in 1922, 40 in 1923, 44 in 1924, 61 in 1925, 43 in 1926, 57 in 1927, 67 in 1928, 91 in 1929 and 72 in 1930.

PLEA OF IMMUNITY BY REPORTER FAILS

Cumberland Judge Rules He Must Answer Grand Jury Questions.

THREE OTHERS HEARD

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Jan. 9.—Four newspaper men were before the grand jury today delaying adjournment for the January term several hours, as the result of the publication in the Evening Times yesterday of an article headed: "Slot machines back in operation again." The grand jury decided the article was "based on hearsay reports," so no action was taken.

The newspaper men were Frank Lee Carl, city editor; M. Frank Prendergast, sports editor; Richard P. McCardell and David H. Murrie. Carl, Prendergast and McCardell were discharged, but Murrie, a reporter, was taken before Judge Doub because he refused to answer questions. He claimed press immunity under article 35, section 2 of the State code, which reads:

"No person engaged in, connected with or employed on a newspaper or journal shall be compelled to disclose, in any legal proceedings or trial, or before any committee of the Legislature, or elsewhere, the source of any news or information procured or obtained by him for and published in any newspaper on and in which he is engaged, connected with or employed."

Judge Doub, however, ruled the reporter must answer all questions put to him by the grand jury. The article told of the operation of new machines in the Georges Creek region, and Murrie testified he saw a machine in operation and played a machine.

Special to The Washington Post.

The water department, where a deficit also was expected, reported a surplus of $16,926, and the school board a surplus of $24,830.

The city expended $246,794 for permanent improvements, and the water department $38,971, in 1930.

STRIKERS' HEARING CLOSES IN MISTRIAL

Decision to Be Made Monday Whether Case Against 33 Will Be Dropped.

CHANGE EVICTION PLANS

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Jan. 9.—A jury in the Corporation Court, after deliberating for two hours, failed to reach a decision late this evening in the case of 33 strikers, tried for constituting an unlawful assembly in connection with stoning the homes of three nonunion workers, on November 25. All had been convicted in the Police Court, fined $50 and sentenced to jail for 30 days. On Monday a decision will be reached whether or not the case shall be taken up again.

The jury, after an hour and a half, told the court that it had agreed as to guilt, but not as to punishment. The jury foreman asked if a fine could be imposed. On being told that it could, the jury retired. Ten minutes later the jury reappeared and announced it could not agree and a mistrial was ordered.

Three nonunion witnesses testified that a group of 50 marching men and women passed their homes, and threw rocks as they did so. In no instance were any of those on trial identified, but a police squad hastening to the scene overtook the marchers near the homes which were stoned.

Evictions which were ordered for Monday against families of 40 strikers, occupying textile company owned homes at Schoolfield, have been postponed "a couple of days," by Magistrate R. S. Fitts, whose home was damaged by dynamite some weeks ago. "I ain't going to turn out anybody in weather like this," he said, referring to a new snow fall and 20-degree temperatures. "Most of them are moving out of their own accord, and we don't want to have to put out any of them," he said. It was learned that several families have moved already and secured private property in Danville.

A new problem caused by the strike came to light today, when it was learned that directors of Memorial Hospital met last night to consider the loss of between $6,000 and $7,000, largely constituting unpaid bills of strikers who have had hospital treatment.

"We could not refuse to take them in," said Col. A. B. Carrington, chairman of the board. "And we intend to do the best we can, but we have no endowment. These people can not be left to suffer in cold houses, and lacking proper nourishment, even though they can't pay." The board has requested the Pittsylvania Board of Supervisors to make available a fund for the hospitalization of the strikers. During normal times the mill company has stood sponsor for hospital bills of employees.

Farm Federation Asks Drought Aid

Maryland Legislature Is Urged to Act if Loan Board Fails.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 9 (A.P.).—The Maryland Farm Bureau Federation called on the legislature today for an appropriation to meet the needs of drought stricken farmers in the event aid is not forthcoming soon from the Drought Loan Corporation set up in skeleton form last fall. The demand was made in a resolution approved at the convention of the federation, and allied organizations, in session for three days.

The Drought Loan Corporation was set up by a State relief commission, appointed by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie. Designed to lend money to farmers without collateral for bank loans, it has an authorized capital stock of 50,000 shares with a par value of $10 each, but has never started to function.

Dr. Thomas B. Symons, extension director of the University of Maryland, said in an address that the drought cost the farmers in the State $40,000,000. Dr. Symons is secretary-treasurer of the relief commission.

DEFENSE ACT SPURS LINGLE PROSECUTION

Brothers Gets Habeas Corpus Writ and Foes Plan to Forestall It.

WILL GO TO GRAND JURY

Chicago, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—A writ of habeas corpus served tonight to speed the disposition of proceedings against Leo V. Brothers, who has been held incommunicado for nineteen days as the alleged slayer of Alfred (Jake) Lingle, Tribune reporter.

The writ, returnable Wednesday, was granted to attorneys acting on the authority of Mrs. Jessie Jessen, Webster Grove, Mo., mother of Brothers.

As a result, the State's attorney's office indicated that it would forestall Brothers' release by asking an indictment from the grand jury before Wednesday, when the gangster must be produced in Judge Philip Finnegan's court.

Attorney Tyrell Krum had demanded for Brothers an immediate writ of habeas corpus. He was met by objections from Q. J. Chott, assistant prosecutor.

Prosecutor's Statement.

"Only in the last day or two," Chott said, "have the Lingle investigators had evidence justifying any action. The State's attorney will, without delay, present this matter to the grand jury. Why should the witnesses come to this court when they can give their testimony to the grand jury in secret?"

"He is not charged with murder," said Krum.

"He will be charged with murder," Chott said.

"Let us see our client," said Krum. Judge Finnegan refused.

Sergt. Fred Joyner, of the State's attorney's office, was en route to St. Louis, where he will question Margaret Farmer, said to be Brothers' sweetheart. She asserts that she has not seen Brothers since he fled from St. Louis to escape a charge of murder.

Premonition of Death.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 9 (A.P.).—Thomas H. Lingle of San Francisco, brother of Alfred E. Lingle, told Denver newspapermen today his brother unwittingly predicted his death a short time before he was shot down. "Alfred had information Chicago was to be rocked by its biggest murder, one that would blast officialdom and be the cause of a campaign to clean up the city at any cost," Thomas Lingle said. "Although he refused to disrespect confidences he said he knew the 'mob' that was to do the killing, the approximate date on which it would take place, and the reason—because the proposed victim knew too much.

"All he did not know was that his gangster confidents had withheld the information that he was to be the victim."

Thomas Lingle, connected with a San Francisco milling firm, has been vacationing in Denver for the last three weeks. He said his brother had told him "a Chicago gunman is the world's worst double-crosser, but I believe I have figured out how far they can go in that line."

COURT IS IN TURMOIL AS MIX TRIAL ENDS

Judge Threatens Attorneys With Jail; Spectators Applaud Film Star.

NEVER DRUNK, HE SAYS

Natchez, Miss., Jan. 9 (A.P.).—With girls pushing and shoving in the courtroom to get a look, Tom Mix, film star, today denied on the stand charges made by his former wife and counsel for Zach T. Miller, producer of the 101 Ranch Shows, who is suing the actor for $50,000 damages on charges of breach of contract.

He said he was not a drunkard, had not occupied an apartment in a Chicago hotel with a woman circus performer, had not paid her bills and was not attempting to conceal his assets.

"I have never been under the influence of liquor," he testified.

"Now, don't you know what being under the influence of liquor means?" Miller's lawyer asked.

His Idea of Intoxication.

"A man is not under the influence of liquor until he has to hold on to the grass to keep from falling down," he said.

Answering his former wife's charges that "Tom had never paid a grocery bill in his life," Mix said he was "not stingy" and had paid "between $50,000 and $70,000 to the support of his second wife, Mrs. Olive Stokes Mix, and their daughter, Ruth, since their separation in 1913.

His second wife had testified she found Mix in a Chicago hotel with Miss Mabel Ward, of Chicago, a circus performer, but Mix denied they were there together.

Miss Ward later testified Mix was assisting her in preparing a new circus act and they merely happened to be staying at the same hotel.

She said she was present when Mix and his son-in-law, Gilmore, engaged in a fist fight in Mix's villa in Los Angeles. Mix admitted the fight, but said he did not know how many stitches had been taken in his son-in-law afterward. Opposing counsel wrangled angrily over attempts of plaintiff's counsel to offer evidence of Mix's financial worth, but the judge ruled it out.

Attorneys in Wrangle.

During the trial attorneys engaged in sharp verbal tilts that verged on physical encounters, but Chancellor R. W. Cutrer brought the wrangles to a close by threatening to put in jail John M. Kelly, of New York, Mix's lawyer, and F. Engle, of Natchez, one of Miller's attorneys. The judge accused them of "playing to the gallery."

Spectators broke into applause as Mix entered the courtroom, dressed in tan riding clothes and high-heeled boots. Mix smiled at his fans, but the judge threatened to run them out of the courtroom.

Both sides rested the case today. The court indicated it would take the case under advisement before handing down an opinion.

WOOD MEETS CLEVELAND, McKINLEY AND ROOSEVELT

Sent to Washington in 1895, Leonard Wood was assigned as assistant surgeon at White House when Grover Cleveland, left above, was President. Continuing under President William McKinley, right above. In this period he met Theodore Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, center below. Pictures of Wood are, right, as football player with Olympic Athletic Club, San Francisco, and, left, as officer at Presidio in early 90s.

WOOD PRESIDENTS' FRIEND

criticism which had something medieval in them.

There were certain things which must prevail, and he helped them prevail regardless of the men, the institutions or the theories which might incidentally be bruised.

By September, 1895, when Wood came to Washington, Cleveland was hugely unpopular. The politicians might have forgiven him if he had wrecked his country, but they could never forgive him for having wrecked his party. He let the hornets buzz and worked as before; undramatic as a ticket chopper; clumsy as a bear; unemotional and solid as a stone tower.

Wood Kept Busy.

Wood saw nothing at first of the President or his family, for a superior officer attended them. He had plenty to keep him busy. He was at the call of every Army officer in Washington, his patients lived all over the city, and his conveyance was as primitive as the gig which had carried his father thousands of miles each year over Cape Cod. He made friends quickly. It was "reassuring," it was said, to have him come into a sickroom. One devoted patient came 3,000 miles to be under his care. A brilliant officer named Runcle had declared to friends in San Francisco that there was only one man in the United States he would be willing to have operate upon him. The operation was on his throat near the jugular vein, and was risky. Wood pulled him through.

Washington brought Wood interesting work and stimulating contacts. It was a time for him of broadening out.

Wood met every one worth meeting. Cabinet officials, officers of the Army and Navy, senators, ministers from foreign parts. The President himself became aware of him and took him on an occasional fishing trip. Now and then, on these trips, they played poker for a low ante. When Wood once won 65 cents from the President it was a notable victory.

Played Football on Army Team.

It was harder in Washington for Wood to keep his body in trim than it had been at McPherson. He rode, he organized excursions by bicycle, he played football on an Army team. The game against veteran players of the Navy at Fortress Monroe late in 1896 was memorable for the excitement on the sidelines. Wood knew the naval men as well as he knew his own teammates, called them by name, joked with them, made the whole proceeding a kind of family party, taking the sting out of bruises and rough tackles.

The change of administrations in 1897 brought a decided change also for Wood. Mrs. McKinley was a confirmed invalid, a gentle, vague, faraway creature, pathetic and unrestrained, who had lost two children years before and had never recovered her hold on life or on herself. The President was her slave. Every day he drove with her in a closed brougham, and whatever other free time he found he gave to her, holding her hand for hours on one occasion when she was in the dentist's chair. Wood was in daily attendance on her, solicitous and stimulating. It was not a case for medicines or surgery. Wood brought the abundance of life into the shaded room in which she lived, the romance of strength and vitality and physical beauty, the elixir of ambition and assurance. She grew stronger in body and mind. The President's gratitude was unbounded.

Early in June, 1897, Wood met Theodore Roosevelt. It was at a house of a lawyer named James Lowndes, a man of charm and cultivation.

Wood Meets Roosevelt.

"In the evening," Roosevelt, on June 18, wrote his wife, who was at Oyster Bay, "I dined at the Lowndes, who were just dear. There was a very interesting Dr. Wood of the Army there. He had been all through those last Apache campaigns which were harassing beyond belief."

They walked home together that night. Their minds ran up the same wide valleys and sought the same wind-swept highlands. Roosevelt was fresh from the dramatic conflicts of his police commissionership in New York, bursting with tales of thrilling bravery and unbelievable crookedness, ebullient without parallel, jumping like a chamois from theme to theme—reform, politics, literature, history, science—indignant, jocose, ironic, unctuous. He shared Wood's feeling for the Western frontier and matched Wood's yarns.

They both were men who needed violent exercise and they took to riding together or scrambling up the cliffs above Rock Creek, on Sundays with a swarm of children, on other occasions with whomever they could pick up who needed stimulation or punishment. When the cool weather came in October they invited Henry Cabot Lodge to kick a football with them in an empty lot, and, when snow fell, inveigled some innocent foreign attaches to ski with them. The hills were steep, the snow was shallow, but nothing seemed ever to hurt Roosevelt or Wood. The foreigners were less armored in muscle. To the assistant attending surgeon and the Assistant Secretary of the Navy exercise was as necessary as food and drink.

"My dear Wood," Roosevelt would write. "Tomorrow (Wednesday) can you take a walk or a football kick or something vigorous? For ten days I have done nothing and I am feeling as if I had been stewed, but I had a nice walk with the children on Sunday in spite of the rain and only regretted that Leonard could not go.

"Ask Mrs. Wood when I shall come around on Thursday. I shall really be relieved to have her get ocular evidence that I don't always wear a slouch hat, knickerbockers and hobnailed shoes."

Wood and Roosevelt enjoyed Washington, but they chafed increasingly under the sense that nothing was happening and nothing was likely to happen, and they were getting along in years; and if ever they were to do things worth doing it was about time that they began.

When the gold rush in Alaska brought chaos and suffering along the Yukon Roosevelt and Wood discussed seriously the possibility of organizing an expedition to take a supply of reindeer through the snow-choked mountain passes. Their plans were well advanced when Roosevelt called a halt. In the Caribbean a tempest was brewing and Roosevelt thought there might be more important and more useful work for them nearer home.

Conditions in Cuba, indeed, were going from bad to worse. Eighty years of autocratic government, punctuated by bloody and futile insurrections, had culminated in the most brutal of Spain's tyrannies and the most ruthless of the Cubans' revolts. The American public watched the struggle with honest solicitude. A memory of Spain as the arch enemy of Anglo-Saxon civilization survived, mingled with nursery tales of conquistadors, gold-crazy and sadistic. Any fight for freedom from anybody could, moreover, still kindle a fire in the average American heart.

Americans were a little bored with the drab current of their own lives. Materialism offered its own selection of escapes when the materialist was making money; but very few had been making money for a decade, and materialism without money was as a man selling his soul to a Satan without power.

The Nation wanted romance; not the romance of its own steel mills and smoking cities, its capitalists dreaming in millions, its inventors laying the foundations of a new world, but of accepted, sentimental stage properties—moonlight and palm trees and knightly ardor and triumph. Wood and Roosevelt, hard-headed as they were, were not altogether different in this from the bulk of their countrymen.

On their walks together they discussed the possibilities of whatever military enterprise the emancipation of Cuba might require on the part of the United States and made inquiries regarding the Nation's military resources. No one in the War Department seemed to know much about anything beyond the limits of the day's routine.

The gentlemen in the swivel chairs were thinking in terms not of armies, but of Army posts; not of campaigns, but of requisitions. The cult of the regulation, in 50 petty garrisons, found behind the tier on tier of meaningless little pillars that littered the facade of the War Department its temple and its priesthood.

Gen. Miles, coming to Washington as commanding general, energetic, conscious of his powers and eager to do, had, like most of his predecessors, felt the hypnotic influence of ancient liturgies and tinkling bells. He found that in that hierarchy he countéd as little as a Moravian bishop in the college of cardinals. He might or might not have great plans of reform; in either case it did not matter. The adjutant general was the real power; the archbureaucraft was pope.

Navy Made Ready for War.

The Navy was in no such bondage, and after the destruction of the Maine Roosevelt was able, surreptitiously almost, to get it ready in spite of a pacifistic Secretary sustained in the presence of hard facts by Boston's theories of what should be true, if it weren't. He confided to Wood his successive triumphs.

The President, who had no intention of permitting the country to go to war if he could help it, regarded his two energetic young friends with amused tolerance. "Well, have you and Theodore declared war yet?" he would ask when Wood dropped in of a morning.

"No, Mr. President, we have not, but I think you will, sir."

"I shall never get into a war," McKinley said one morning with great seriousness, "until I am sure that God and man approve. I have been through one war; I have seen the dead piled up, and I do not want to see another."

Such qualms were not in accordance with the public mood. The country had made up its mind that the situation in Cuba constituted a public nuisance which would have to be cleaned up once and for all; exchanged notes with Spain over a decent period, and on April 19 whooped to war through a tumult of bands that played "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight."

SLAVERY IN LIBERIA MUST END, SAYS U.S.

State Department Presses Demands in Exchange of Notes.

REPORT IS TO BE ISSUED

(Associated Press.)

The Washington and Liberian governments have been in frequent communication in the last month with the United States insisting that slavery be abolished in the Negro republic.

While it had first been indicated no correspondence had taken place between the American and Liberian governments since the State Department's initial memorandum demanding abolition of the slave trade, it was disclosed yesterday that diplomatic pressure on the question has been brought to bear.

Following an acknowledgment by Liberia of the State Department's original demand which precipitated the resignations of President King and Vice President Yancy, the two governments, it was learned, have been in constant communication.

Throughout the formal exchange of notes and informal discussions in Liberia between the American legation and the Liberian government, the State Department has pressed vigorously its position that Liberia must meet the recommendations of the commission which recently concluded an investigation of enforced labor conditions.

So far the State Department has met Liberia's replies with the assertion that its efforts and proposed efforts to abolish slavery have not been satisfactory.

The department will make public tonight the full report of the commission which found slavery conditions existed. Demands for abolition were based upon this document.

THREE DIE, ONE HURT IN AIRPLANE PLUNGE

CROWD IS KEPT QUIET

Miami, Fla., Jan. 9 (A.P.).—Three men were killed and a fourth was critically injured as a speeding airplane crashed to earth at the all-American air meet here today. The plane was not a race entrant.

The dead: James W. Riddle, 23, Chicago, pilot of the plane; Bob C. Smalley, Chicago; Dr. Harry A. Ware, Chicago.

Dr. A. J. Smalley, 54, Chicago, suffered fractures of both arms, both legs and his back, with possible internal injuries.

The crash occurred early in the afternoon. A black cabin plane in which the quartet rode plunged to the earth 70 feet from number 2 pylon of the 15-mile race coures.

Had Been Told to Wait.

They were starting to return to the North after attending the meet, but had been forbidden to leave the municipal airport field by Ray Washburn, operations manager, until after races were concluded.

The radio operator at No. 2 pylon flashed word of the crash to the judges' stand, at first reporting the accident was a collision. He helped to extricate the dead and injured from the demolished plane. The engine was buried deep in the soft muck land, and the body of Smalley had to be dug out. The bodies were scarred and lacerated almost beyond identification.

Little excitement was occasioned as ambulances sped behind the gallery of 7,500 spectators. Judges ordered the next race run at once and no announcement of the tragedy was made at the field.

The plane had not been entered in any of the events of the meet, the ocupants being spectators.

Owner Was Official of Firm.

Bob C. Smalley, owner of the plane, was vice president and general manager of the Stinson-Illinois Co., which is a factory branch of the Stinson Aircraft Corporation, Wayne, Ill. He was also a former leader in aeronautical development and aviation organizations in St. Petersburg and other Florida cities.

Mr. Smalley left Chicago December 28 and arrived in St. Petersburg December 30. He was accompanied by Dr. Ware and Dr. Smalley, prominent Chicago surgeons. Mr. Smalley was inspecting Florida airports with a view to the establishment of a branch factory of the Stinson Aircraft Corporation. They and Riddle left St. Petersburg yesterday in Smalley's plane for the Miami air races.

Bob C. Smalley and Dr. Smalley were cousins.

Riddle had been appointed superintendent of the city waterfront airport at St. Petersburg and had expected to take up his duties Monday.

RIGHT TO INTERVENE IN DRY LAW IS ASKED

ARGUMENT JANUARY 21

(Associated Press.)

Permission to intervene in the Supreme Court's hearing on the validity of the eighteenth amendment was asked yesterday by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Argument upon the decision of Federal Judge Clark in New Jersey that the eighteenth amendment was adopted in an unconstitutional manner has been set by the court for January 21.

Counsel for the association, in asking leave to file a brief, stated "the Negro citizens of this country have an important stake" in the recent decision of Judge Clark.

They contended that "if it is true that the eighteenth amendment was not constitutionally adopted because the surrender of State powers to the Federal Government could only be accomplished by action of State conventions, then it might similarly be argued that the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments were unconstitutionally adopted. These three amendments likewise involved the surrender of State powers to the Federal Government."

The thirteenth amendment abolishing slavery, the fourteenth, requiring due process of law on the part of States and imposing a penalty upon such States as failed to recognize the rights of the Negroes, and the fifteenth amendment, which guaranteed the right to vote, were adopted in the same manner as the eighteenth amendment.

TURKEY ASKS SHARE IN EXPORT OF OPIUM

EARLY REPLY IS LIKELY

Geneva, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—Turkey today made a bid for a share in the world's legitimate opium business by offering to enter the Geneva narcotics convention if the other signatory manufacturers would concede her "a fair quota" of the international trade in stupefying drugs.

The offer was voiced by Chevkat Fouat Bey, speaking before the League of Nations advisory committee on opium. He gave figures on Turkey's exports to European countries, and said that on every shipment his government notified the consulate of the destination country. While admitting fraud sometimes was effected and regulations evaded, he denied Turkey was the center of illicit traffic.

"It is an unwarranted and arbitrary act to seek to exclude Turkey from the world's legitimate market," Chevkat Fouat Bey said, referring to a recent London conference of narcotic-manufacturing states which denied Turkey a quota on the ground that she was manufacturing for the illicit trade.

He asserted it was the Turkish government's humanitarian spirit which impelled it to desire to cooperate with league agencies in supressing illicit traffic.

The committee will reply tomorrow or later to Turkey's proposal.

The antiopium experts were encouraged by the spirit shown at the opening of the meeting, in which for the first time sat representatives of several countries which are non-manufacturers of narcotics.

Among these were Costro Leal, of Mexico; Julio Casares, of Spain; Augusto de Vascancellos, of Portugal, who was elected chairman, and Alfredo de Castro, of Uruguay. J. K. Caldwell, of the State Department, sits as an observer for the United States.

The biggest question regarding the coming May conference on narcotics is whether the committee will recommend to the league council that the new convention shall be extended to include all narcotic drugs.

ARMY-NAVY TRUCE FORCED BY HOOVER

and at Pearl Harbor, which is in the Pacific near Honolulu, both the Army and the Navy maintain air stations much like the joint Army and Navy air station in Anacostia.

The Army has contended that the Navy had no right to maintain planes there, especially planes carrying a torpedo and bombs. Military planes, the Army argued, were perfectly capable of defending Coco Solo and Pearl Harbor, and the Navy planes should be removed to aircraft carriers at sea.

Planes Needed, Navy's Retort.

The Navy's retort was that maintaining planes at Coco Solo and Pearl Harbor had nothing to do with coast defense; that the planes were needed there to protect the sea lanes of communication—that is, to keep a submarine, say, from attacking a troop convoy or a cargo convoy as it moved in or out of the harbor.

As for the Army's charge that the Navy was trying to take over all aviation having to do with coast defense, the Navy's reply was that the Army was talking through its campaign hat.

A year and a half ago Secretary of War Hurley took the fight against the Navy direct to President Hoover, and the President in turn ordered the Bureau of Efficiency to make an investigation.

So far as Coco Solo and Pearl Harbor are concerned, the bureau, it is understood, sympathized with the Navy.

Called Patrol Planes.

Under the terms of the agreement reached yesterday, the Navy will continue to maintain planes at Coco Solo and Pearl Harbor. Ostensibly they are patrol planes, but each carries a torpedo and several 50-pound bombs.

Recently, President Hoover called on the Army and Navy heads to get together, and yesterday's truce was the result. It must be a good one, because both sides claim a victory.

The Army now is assured that it alone is responsible for defending the coast by air, while the Navy continues to have its planes at Coco Solo and Pearl Harbor for the purpose of keeping the lanes of communication open.

"The present agreement," said Secretary of the Navy Adams, "is being heralded as the beginning of the closest cooperation that has ever existed between the two great branches of our national defense. It is, therefore, welcomed with acclaim by the personnel of both the Army and the Navy."

Representative to Speak at Mission.

Frank L. Bowman, representative from West Virginia, will be the speaker at the evening service tomorrow in the chapel of the Central Mission, 613 C street northwest. The soloist will be Miss Ethel Bayley.

U. S. Would Weather-Map Ocean Area for Air Mail

Bureau Head Expects European Ships to Aid in Giving Reports Contributing to Pilots' Safety in Hurricane Section.

(Associated Press.)

A slice of ocean bigger than the United States was mapped out yesterday as needing more adequate weather reports in view of the new transoceanic airmail route soon to be readvertised.

C. L. Mitchell, chief of the United States Weather Bureau, said complete weather reporting for this vast ocean area, harried by hurricanes at certain seasons, would be feasible if European ships would report to the bureau here.

Since international operation of the new route is indicated, United States flag planes carrying the mails as far as Bermuda, and either British or French companies continuing through the Azores to Europe, Mitchell advanced the opinion that speedier international exchange of weather warnings would be of mutual advantage.

Even the hurricane season, dreaded by the earth-bound, need have no terror for pilots if weather reports are accurate, Mitchell said.

"An airplane travels so much faster than a hurricane," the weather expert explained. "A hurricane's rate over the ocean is not more than 12 or 15 miles per hour. And exceedingly strong winds are seldom more than 200 miles in diameter. Informed at the time of departure, a pilot can alter his course enough to avoid them.

Mitchell gave an instance of an airplane having encountered a 100-mile per hour wind and landing safely.

But hurricanes, in their center of greatest velocity, sometimes attain 200 miles an hour, he said, that being the rate reported for the Porto Rico hurricane, the heaviest in weather records.

He expressed hope that before the next hurricane season, radio reports would be available immediately from the Cape Verde Islands, where many of the tropic storms originate.

The area in need of hurricane reporting from ships at sea he defined as the sweeping parallelogram that has Bermuda, the Azores, Santiago, near the African Coast, and the Windward Islands, near the South American Coast, as the four corners.

Already the Weather Bureau can give adequate reports to pilots at all seasons, as far as Bermuda, Mitchell said, but in the hurricane season storms may originate over that water area of which the Weather Bureau remains uninformed.

food loan fund, incorporated in the $45,000,000 drought appropriation bill, Chairman Wood, of the House appropriations committee, charged in that branch that Communists were conducting agitation for the proposal.

Blames Communists.

He charged "Communists and anArchists" also were trying to destroy the banking system of the country and said the food riot at England, Ark., was a staged affair.

Mr. Wood said only about 40 "organizers who had no standing in the community" did the rioting.

"If this is allowed to go on the end is inevitable," he added.

Reading from a copy of the Daily Worker, a Communist organ, Mr. Wood said activities such as those occurring in Arkansas and Oklahoma, to bring about demands for Federal aid, were sponsored in articles appearing in it.

Mr. Wood said that when the House was trying to get some relief legislation passed, these "human vultures" were trying to capitalize human suffering.

Emissaries, he said, were being sent into the drought areas to take advantage "of distress down there."

La Guardia Replies.

Representative La Guardia (Republican), New York, followed with the assertion that while Mr. Wood suggested "extermination of the vultures" he also asked "continuation of the misery."

There are hungry people all over Arkansas, he said, and agitators can work without especial difficulty in such a fertile field.

"The way to eliminate the vultures is to do away with the condition," La Guardia added.

La Guardia said that if the Senate's $15,000,000 food provision in the drought relief appropriation bill were broadened to make the fund apply to the country as a whole he would withdraw his objection to sending the measure to conference.

MOVABLE REVIVAL TO START MONDAY

Georgetown to See Innovation Which Is to Continue Two Weeks.

TO MEET IN ROTATION

An adventure in religion altogether unique has been organized by the pastors of a group of churches in Georgetown. It is none other than a movable revival. Other groups in Washington, notably a group in Chevy Chase, have held and are holding union services at night, first in one church and then in another, first one minister and then another doing the preaching. These union services are usually held for one month at a time, so that the people who are inclined to take off their slippers and leave comfortable firesides on Sunday nights know where they can find a church open and a minister punishing the devil.

But this Georgetown revival is something entirely different from that. It begins Monday night in Dumbarton Avenue Methodist Church and then for two weeks, except on Saturday and Sunday nights, it moves in rotation to Georgetown Lutheran Church, to Peck Memorial Church, to Calvary Methodist Church South, to Congress Street Methodist Protestant Church.

The second week, beginning Monday night at West Washington Baptist Church, it moves in rotation to Georgetown Presbyterian Church, to Peck Memorial Church, to Georgetown Lutheran Church and concludes at Congress Street Methodist Protestant Church.

These Will Preach.

Pastors of these churches will do the preaching. They are the Rev. Frank S. Niles, the Rev. Charles B. Austin, the Rev. Robert S. Barnes, the Rev. H. A. Kester, the Rev. H. E. Beatty, the Rev. D. A. Berry and the Rev. Irving W. Ketchum.

Revivals have rather lost their place in the economy of the modern city church. This writer sat in a meeting of important laymen not long ago and one of them said, "Revival? What is that? I never saw a revival. I never heard a revival."

It was explained to him what a revival is, or should be, or is supposed to be, and he answered all that by saying: "I don't believe in revivals. I hope we don't have one at our church."

This may be the attitude of a great many laymen, but it was not the attitude of the early Christian Church which was born in a revival known as Pentecost. Nor has it been the attitude of any of the modern churches for most, if not all, of them were born in a revival, and they all sing in one tongue or another, in one phrase or another: "Revive us again, Dear Lord."

Revivals General.

There is hardly a church that hasn't a revival program in one form or another, and the churches that neglect them soon lose their power and begin to slip and backslide.

In the Catholic Church the Paulist Fathers and the Jesuits, and maybe some of the other orders, have regular preaching missions, which are but another name for revivals, conducted by specially trained priests who have a gift for revival work.

One of my dearest friends is a Jesuit missioner, who once worked as a reporter on my staff. He keeps me advised of his work by correspondence, often sends me his sermons to read and criticize, and when we foregather at infrequent intervals he sits down by my side, pen in hand, and makes me help him work out revival sermons. I am not so sure that his sermons would set a Methodist camp meeting on fire, but they might.

One of the most interesting incidents in the life of John Wesley has to do with the Catholic priest who went to hear Mr. Wesley in one of his great revivals at his London City Road Chapel, to study the methods of the founder of Methodism. They met and talked it out and Mr. Wesley invited the priest to his home, and the priest lived in close communion for some time with the man whose whole ministry of 70 years was one continuous revival. What good came of it the record does not state, but it must have been a time of seed planting.

Wesley and the Priest.

The Episcopal Church, in which communion Mr. Wesley lived and died, has now in its program a special missionary effort in this country which is known as the Bishops' Crusade. This crusade was in Washington not long ago, led by the Bishop of West Virginia, a very brilliant and spiritual man, who had 30 missioners with him and they made the devil hide behind a stump while they were here.

One of the greatest revivals in the history of this country started in a prayer meeting in this city in 1857, spread to other cities and then all over the country. It had its origin in a men's prayer meeting, was a layman's movement, and in its early inception was held in the theaters of Washington, with a noonday service every day attended by packed houses.

I was startled in reading the old papers of that day to see what interest they took in the revival, and how denominational lines broke down absolutely under its impelling force.

HOLY NAME EXPECTS CROWD AT VESPERS

Bishop McNamara to Pontificate at Annual Service in Trinity.

MANY PRIESTS COMING

The annual vesper service of the Holy Name Society of Washington takes place tomorrow evening at Holy Trinity Church, and from the arrangements being made under the direction of the Rev. Eugene T. Kennedy, it is expected to surpass any previous vesper service held in the city.

The Right Rev. John M. McNamara, auxiliary bishop, will pontificate. The sermon will be preached by the Very Rev. Raphael M. Burke, pastor of St. Dominic's Church.

The scene surrounding the altar, decorated with Christmas glow, will be heightened by a detachment of the R. O. T. C. of the University of Georgetown in regimental equipment coming to present arms at the benediction service, and standing at attention as the congregation sings, "Holy God, Praise Thy Name."

The committee of priests and laymen, looking after the arrangements, report every available space in the Georgetown edifice will be filled to capacity. It is said this will be one of the greatest outpouring of Catholic men ever witnessed in the city. John Hadley Doyle, veteran Holy Name man, will be in charge of the seating arrangements. There will be no reserved seats and no cards of admission. Non-Catholic men have been especially invited.

Bishop to Officiate.

Bishop McNamara will give solemn benediction at the close of the exercises. Mgr. Eugene J. Connelly, pastor of St. Peter's Church and spiritual director of the Washington Union, will administer the solemn Holy Name pledge. The entire demonstration will be a public manifestation of faith in the divinity of Christ, honor and respect for His Holy Name, and loyalty to the country.

Many distinguished priests will occupy seats in the sanctuary.

Students to Be There.

Parish arrangements are in the hands of John C. Cartland, president of Holy Trinity Holy Name Society. He announces all the students of Georgetown University, as well as the day students at the Georgetown medical and law schools, have been invited. It is expected more than 1,000 students will be present.

Patrick J. Haltigan is vice president and Francis Anthony McCann, executive secretary of the local Holy Name Union.

The local committee in charge of arrangements consists of the Rev. Joseph A. McEneany, pastor; the Rev. Eugene T. Kennedy, George E. Potter, William A. Welch, Arthur E. Farquhar, Joseph C. Westlein, J. H. Schoenbert, T. J. Cavanaugh, John T. Jenkins, George Kelly, James W. Ball, D. L. Niepold, Joseph W. Freeman, George Custard, Samuel C. Hill, John D. O'Reilly, John D. Donovan, Earl P. Ready, Victor Woolridge, Thomas F. McGee, Jeremiah O'Connor, John Hadley Doyle, chairman. The vesper service starts at 8 o'clock.

James A. Smyth, pastor of St. Peter's Church Baltimore, in the second and concluding sermon of his series on this hour tomorrow. Father Smyth's discourse will be: "The Catholic Church the Protector of the Christian Home."

Miss Florence Yocum will be the soloist at this service on Sunday.

Annual Rally.

St. Paul's Holy Name Society will have its annual rally and election of officers at 8:15 o'clock Monday night, at the school auditorium.

Among the speakers expected are Mgr. Eugene J. Connolly, pastor of St. Peter's Church, Washington; the Rev. Ignatius Smith, Archdiocesan President John F. McCarron, District President Caesar A. Aello and a member of Congress.

Musical numbers will be interspersed among the speeches.

Revivalist Extends Stay Till Wednesday

Large interest in the revival sermons of the Rev. J. N. Hoover, of California, at the Full Gospel Tabernacle, North Capitol and K streets, has resulted in a number of conversions. Mr. Hoover will extend his stay until Wednesday night. He will speak before the body of the Sunday school tomorrow and preach at the two church services. Emil Balliet, barytone and violinist, will assist. He will speak to the Young Crusaders at 6:30.

The church will be lit entirely with candles. Each member of the choir will carry a light. At one point in the service all the candles will be extinguished save one high above the altar, from which, after an anthem, all the candles will be relit, symbolizing the spread of the light of Christ, who termed Himself "The Light of the World."

INFORMALITY WINS MANY TO SERVICES

LOYALTY KEPT TO FORE

By THE SERMON TASTER.

In the last few months, attendance at the evening services of Petworth Methodist Episcopal Church, Grant Circle at New Hampshire avenue, has increased until it has reached the overflow point. This is a remarkable thing.

According to the pastor, the Rev. R. L. Wood, there is little that is new in the program of the evening service, rather there has been a return to the informality and simplicity of the past. The services, wholly informal, without ritual of any kind, are known as "The Service of Helpfulness." The one feature is music, not provided for the congregation, but by the people themselves.

"The Heart Warming Song Service," which begins every service and lasts about half an hour, is just what the name implies. Old hymns, familiar gospel songs, with now and then a popular chorus, compose the material used. A large vested choir, under the direction of Prof. B. Louis Goodyear, leads the congregation in the singing.

Aims to be Different.

The song service always ends with the prayer hymn, some old hymn sung from memory, in the glow of a large illuminated cross. The prayer follows, the organ playing softly. This is the high point of the evening.

Mr. Wood believes that evening service should be entirely different from that in the morning. Therefore, the aim is to provide something bright, cheerful, inspiring and helpful. It is the happy hour of Sunday, and people are coming from all over the section of the city surrounding Grant Circle to share in it. The increase in attendance is from 400 to 600 per cent.

Tomorrow evening a chorus of 100 ladies will sing old hymns, songs and choruses. The entire congregation will assist in the song service, the ladies chorus leading in special numbers. Everyone is invited.

Loyalty Crusade On.

The Church is just now in the beginning of a church loyalty crusade, an endeavor to impress on every member the need for loyalty to the church. That the program shall reach the last member, the congregation has been divided into groups of 15 to 18, with a leader over the group.

Every Sunday the attendance at the services is registered by means of cards passed among the congregation. In the early part of the week each group leader receives a list of those of his group absent the previous Sunday. Before the next Sunday he visits the absentee, and presents the claim of the church upon him. The results of the loyalty crusade can not be estimated yet; it is just getting under way.

Dr. Bryant to Lecture On 'Our National Parks'

Shelton, the able and scholarly minister of that church, has a visiting committee which does the work for him, making their reports to him of extreme cases which need his pastoral attention, his ministry and his prayers.

Sentence Sermons

By the REV. GERHARD E. LENSKI
(Pastor of Grace Lutheran Church).

Accepting Correction

THE sermon we like least is likely to be the one we need the most. The sermon that rebukes our hypocrisy, that rips to shreds the garment of our pride, that proves to all the world we are not the pious people we pretended to be—that sermon we will not relish and we will probably be postponing its hearing as long as possible.

And yet, if goodness is to be honored in human lives, such sermons ought not to be avoided, nor should they be received with opposition when they come.

The test of a true soul is its ability to respond to the truth and to accept deserved correction. Repentance from sin, even in a highly sophisticated age, is still a first requirement for those who admire character and who follow Christ. And such repentance is never easy. It demands an honesty and a moral courage which many of us are slow to display.

TO RUIN THE PRESIDENT.

The vote in the Senate for reconsideration of the nominations of three members of the Federal Power Commission reveals the animus of the insurgent-Democratic coalition that is seeking to ruin President Hoover and the Republican party. The roll call verifies the intimations made during the debate, having for their purpose the poisoning of the public mind against Mr. Hoover. A bold and malevolent conspiracy has been formed to make it appear that the President of the United States is a tool of the hydroelectric power interests; that he has placed corrupt men on the Power Commission for the purpose of serving the power interests and to rob the public; that they have obeyed his orders by removing two honest functionaries who detected power frauds; and that, unless these power commissioners are thrust out, the people of the United States will be at the mercy of a rapacious monopoly which has made the President of the United States its slave.

The coalition demands that the President shall return to the Senate the notification of confirmation of the three commissioners in question, in order that the Senate may cancel the confirmation and reject the nominations, thereby making the offices vacant. This action is taken by the coalition in spite of the fact that the Senate notified the President that the men had been confirmed, following which notice they took the oath of office, organized, and proceeded to transact official business. They acted in obedience to the law, which provides that the new commission shall be deemed to be organized when three commissioners take office. The Senate by its vote attempts to nullify this act of Congress.

The threat is made that if the President should refuse to send back the nominations the Senate will refuse to vote the salaries of the three commissioners. That threat, or any other threat that can be made, should have no effect upon the President. He is bound to see that the laws are faithfully executed. The law reorganizing the power commission must be enforced. It will be violated if the commissioners are thrown out by a vote of the Senate. They are removable only by the President or by conviction upon impeachment.

It is inconceivable that President Hoover will cooperate with the coalition that seeks to destroy him. If he should return the nominations he would be conceding the right of the Senate to remove public officers in a manner not provided by the Constitution. He would be surrendering one of the great powers of the Executive, the power that lies at the foundation of all law enforcement and which insures faithfulness in office—the power of removal. And he would be surrendering this power, not to right a wrong, or to thrust out corrupt men, but to consummate a wrong, to disgrace honorable men, and to aid a political coalition that charges him with corruption.

In this attempt to besmirch the Presidency the public will stand by President Hoover and against the Senate. The scheme is plainly apparent, the object is only too clear. The coalition that poses as the champion of the people against the power trust is in itself an enemy of decent government and is guilty of an attempt to violate the law and the Constitution. As the facts develop the coalition will discover that it has overreached itself and has rallied the people behind their President.

KILLING THE RADIO.

Dr. Lee DeForest, the grand old man of radio, whose researches and inventions are largely responsible for the development of the broadcasting art to its present state of efficiency, delivers a timely warning to the operators of radio transmitting stations. Holding that sales talk now "viciously interrupts 70 per cent of entertainment programs" and that this "overdose" of advertising on the air is largely responsible for the falling off in radio sales during 1930, he says:

> Radio advertising from the "local" stations has become so uncontrollable that one must wonder at the patience of the suffering public. Yet the broadcasters are greedily selling more and more time for impudent and undisguised sales talk. This situation can go on, becoming worse and worse, until so few listeners remain that advertisers will find their money unprofitably spent.

Five years ago the owner of a receiving set did not much care what manner of sound came through the ear phones or from the loud speaker, for he and his friends were charmed with the novelty of being able to gather in sound from the ether waves. Today, however, almost every one owns a radio. The novelty has worn off, and the public is critical. It finds that programs are drearily monotonous and supercharged with advertising chatter. The unique and outstanding feature of the American broadcasting system is that its facilities are supported, not by the ultimate consumer, but by commercial interests which do not seem to be able to resist the temptation to kill the goose that lays a golden egg. Broadcasting concerns will go broke unless they change their policy.

THE STOBBS BILL.

Congress has sent the Stobbs bill, defining minor or petty violations of the national prohibition act, to the President for his signature. This is the last of the bills recommended by the Law Enforcement Commission that is likely to reach the President's desk. It leaves the policy of Congress on enforcement in a state of confusion.

The Stobbs bill was intended as a companion measure for the bill authorizing trial without jury for petty violations. Dry as Congress is, it balked at the commission's plan to abolish jury trials for "casual violators" of the liquor laws. As a compromise, it seems, a distinction has been drawn between the citizen who has a quart of liquor on hand and the felonious bootlegger, but prosecutors are allowed no short cuts in convicting the citizen.

The general effect of the Jones law, with its severe penalties for violation of the prohibition act, was to induce the Government to handle only the large cases. Prosecution of petty violators is, for the most part, left to the States, as it should be. What will be the situation under the new law? One gallon of liquor has been made the dividing line between a slight and a serious crime. Persons caught selling, making or transporting less than a gallon, if not habitually engaged in the practice, will be subject to a fine of not more than $500 or to a jail sentence, without hard labor, for not to exceed six months.

Either this law will remain inoperative or the Federal courts will be overburdened with cases that are below their dignity. The scheme to have the Government prosecute minor cases by an expedited process has failed. It seems improbable that Federal authorities will inflict further congestion upon the courts by prosecuting casual violators under the existing complicated procedure. If the bureau is sincere in attempting to enforce prohibition it can not afford to fritter away its time and energy in the prosecution of cases arising under this law.

It appears, therefore, that the Stobbs bill is merely a "sop." Since theoretically it mitigates the rigors of the Jones law, it may be regarded as a concession to the wets. Since it puts on the statute books a recommendation of the Law Enforcement Commission, it becomes a bid for the good graces of the drys. Since its practical effect upon the enforcement of prohibition will probably be nil, Congress may chalk up another master stroke in political strategy to its credit.

HUEY LONG'S TWO JOBS.

Louisiana registered a preference in the senatorial contest last fall for Huey P. Long. Senator Ransdell was defeated in spite of his long and faithful service in the Senate. Louisiana bowed to the will of its young and dictatorial governor, seemingly against its own best judgment. Now that State is to be rewarded by having only one senator in Washington for the next two years.

Gov. Long has definitely announced that he will not take his seat until his term as governor has expired. The reason is well known. Gov. Long has built up a powerful political machine during his term, and he doesn't want to leave the State until its perpetuation is assured. For Huey Long plans to capture the Presidency in a few years, and he must use this machine as the nucleus of a Nation-wide conquest. Should he come to Washington before his term expires a hostile lieutenant governor would turn all his henchmen out of office and his organization would be shattered. The catastrophe would be all the more disastrous because Gov. Long has contrived to make virtually every State official amenable to him. In the interests of the Nation's future he must not resign so much power to the enemy.

Of course, Gov. Long did not tell the people of Louisiana that his election would leave the State with only one senator for two years. His keen political intuition told him that Louisiana would rather have him in Washington for two years than any other politician for four. What does it matter if the whole country thinks that Louisiana has a dearth of political genius? Louisiana will gladly suffer the humiliation and the inconvenience for the advancement of her superstatesman. No doubt all that will be lost by having only one senator will be made up manyfold when Huey Long does get into the Senate.

It must be said that Gov. Long's scheme is not unique. Other men have had the insolence to try to hold two offices at once, but it is difficult to recall an incident in which the electorate has appreciated such egotism. But, of course, Huey Long is different. He is the man of the hour. Let States put their customs and their rights aside for him! When one of his subordinates has been safely installed in the executive mansion at Baton Rouge Huey will take Washington by storm. Technicalities should not stand in the way of the great. In preparation for his coming let those who are adept at tinkering with the Constitution prepare an amendment so that Huey will not be inconvenienced should he find it necessary to postpone his occupancy of the White House after he has been elected President.

THE BORDER PATROL.

The testimony of Mr. Hull, Commissioner General of Immigration, before the Senate commerce committee brought out the fundamental defects in the proposal for a unified border patrol. He expressed fear that if the unified service were placed under supervision of the Treasury Department the enforcement of customs and prohibition laws would be given preference over immigration laws. To take away from the Labor Department the enforcement of immigration laws, he believes, "would be a very dangerous thing." Instead, Mr. Hull suggests that the unified service be placed under control of the Labor Department, which would be equally unsatisfactory to the Treasury.

At present each department administers its own regulations on the borders. The Labor Department's force is specially trained to prevent illegal entry of aliens. Prevention of smuggling, both of liquor and of dutiable goods, falls under jurisdiction of the Treasury Department. The Department of Agriculture administers its own quarantine regulations. This is plainly a duplication of agencies. Yet each department looks after its own affairs, and there is no crossing of wires, no confusion and no division of responsibility.

Every one will agree that unification of these agencies is theoretically desirable. The combined force of border patrolmen would be able to cover much more territory than are the limited agencies of the departments. The patrol service would doubtless acquire greater prestige. Under proper management, it should be much more efficient than the existing special patrols.

But how shall it be controlled? Can one department be trusted to carry out the detailed regulations of another? How could the Department of Labor be held responsible for the administration of the laws delegated to it, if the enforcement agency were under the jurisdiction of another department? To put the patrol service under the Coast Guard or make it independent would not remedy the situation. This is, indeed, a difficult problem. Enactment of a law which fails to solve it would be of doubtful value. This measure ought to be subjected to intensive study before any action is taken.

Earthquakes are reported in South America. Man always has had to conform to nature, but this is the first instance of nature conforming to politics.

HAPPY IN HUBBUB

From the Boston Transcript.

It was once said of Philadelphia that it was corrupt and contented. Now we are told that Philadelphia and other American cities are happy in hubbub. They are cities of dreadful din, inhabited by cacophonophilists who attain equanimity of spirit only where the tumult and the shouting never dies. For them pleasure is not to be found in the "tintinnabulation that so musically wells," but rather in the booming reverberations of wild alarum bells, the strident clangor of the motor horn and the disharmonical medley produced by rival radio receiving sets adding to the contents of the mixing bowl of sound in the circumambient atmosphere.

If it be said that this is a needlessly polysyllabic statement that city dwellers find comfort and pleasure in the midst of sound and fury, the language is in keeping with the title of the learned body to which the announcement was made. It was before the American Laryngological, Rhinological and Orological Society, recently in session in Atlantic City, that Dr. Walter A. Wells, of Washington, declared that "an actual fondness for noise has become alarmingly common in America, and explains the widespread popularity of regenerated jazz." Dr. Wells spoke further "of this malady of a fondness for noise," leading people constantly to seek pleasure in noisy excitement. Here is evidently an insidious ailment deserving of a name as long as that with which other bodily and mental afflictions are made impressive and portentous in the eyes of the layman.

This delusion of pleasure in the midst of confusion of sound adds to the importance of the work of the antinoise commissions. They become members of that glorious company who in ways beyond enumeration are engaged in protecting misguided humanity against itself. The New York experts who have been studying the clamor of that great city have pointed out that tolerance of noise has its dangers. The fact that noise makes no impression upon the conscious mind does not safeguard the system against its pernicious effects. Now it appears that where it is perceived it may be regarded as a source of satisfaction and pleasure. Those who would save the nerves of the Nation must combat a perverted sense of values. The malady whose symptom is a love of noise must be cured. Otherwise there will be a disposition to remove the remedial agent when "silence like a poultice comes to heal the blows of sound."

Perhaps a word of sympathy may be expressed for those who must be cured. It is another case in which the doctors will be taking some of the joy out of life. Instead of taking pleasure in noisy excitement the patients will be called upon to undergo tortures when a "deep sound strikes like a rising knell," and when "infernal doors" and a multitude of other diabolical contrivances "on their hinges grate harsh thunder." But having given the malady a name of appropriate length and terror, the doctors may assure its victims that they are called upon to suffer for their own good as they are converted to advocacy of measures that will make the noises of the city a "concord of sweet sounds" "harmonious on every side."

CIGARETTES FOR WOMEN PRISONERS.

No one will be particularly shocked to learn that women prisoners at Auburn have won out in their insistence on smoking as a privilege to which they are equally entitled with the men, says the Buffalo Courier-Express. Indulgence in smoking by women has become so commonplace in public places that in a prison, where conventional standards may be expected not to be held in paramount consideration by them, it is apt to be especially favored.

The permission extended, however, by Warden Frank L. Heacox, while unprecedented in the institution, has a real practical aspect. A special grand jury in its report on July 30 said—regarding women prisoners' protests—that this was the only instance of their dissatisfaction with prison conditions, namely that they were not accorded the same privilege as the men in the matter of smoking. From a standpoint of prison discipline, then, and general equity, it appears that the permission to smoke is wisely extended to women inmates of Auburn.

Broadly speaking, such a privilege is based on very human considerations. Prison is not a place where people's appreciation of life is to be essentially checked but only where their viewpoint is to be disciplined.

JUST FOLKS

Pontius Pilate, politician,
Was the slave of self-ambition.
He grew merrier or graver
As it brought him Roman favor.
Pontius Pilate stopped to measure
Wrong or right by Roman pleasure.
Doing good he thought a blunder,
If it brought on Roman thunder.
He'd cause any friend's removal
For his emperor's approval.

Pontius Pilate stood in terror
Of commiting any error.
He was much too shrewd and clever
To do right for right's sake ever.
O'er decisions he'd sit blinking
Till he knew what Rome was thinking.
Ere he ruled in his dominion
He must first get Rome's opinion.
Poor old Pilate, terror-haunted,
Guessing just what Caesar wanted!

Many a man still spars and fences
And first counts the consequences
And considers—more's the pity—
How the voters in the city
Will by honor be affected.
Will the brave man be rejected?
Will the spoken truth defeat him?
How tomorrow will men greet him?
And, like poor old Pontius Pilate,

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY dear Louise: I don't know that this is necessary, for you are learning that different people must be given different treatment, but I want to make sure that you understand the importance of bestowing smiles only where they are deserved.

Here are two rules that will serve you well all your days if you will learn them well.

The first is that good manners will take you around the world.

And the second, equally important, is that you must not cast your pearls before swine, else they will turn and rend you.

Do you remember that red-headed giant who once lived near us? His heart was great, to match his body, and he had the gentle manners of a Chesterfield. There were generations of good breeding behind him, and by nature and practice he was about as decent as men become in an imperfect world.

His wife wasn't his kind. Why he married her I don't know, except that a pretty ankle fools the wisest of men and love has very little common sense.

I knew what was coming. The girl had no training in good manners and she couldn't understand courtesy. She thought it some kind of weakness. And of course she took advantage of it and imposed on him, and the more patiently he endured the more she nagged and insulted him.

Matings of that kind always end in tragedy. Some people think the higher one can lift the other up, but it never happens. The lower one always drags the other down.

In this case the big fellow continued to be a gentleman, but the shame of having that kind of wife finally broke his spirit and he quit trying to get anywhere.

I've known several cases like that. In some instances the husbands were the ones who cast pearls and in others the wives were the gentle ones, but in every instance the ill-bred mate took advantage of courtesy and became a petty tyrant.

Good manners consist almost wholly in treating the other fellow in such a way as to make him feel important. You offer him the advantage. You consider his desires. You humble yourself. You become like the Oriental who says to his guest: "This is your house and I am your servant." Your courtesy is unfailing kindness.

Well, you can be courteous to nine people in every ten and profit by it. But the tenth one will be a swine, and every pearl of courtesy will cost you an injury.

Watch such people. Keep away from them if you can. But if you must associate with them, let their first low-bred effort to take advantage of your courtesy be a signal to look them coldly in the eye and tell them to go herd with their kind.

That's all, Honey. Remember your manners, but don't waste your pearls. Love,

DAD.

Proud States, Begging Senators.
Chicago Tribune.

Among the senators who are demanding that the Federal Government should undertake to provide food for their constituencies is Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, who in presenting letters and telegrams of appeal declared that they disclose conditions "unbelievable in a proud and self-sustaining community."

We, too, had always thought of Senator Barkley's State as "proud and self-sustaining. Kentucky is certainly proud and has been normally self-sustaining so far as we know. But what is the senator of a proud and self-sustaining community doing with its pride and independence while begging for Federal money at Washington?

The proper and logical way to meet this drought situation is through public and private but not Federal charity. If the Democratic party succumbs to natural temptation, and starts out to balk, thwart and tear down, if its commanders make their policies purely critical and destructive, they may injure the Republicans, but they will hurt their own cause much more by deepening the impression that they represent merely a party of opposition, which is capable of nothing constructive.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Consolidation of Railroads Opposed on Capitol Hill Without Good Grounds.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Some of the politicians on Capitol Hill, without any knowledge whatever of the details of the proposed merger of the Eastern railroads into four great systems, and without any information as to the merits of the proposed merger, have bitterly assailed the proposal at its very inception. This was to be expected. The public has grown accustomed to such outbursts at every suggestion made for the improvement of our transportation systems.

The only excuse thus far offered in support of the objections to the consolidations is that the employes of the roads were not consulted. If this country has reached the stage where the management of a railroad system or any other business enterprise must consult its employes as to the best methods of conducting its business and must insure the consent of its employes to any changes in the affairs of its business, we have indeed reached the point for which the Communists have been preaching on soap boxes for these many years.

What opportunity has the employe of a railroad had which would enable him to express an intelligent opinion on the consolidation which has been proposed? If such gigantic and complicated questions as must be involved in the proposed merger should be left to the decision or wishes of the employes, as intimated by a few on Capitol Hill, what is the necessity of any longer continuing the existence of the Interstate Commerce Commission? Why not turn over to the employes of the railroads the functions now carried on by this commission?

According to the press reports from all parts of the country, the proposed consolidations meets with the hearty approval of a vast majority of the people. The President is therefore to be commended for the part he has played in solving this problem.

Timid Subscriber Not Afraid of Howell Bill, Much As It Disgusts Him.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Well, the Howell bill, providing for search warrants, on suspicion in the District of Columbia, is up for some more discussion, although most of us plain citizens thought it was safely pigeon-holed.

Even if I thought the bill constitutional I would, as in the past, object to it as a gross insult to our well-behaved, law-abiding city.

Inasmuch as it seems plain that the bill runs contrary to the letter of the Constitution, and the Attorney General's opinion being against its constitutionality, it looks suspiciously as if there was something like what your great-grandfather would have called thimble-riggery in giving it an airing at this time.

Certainly as it stands the bill will prove a seductive sop to the prohibition element, and yet I am loath to believe that its advocates are not sincere in their claim that in the final test it would judicially hold water. For that would come pretty close to asserting that they are playing politics with the Constitution.

TIMID SUBSCRIBER.

Suggests That Police Tackle Real Crime Instead of Parking for Bootleggers and Speedsters.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: With reference to the Howell home raid bill, making every police officer a prohibition agent, my opinion, with that of thousands of other citizens, is that if the District police force would forget about prohibition and petty traffic violations the city would be much better off. It is a familiar sight to find them parked on the outskirts of the city, waiting on a bootlegger or for a citizen who happens to be a little late for work, making about 2 to 5 miles over the speed limit.

Let them cut out this type of "average boost" and get down to real police work. Let them run down some of our criminals and murderers and I believe they would have their hands full.

As far as making this city or any other city (and by city I do not include Senator Howell's home town) a bone dry place, we may as well face the facts and cease warring against the nautral order of things while at the same time we attack real crime.

G. G LORIUS.

Pilgrims Were Puritans, Just the Same.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Exception is taken to statement of "M. M. C." in Thursday's Post to the effect that the Pilgrims, arriving in 1620 should not be confounded with the Puritans, "who came over much later."

The name Puritan was given to any Protestant dissenter from the Church of England, and all New England was colonized by these Puritan dissenters. The first Puritans to arrive were the self-styled "Pilgrims" who reached Plymouth Rock in 1620. Only nine years later other Puritans settled Salem. There is no difference between the Puritans who came over on the Mayflower and other Puritans who arrived soon after. All belonged to the same breed of cats. Any Mayflower descendant must necessarily come from Puritan stock, since the Pilgrims of 1620 were Puritans, one and all.

Aliens Should Be Registered—Displace Citizens in Schools and Jobs.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: When I was in foreign countries I was card indexed before I had been in either Italy or Germany 24 hours. If we are card indexed in Europe in a stay of ten days, aliens should not be allowed to remain here years at a time and not be tabulated.

I know of a case where aliens persisted until they had their places in the permanent schools while Americans had to go to the temporary buildings. I know of many cases where aliens have good jobs and definitely say they do not want to become citizens.

33 TO DISCUSS PLAN FOR EUROPEAN UNION

CONVENE ON JANUARY 16

Geneva, Jan. 9 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Thirteen foreign ministers, and a score of other cabinet members, are already scheduled to participate in discussions of the project for formation of a European confederation, sponsored by Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, which are to begin here January 16.

The League of Nations has been formally notified to expect the attendance of Chairman Briand, Arthur Henderson, Julius Curtius, Dino Grandi, Auguste Zaleski, M. Mowinckel, of Norway, and M. Marinkovitch, of Jugoslavia, all members of the league council. Others who have expressed their intention of being present are foreign ministers: the Duke of Alba, of Spain; Edouard Benes, of Czechoslovakia; Von Ramel, of Sweden; Beh, of Luxembourg; Paul Hymans, of Belgium, and Procope, of Finland.

While not officially admitted, it is taken for granted that Arthur Henderson, British foreign minister, will preside over the meeting of the League Council, to leave Julius Curtius, German foreign minister, free to prosecute Berlin's charges of violation of treaties protecting minorities against Poland.

Vienna has formally entered a bid to be the scene of the general disarmament conference, the date of which the council is expected to fix for February, 1932. Acting Secretary General of the League Joseph Avenol will place the application before the council, on behalf of the municipality and the Austrian government.

The league, however, is awaiting a report which Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the international organization, has asked the Swiss government to submit on the possibilities of the conference being held in this country. Applications from Barcelona, San Sebastian and Biarritz will also be considered.

Decision as to where the conference is to be held will probably be postponed until the June session of the council.

Three Countries Offer To House Arms Parley

Paris, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—Brussels, San Sebastian and Vienna, it was said in diplomatic circles today, have put in bids for the general international disarmament conference to be held in 1932.

More than 3,000 delegates and experts representing 52 nations are expected, as are 1,000 newspapermen. Some diplomats believed Geneva, the logical seat of the conference, which will be called by the League of Nations preparatory disarmament commission, would be unable to house so many visitors.

UNSEATING OF DAVIS AIM OF SENATOR NYE

primary and general election campaigns in Pennsylvania."

Senator Nye said he would not attempt to estimate how much of the total was spent in Davis' behalf, but called attention to testimony of one witness before his committee to the effect that had Senator Davis been the only candidate the expenditure would have been the same. Senator Davis and Francis Shunk Brown, the gubernatorial candidate, headed the ticket which included five others for State offices.

Asked what he would do if members of his committee opposed his move, the North Dakotan said he would offer the unseating resolution anyway.

"That is the only thing to do and remain consistent," he said. "It is not a pleasant thing, but the only thing to do. This will be a determined move and more than a gesture. The Senate at least should be given an opportunity to vote upon it."

He said there was a "slight distinction" between the Davis case and that of William S. Vare, Philadelphia Republican leader, who was denied a seat in the Senate on grounds of excessive expenditures and other charges in connection with his 1926 primary campaign.

"In the Vare incident," he said, "we were dealing with the boss of the machine that backed Senator Davis, but that represents only a slight difference."

RURAL UNIT LEADERS STUDY FARM BOARD

Group Wants to Find Out if Wheat Was Deliberately Lowered in Price.

SENATORS ALSO VISITED

(Associated Press.)

A study of the Farm Board's administration was under way yesterday by a committee representing the organizations of the Farmers Educational and Cooperative Union in Northwestern States.

The committee appointed at a recent St. Paul meeting, inquired about charges by John A. Simpson, national president of the farmers union, that Chairman Legge told the Senate agriculture committee wheat prices had been deliberately depressed.

While friendly to the administration of the agriculture marketing act to date, some members of the committee said they intended to learn whether charges by Mr. Simpson were true.

Mr. Legge has denied the charges.

In the absence from the city of Mr. Legge the committee visited Senators Capper of Kansas and Frazier and Nye of North Dakota. They also conferred with members of the Farm Board including Vice Chairman James C. Stone, C. B. Denman and William F. Schilling.

The membership of the committee includes:

M. W. Thatcher, manager of the Farmers Union Terminal Association at St. Paul, Minn.; C. A. Ward, president of the Kansas Farmers Union; J. R. Callahan, president of the Illinois Farmers Union; A. N. Young, president of the Wisconsin Farmers Union, and Thomas Howard, Denver, chairman of the National Board of the Farmers Union.

$5,000 For Parents Of Slain Boy Sought

(Associated Press.)

A bill awarding $5,000 to the parents of a 13-year-old boy who was run down by a prohibition agent in Cleveland was approved yesterday by the House claims committee on the recommendation of Secretary Mellon.

Samuel Weinstein, 13, was standing in a grocery store when an automobile driven by Albert Collins crashed into it, killing him and injuring a woman and another child. Collins was sentenced to five to twenty years in prison for manslaughter. The original bill, introduced by Representative Crosser (Democrat), Ohio, asked $50,000.

Revolt Chief Quits China; Will Retire

Marshal Yen Hsi-Shan Goes Abroad; Regrets Strife in His Province.

Peiping, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—A long chapter in the history of Shansi Province, north China, has been brought to a close by the departure for parts unknown of Marshal Yen Hsi-Shan, leader of the 1930 revolution in this country.

Before leaving the marshal wrote a short note to the Nanking government announcing he had decided to retire from politics and never again would engage in civil strife.

He felt ashamed, he said, that he had brought his province of Shansi into war; that he had failed to govern the territory with the same caution and wisdom he had shown a decade and a half ago, when he earned the title of "model governor."

Marshal Yen retained his position as an exponent of good government by proving himself an artist at sitting on the fence while conflicts were waged about him. He usually contrived to resist the offers of rival factions, entering the fray only after the battle was won and little risk was incurred by coming to the help of the conqueror.

Former Mexican President Starting Monday for Mayo Clinic.

Mexico City, Jan. 9 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Plutarco Elias Calles, former president of Mexico, will leave here Monday for Rochester, Minn., where he will enter the Mayo Clinic to undergo treatment for an acute inflammation of his right foot.

His decision to seek a cure at the clinic followed his examination here by two doctors from that institution. Gen. Calles will be accompanied on his trip to Rochester by his wife.

The condition of the former Mexican president's health for the past fortnight has been the source of many alarming rumors in circulation here. It was denied at his home today that there are any grounds for these. His general health is excellent, it was stated, although it was admitted that Gen. Calles took to his bed two weeks ago suffering from severe pains.

Work Being Rushed In Job-Selling Case

Mitchell Silent on Contemplated Action Against Congress Member.

(Associated Press.)

The Justice Department's criminal division prepared yesterday details of its case against the Indiana member of Congress charged by the Post-office Department with accepting money from four postmasters for their appointments.

George R. Jeffrey, United States attorney at Indianapolis, had been called to the Capital to confer with Nugent Dodds, newly appointed Assistant Attorney General, in charge of the criminal division. It was planned that Jeffrey remain here today also.

Justice Department officials stuck to their contention that the name of the member of the House involved should not be made public until formal action were taken by the Government. The four postmasters, summarily dismissed by Postmaster General Brown after being accused of buying their appointments, lived in the district of Representative Rowbottom (Republican), who was defeated in the November election.

NEW FOOD SERVICE AIDS WISE CHOICE

SUGGESTIONS IN THRIFT

The disappearance of the Center Market from the food map of Washington is an event of more than passing importance to Washington homemakers.

For generations this market had been the central point for the distribution of food into the homes of the city and thousands of persons availed themselves yearly of the daily chance to shop there.

The purveyors of food have found shelter in other market spaces of the city, and in a few weeks no doubt dealers and consumers will have settled down to the new order of things.

For Wise Choice of Food.

A notable item of food news for the week is in the establishment by the Bureau of Home Economics of the Department of Agriculture for President Hoover's emergency committee for employment of a weekly series of news releases designed to help the housewife in a wise food choice. These stories will be prepared to meet the needs of families whose incomes are limited so as to help them plan their food purchases so as to meet the needs for health as well as to cooperate in local economic adjustment. The first news release was made public yesterday in an announcement by Dr. Lillian M. Gilbreth, chairman of the woman's division of the committee.

"This winter many families throughout the country are confronted with the problem of getting a satisfactory food supply with very little ready cash," says Dr. Gilbreth. "Our immediate relief necessity is no longer conservation. What we need to know now is how to spend money wisely for food."

Dr. Gilbreth has appealed to the women of the country and to the many organizations that worked with Mr. Hoover on food during the war period to rally and meet the demands of this new problem that faces the Nation. "Our food standards," she says, "must not be lowered or adults will suffer and the children may be handicapped for life."

Potential Menace to Health.

"Because of the drought there is less than the usual reserve of home-produced foods, and in many rural sections practically everything must be bought," she points out. "In periods such as we are experiencing now the danger is that lack of funds will result in a diet which is not properly balanced from the standpoint of health. For this reason the President's emergency committee for employment asked the Bureau of Home Economics to work out an adequate diet at the lowest possible cost."

The following food guide has been tested thoroughly by the bureau, and the diet outlined will prove adequate from the standpoint of thrift as well as health. The bureau will also offer weekly articles dealing with food news. In these articles the food guide will be applied to families of differing sizes. The articles will outline the kinds and quantities of foods required, and, where practicable, prices will be quoted.

Most of the foods shown are what are known as staples, so, with the exception of meat, the price fluctuations throughout the country is not especially great. The bureau will suggest, from time to time, new and attractive ways to prepare the simple foods in order to offset monotony.

Family Food Guide.

Every meal—Milk for children, bread for all.

Every day—Cereal in porridge or puddings, potatoes, tomatoes (or oranges) for children, a green or yellow vegetable, a fruit or additional vegetable.

Two to four times a week—Tomatoes for all, dried beans and peas or peanuts, eggs (especially for children), lean meat, fish, or poultry, or cheese.

Simple Meals Are Best.

Families with limited incomes as a rule do not need to be reminded that simple meals are always best, says the Bureau of Home Economics. When the income is small most adults as well as children will find their appetites are satisfied with an abundance of a few foods, rather than a little bit of several things.

You can follow your family food guide, the bureau advises, if you serve meat or fish three or four times a week as the main dish for dinner. Other days you may choose cheese, baked beans or a thick pea or bean stew.

The meat allowance is small, but its flavor can be extended and the whole meal made more palatable if vegetables are cooked with it. Other ways in which this can be done are by stuffing, making dumplings and gravy, or by cooking the meat with potatoes, rice or macaroni. The skillful use of onions, carrots, celery and tomatoes in small amounts heightens the flavor of stews and soups, while at the same time it adds to the attractiveness of meals. You should definitely plan to use part of the weekly allowance of vegetables for this purpose.

Potatoes and one other vegetable or fruit should be served every day for dinner. Some days the vegetables may be served raw as a salad. Canned tomatoes, shredded cabbage, grated carrots and turnips, sliced onions and many greens may be eaten raw with salt or salad dressing. They are delicious and more healthful raw than cooked. Then none of the mineral salts or vitamins are lost. This also saves fuel cost.

A dessert is not absolutely necessary but adds interest and flavor to the diet. Some inexpensive and very good ones include bread, rice or Indian pudding and shortcake made with dried fruit.

Market News.

Where fresh milk costs more than 10 to 12 cents a quart we suggest that unsweetened canned milk or dry skimmilk be substituted for the greater part of the milk allowance. The index calls for a large quantity of cereal and milk, the two things which supply the greatest food value for the money.

In choosing your meats be sure to adapt your menu for the day to the prices in your local markets. There are many inexpensive cuts to choose from ranging in price from 8 to 25 cents a pound. The flavor is equally as good as the more costly kinds and from week to week we will give you recipes for serving them in different ways. In most parts of the country lamb is cheaper than it has been in years and there is a plentiful supply of it.

Potatoes and the other root vegetables are reasonably low in price this year as are citrus fruits. Tomatoes or citrus fruit are essential to the diet of families living by the Food Index. A No. 2 can of tomatoes, which is medium sized, ought not to cost more than 12 cents. Flour is cheaper than it has been in years, about 4¼ cents a pound, but bread has remained at about the same price. Baking your own bread may mean a saving, providing there is time and the cost of fuel is taken into consideration.

RECIPES SUGGESTED FOR HOME PARTIES

Many Attractive Dishes Are Available for Supper Menu.

RULES FOR MAKING EACH

Home parties are delightful at all times and particularly in winter when one may select many attractive and delicious dishes from which to concoct a supper menu.

A selection of appetizers offer an interesting first course to be followed by a clear or creamed soup with croutons or crisp crackers. The main course suggests a wide choice of meats from the tender delicious prize roasts from blue ribbon cattle, hogs or sheep to the variety of poultry.

Baked ham with its attractive garnishes, candied sweet or baked white potatoes, individual corn molds with diced buttered parsnips, a succulent salad of tender lettuce with a favorite dressing and an ice cream pie or cake with coffee suggests an interesting dinner that requires but little time to prepare.

The recipes are as follows:

Spiced Baked Ham.

1 teaspoon mustard.
½ cup brown sugar.
½ teaspoon paprika.
½ cup vinegar.
6 red apples.
Whole cloves.

Wash and dry a ham. Place in roaster, fat side up; cover bottom of pan with hot water, about 2 quarts. Cover roaster and bake in a slow oven (275 degrees F.) allowing 21 minutes to the pound. When half done remove the rind. Sprinkle the fat surface with mustard and paprika, add the vinegar to the liquid in the pan and continue cooking, basting frequently. About three-fourths of an hour before serving sprinkle fat surface with brown sugar, dot with whole cloves. Place the washed and cored apples around and continue baking uncovered without basting.

Candied Sweet Potatoes.

Salt and pepper.
Butter.
1 cup brown sugar.
½ cup water.

Pare the potatoes and boil until about half done. Drain, cut in lengthwise slices and lay in a shallow greased pan. Spread generously with butter and pour over the sirup, made by boiling the sugar and water together. Bake in a moderate oven (350-400 degrees F.), basting frequently with the sirup until the potatoes are transparent. It may be necessary to add more sirup during the baking. An hour or more is usually required for these potatoes.

Individual Corn Molds.

1 can corn
2 tablespoons butter, melted.
1 cup evaporated milk
3 eggs
½ cup dry bread crumbs

Rub corn through a sieve. Add milk to the bread crumbs and combine with the corn and butter. Then fold in the beaten egg yolks. Lastly fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into individual ring molds and bake in a moderate oven, 375 degrees Fahrenheit, until set. Unmold and fill center with creamed parsnips to which 1 cup grated cheese has been added.

The ice cream pie or cake may be ordered from your local ice cream manufacturer.

Tomato and Onion Appetizers.

Slices of tomato marinated in French dressing, thin slices of mild onion cut to fit the tomato, and the two put together on a round of sauted bread, with mayonnaise and, if desired, a little fish, pickle or relish.

Sardine Appetizers.

Sardines dressed with lemon juice and served on fingers of toast are an enlivener and entertaining bit and are better if the toast is first spread with prepared mustard.

Tomato Juice Cocktail.

1 small can tomato juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Few drops of tobasco sauce
¾ teaspoon salt

Onion Soup With Cheese.

4 medium sized onions
3 tablespoons butter
1 quart stock
Slices of cheese
Grated cheese

Slice the onions thin and cook them gently in the butter until perfectly tender, but not browned. Add them to the meat stock and simmer for five minutes. Cut slices of cheese ¼-inch thick and lay on slices of toast. Set in the oven until the cheese melts, place a slice of the cheese toast in each soup plate, pour the soup over it and serve with a dash of finely grated cheese over each serving. Will serve six.

Other accessories to be included in the menu are olives, celery, pickles and hard rolls.

Figs Are Valuable In Youth Building

Tasty Breakfast of Fruit Furnishes Important Mineral Elements.

The average person is not familiar with figs, the youth-building fruit. It is California grown and contains most valuable elements, iron for blood building; potassium, the alkaline and eliminating agency; phosphorus, the brain energizer, and magnesium, nature's laxative. As a laxative it is the leader among fruits. A dish of Black Mission figs with cream makes a most delicious breakfast.

Stred's Health Food Center, 721 Thirteenth street northwest, carries an excellent variety of sun-dried fruits free from chemicals and preservatives, specializing in Black Mission figs, which are so wholesome as well as being a cleanser of poisons and toxic conditions from the body, due to the laxative quality.

This health food center, established in 1923, was the first store of its kind in Washington dealing in natural foods. If your diet is a problem call for free literature or phone Metropolitan 6313.

HOUSEWIVES URGED TO EXAMINE LABELS

Must Tell Truth About Any Imitation Articles in Packages.

GREATLY AFFECT VALUE

When you go into a grocery store to buy the family foods, do you read carefully the labels on the bottles or packages you select? Do you trust to your eyes in estimating the quantity in each container, or do you find out from the label exactly what you are getting for your money? Do you compare articles of one brand with those of another, both in quantity and quality? Do you observe whether or not the label declares artificial coloring or flavoring?

Labels must tell truthfully what kind of material a package, bottle or can of food contains, and what quantity. The statement on the label should not be misleading in any way to the consumer. Sometimes, however, it may be truthful and still misleading. Again, the appearance of the container may be misleading, and if the statement on the label is overlooked, the buyer gets poor value. Sometimes the statement of contents is so inconspicuously placed that it is scarcely noticed.

Careful Scrutiny Urged.

The Food and Drug Administration of the United States Department of Agriculture urges every housewife to scrutinize the labels on every kind of food she buys, as well as on the drugs she needs in her household. In the case of foods, it has been found that most manufacturers and packers have shown a satisfactory disposition to meet the demands for truthful labeling, but occasionally it is evident that there is some attempt to give the consumer less value than she thinks she is getting.

If the contents of a bottle are stated in drams, rather than in fluid ounces, which almost everybody understands, there seems to be an attempt to mislead the buyer. Most people are unfamiliar with the dram as a measure, and do not realize that a dram is only an eighth of a fluid ounce.

Must Show Imitations.

The label must tell when a product is an imitation, either because of artificial coloring or artificial flavoring. In many cases, imitation products are wholesome and proper as foods, but they are usually inferior in quality and much cheaper than the genuine. The price should be compared with the cost of a similar article that is not an imitation, in order to judge the value.

To read labels intelligently, it is necessary for the purchaser to know something of the origin and the standards of food products. The Food and Drug Administration is constantly disseminating all possible information to help the consumer, and the housewife can learn a great deal for herself by carefully scrutinizing the statements on the label of every package of foods she buys.

Wealth of Vitamins In Custard Souffle

Custard souffle is a dessert that should prove popular with every member of the family. Not only is it an exceptionally tasty dish, but it is rich in vitamins and other health factors, so necessary at this time of year.

3 tablespoons butter.
¼ clup flour.
¼ cup sugar.
1 cup scalded milk.
4 eggs.

Melt butter. Then add flour and gradually the hot milk. Bring this mixture to the boiling point and then pour in the egg yolks that have been well beaten and mixed with the sugar and salt. Cool the mixture. Then cut and fold in the whites of the eggs that have been beaten stiff and dry. Turn into a buttered pudding dish and bake from 30 to 35 minutes in a moderate oven. Serve at once with creamy or foamy sauce.

HOME QUICK BREADS ARE EASILY COOKED

Federal Bureau Points Out Advantages Realized by Home-Makers.

SOME SAMPLE RECIPES

The Bureau of Home Economics of the Department of Agriculture again and again has directed the attention of the American homemaker to the many advantages to be found in baking bread and biscuits, muffins and other quick breads at home. Baker's bread is of such high quality nowadays that often the homemaker can dispense safely with home baking of bread, but for quick breads she should still utilize her own home baking facilities, according to the department.

Oatmeal Muffins.

1½ cups rolled oats.
4 teaspoons baking powder.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 cup milk.
1 egg.
1 tablespoon melted butter.

Grind the rolled oats through the fine knife of the meat grinder, thus making a fine meal. Combine the dry ingredients. Beat the egg and add the milk. Mix the dry and the liquid ingredients together and stir in the melted butter. Pour the batter into greased muffin tins and bake for 20 ot 25 minutes in a fairly hot oven.

Graham Muffins.

1 cup milk.
1½ cups coarse Graham flour or 1¾ cups more finely ground Graham.
2 to 4 tablespoons fat.
1 egg.
2 tablespoons baking powder.
1 to 2 tablespoons sugar.
½ teaspoon salt.

Do not sift the graham flour before measuring. Mix all the dry ingredients thoroughly. Beat the egg slightly and add it to the milk. Stir the combined milk and egg into the dry ingredients. Add the melted butter or other fat last. Bake the muffins in a hot oven (about 400 to 425 degrees F.).

Cranberry Muffins.

¼ cup sugar.
1 egg.
¾ cup milk.
¼ teaspoon salt.
2 cups sifted flour.
4 teaspoons baking powder.
1 cup cranberries.
2 tablespoons sugar.

Break the egg into a mixing bowl. Beat it lightly. Add the milk. Sift the dry ingredients. Add the milk and egg mixtures; also the melted butter. Roll the cranberries in the two tablespoons of sugar and fold them carefully into the batter. Place in greased muffin pans. Bake in a moderate oven about half hour, or until brown.

Nut Bread.

1 cup milk
2¼ cups soft wheat flour
3 tablespoons melted butter
1 egg
3 teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped pecan nut meats.

Beat the egg, add the milk and sugar. Cover the nuts with two tablespoons of the flour and sift the remainder with the baking powder and the salt. Pour the liquid mixture into the dry ingredients, add the nuts and the melted butter. Bake in a greased bread pan at a temperature of 375 degrees fahrenheit for one hour. Allow the bread to cool before cutting.

Pop-Overs.

(8 to 12 pop-overs.)

1 cup milk
1 cup sifted soft-wheat flour
1 to 2 teaspoons fat
1 to 1½ eggs
1-3 teaspoon salt

Stir the liquid slowly into the dry ingredients to avoid forming lumps. Fill hot, well-greased muffin pans, preferably iron or granite because they hold the heat, not more than half full of batter and place at once in a hot oven (about 425 degrees Fahrenheit). After about 20 minutes lower the temperature to about 350 degrees Fahrenheit, so that the inside of the pop-overs will dry out a little without making the crusts too hard and brown. Pop-overs require baking about 45 minutes.

Waffles.

1½ cups milk
2 cups sifted soft-wheat flour
3 tablespoons fat
1 to 2 eggs
3 teaspoons baking powder
1½ tablespoons sugar
¾ teaspoon salt.

Mix the dry ingredients, add the milk and egg yolks, then the melted fat, and lastly fold in the beaten whites of eggs. Have the waffle iron hot enough to brown the waffle quickly and well greased unless it is the electrically heated aluminum kind. In that case add an extra tablespoon of melted shortening to the batter.

Fluffy, Flat Omelets Use Same Ingredients

Fluffy omelets and flat omelets are made of the same ingredients—one egg for each person, one tablespoon of milk for each egg and salt to taste.

WATERCRESS HELPS SHOULDER OF LAMB

Flavor Is Liked in Stuffing, or Mint Can Be Used in Sauce or Jelly.

ROASTING IS DESCRIBED

The slight peppery flavor of watercress gives an unusually good flavor to stuffing for shoulder of lamb; or, if you like mint with your lamb, you can try putting it into stuffing instead of in sauce or jelly.

A shoulder of lamb has tender delicious meat, but ordinarily is rather hard to carve because of the shoulder blade and other bones. The butcher will remove these for you so that the meat may be cut very easily. The pocket left by taking out the shoulder blade can then be filled with any preferred stuffing.

Weight 3 to 4 Pounds.

Select a shoulder of lamb, weighing from 3 to 4 pounds. Have the butcher remove all the bones and the fell. Save the bones for making soup. A lamb shoulder may be stuffed and either left flat or rolled. The flat shoulder is easier to sew up than the rolled, and the pocket holds twice as much stuffing. Either of these completely boned, stuffed shoulders can be carved straight through in attractive slices of part meat and part stuffing.

Wipe the meat with a damp cloth. Sprinkle the inside of the pocket with salt and pepper, pile in the hot stuffing lightly, and sew the edges together. Rub salt, pepper and flour over the outside. If the shoulder has only a very thin fat covering, lay several strips of bacon over the top. Place the roast on a rack in an open pan without water. Sear for 30 minutes in a hot oven 480 degrees F. If bacon is laid over the roast, shorten the time of searing so as to avoid overbrowning. Reduce the temperature of the oven to 300 degrees F., and cook the meat at ths temperature until tender. From 2½ to 3 hours will be required to cook a medium sized stuffed shoulder at these oven temperatures. Serve hot with brown gravy.

Mint or Watercress.

For mint or watercress stuffing you will need 3 cups fine dry breadcrumbs, ½ cup fresh mint leaves or 1½ cups finely cut watercress leaves and stems, 6 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons chopped celery, 1½ tablespoons chopped onion, ¾ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Melt one-half the butter in a skillet and add the onion and celery. Cook for two minutes and add the mint leaves or the finely cut cress and other seasonings.

Push the mixture to one side of the skillet and in the empty part melt the remaining butter and stir in the bread crumbs. When they have absorbed the butter, mix all the ingredients together. When using watercress allow the liquid which cooks out to evaporate before the buttered crumbs are added.

Delightful Prune Whip Is Made in Easy Way

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

1 cup water.
½ cup sugar.
¼ teaspoon salt.
5 egg whites.

Wash the prunes through several waters until thoroughly clean. Place in a bowl with the water to soak overnight. In the morning cook the prunes in the water in which they have soaked for 15 minutes or until tender. Press through a colander. Measure the pulp and juice. There should be one cupful. Place the pulp with the sugar over the heat and stir until the sugar is dissolved. Cool. Whip the whites of the eggs until very light. Add the salt and the prune pulp in small quantities until all of it has been mixed with the whites of eggs, whipping always in the same way. Pile the mixture lightly in a greased baking dish surrounded by water, and place in the oven. Bake at a temperature from 250 to 275 degrees F. for 50 to 60 minutes. When baked at this low temperature for this length of time the pudding should not fall after cooling. Serve with custard sauce made from the yolks of the eggs.

Clam Bisque Always Very Nourishing Food

1-3 cup fat.
1 small onion, sliced.
1-3 cup flour.
2 cups cream.
1 cup milk.

Few grains cayenne.

Drain clams, reserve juice and remove all particles of shell. Cut the soft part of the clams in small pieces. Chop the hard part of the clams and cook with 1½ cups water and the clam juice for 20 minutes. Melt fat, add onion and cook until a delicate brown. Remove onion, add flour and mix until smooth. Drain broth from clams and add slowly. Cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add cream, milk and soft part of clams and bring to boiling point. Add salt and cayenne and serve at once.

Gelatin Much Used As Attractive Food

Gelatin as a food product is just coming into its own, according to the student of food trends and tendencies and some interesting facts recently published about gelatin should be appreciated by the thousands of Washington housewives who had found ready use for this article.

Did you know that over 5,000,000 pounds of gelatin is used in the production of our 350,000,000 gallons of ice cream annually?

Next would probably come the confections such as marshmallows. Without gelatin, they could not be made on a commercial basis economically. It takes over 2,000,000 pounds of gelatin a year to manufacture these popular confections.

We're Hungrier Now Than We Ever Were, Says Coed

Dormitory Life Seldom Offers Favorite Dish; "When Do We Eat?" Is Most Frequent Question Mother Is Apt to Hear.

Home for Christmas! Your children away at school are counting the days until they can hop a train for home.

What a happy week it will be for everyone, and what a strenuous one for mother, for hers is a hungry family. Dormitories seldom yield one's favorite dish. You know that your family will demand certain favorite dishes. What is more important, they will want to eat often. Scarcely is one meal-time past before you hear the query, "When do we eat?"

If you have planned your meals ahead, keeping up with appreciative appetities will not be so difficult. You will not want to spend too many hours in the kitchen. With menus and supplies well organized, your task will be much lighter.

List the perishables that will have to be purchased from day to day and stock up with the necessary staples. Don't forget to include a large quantity of evaporated milk. It is almost impossible to prepare a meal without milk. You will find that evaporated milk in tall-sized cans is the most convenient way of coping with the milk demands of a large-sized family.

Prune Muffins.

½ cup brown sugar.
1 egg.
2 cups flour.
4 tablespoons baking powder.
1 tablespoon salt.
¼ tablespoon nutmeg.
½ cup evaporated milk.
¼ cup water.
¾ cup chopped cooked prunes.
Prunes and nuts for decorating.

Cream shortening, add sugar and cream thoroughly. Add the well-beaten eggs. Sift flour once before measuring, and sift flour, baking powder, salt and nutmeg together. Add to the creamed mixture alternately with the evaporated milk. Add prunes which have been well drained. Pour into greased and floured muffin tins. Decorate each muffin with half of a prune, with a nut pressed into the center. Bake 25 minutes in a hot oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit). Yield: Six servings.

Cheese Souffle.

3 tablespoons butter.
4 tablespoons flour.
½ teaspoon salt.
Dash pepper.
⅔ cup boiling water
⅔ cup evaporated milk.
¾ cup grated American cheese.
3 eggs, separated.
1 teaspoon Worchestershire sauce.
¼ teaspoon baking powder.

Make a thick white sauce of butter, flour, salt, pepper, water and milk. Add cheese and set over hot water until cheese blends well with white sauce. Cool, then add well-beaten egg yolks. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites, Worchestershire sauce and baking powder. Turn into a well-oiled baking dish. Bake in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) 45 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

Blitz Torte.

½ cup sugar.
4 egg yolks.
1 cup pastry flour.
1 teaspoon baking powder.
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon evaporated milk
2 tablespoons water.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
4 egg whites.
¾ cup sugar.
½ cup sliced blanched almonds.
½ teaspoon cinnamon mixed with 1 tablespoon sugar.

Cream butter until smooth and plastic. Add ½ cup sugar gradually and beat until well blended. Sift the flour with the baking powder and salt and add alternately with the milk that has been mixed with the water, beginning and ending with flour. Add vanilla the last few stirs. Turn into two cake tins oiled and lined with paraffin paper. Whip the egg whites until stiff. Fold in the ¾ cup sugar, then spread over the top of the unbaked mixture. Sprinkle almonds over the top, then the cinnamon-sugar mixture. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) and spread the following cream filling between the layers: Blend ¼ cup sugar and 1 teaspoon cornstarch; add this to 1 beaten egg yolk and stir until well blended. Have ½ cup evaporated milk and ½ cup water heated to the scalding point. Pour on egg mixture, stirring vigorously to keep smooth. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly about 10 minutes. Remove from fire, add ½ teaspoon almond extract. Cool before using. Yield: 10 servings.

New Volume Gives Macaroni Recipes

Free Cook-Book Depicts Attractive Dishes in Colors.

The Home Economics Editor has just received a copy of the new Recipe Book issued by the C. F. Mueller Co., famous for Mueller's Macaroni Products. One can not help but be impressed by the wide variety of eye-appealing, taste-tempting dishes that can be prepared with macaroni, spaghetti and egg noodles. All know that macaroni products are most healthful foods for both children and adults. What we probably fail to remember is that these fine foods can be made into dishes that are really culinary delights, as impressive to the eye as they are pleasing to the taste.

The Mueller Recipe Book is illustrated throughout in full, natural colors. The recipes are easy to follow, and by merely reading the directions and glancing at the illustrations, any housewife can prepare dishes that would be a credit to an expert chef. There is another feature of the new book that is certain to appeal to every careful housewife. On almost every page are helpful suggestions on table setting, table service and table etiquette. To the hostess who wishes to serve faultlessly, this is a most valuable aid. There are full-page, full-color illustrations, too, of tables set correctly for both formal and informal meals.

Any woman may obtain a copy of this new book by merely writing to the C. F. Mueller Co., Jersey City, N. J. They make no charge for this valuable book.

Eggs Used as Garnish To Brighten Up Dishes

Hard-boiled eggs, for example, cut into different shapes, are a common garnish for cooked greens or for salad; or, instead of being cut or chopped, the yolks may be put separately through a ricer.

A Great Convenience

Anything that stabilizes and facilitates baking is worthy of the housewife's attention—and one of the most important factors in baking is the selection of the right flour which, by the character of the wheat, is best adapted to kitchen facilities. In this connection you'll find

Self-Rising

People Looking Sad Require Vitamin G

Milk, Green Vegetables, Liver, Kidney, Yeast and Eggs Contain It.

If your expression, for no known reason, is becoming mournful, perhaps its because you aren't getting enough Vitamin G in your diet.

This new vitamin, which for a long time remained a hidden part of Vitamin B, is decidedly in the spotlight now. Originally, it was given the imposing name "Pellagra Preventive" (P-P), because of its effectiveness in the prevention and cure of that dread disease; but now, in this country, it is referred to simply as Vitamin G.

Scientists have found that our old friends, milk and green leafy vegetables, are rich in it. So here is one more reason for making these "protective" foods a regular part of every day's meals. Vitamin G is especially necessary in diets which consist largely of cereal grains.

EGGS, NOW CHEAP, GOOD FOR ANY MEAL

WIDE RANGE OF DISHES

The majority of homemakers think of eggs as something for breakfast without realizing the vast possibilities of this wholesome food as luncheon or dinner dish. Right now because they are the cheapest they have been in many years, eggs can be used as the basis of many a delightful meal. They can be used plentifully in the diet with a saving of money and yet give a maximum of nourishment.

With a little imagination, the homemaker will find that she can serve eggs in any part of the meal from soup to dessert. Eggs for dinner, for example, can be presented the family in many guises, such as eggs beauregard, eggs benedict, baked eggs and cheese, creamed eggs on toast, hot deviled eggs or eggs and asparagus au gratin.

Many Varieties of Omelets.

One of the most appetizing luncheon or dinner egg dishes is the omelet. The family can be given omelets every day of its life and never tire of them because there are many omelet variations. They can be made with almost any kind of vegetable, such as chopped onion, celery or cooked asparagus, with grated cheese, chopped chicken, ham or bacon or with cooked mushrooms. The water in which vegetables have been cooked may be used as the liquid in making an omelet, giving the dish an appetizing flavor. Jelly is also very good folded into an omelet. Tomato sauce, brown sauce, with or without vegetables, or Spanish sauce poured over the omelet after it is turned onto the platter, suggest other variations.

There are two kinds of omelets—flat ones and fluffy ones. Flat omelets as the French make them are a little easier and quicker to hand than fluffy omelets, because the yolks and whites of eggs are beaten together, not separated. There really is just one secret that the housewife should know about omelets. The secret of a perfect omelet is to cook it at a moderate temperature. A hot fire will ruin the omelet.

Recipe for Fluffy Omelet.

6 tablespoons water or milk.
½ teaspoon salt.

Separate yolks and whites carefully. Beat well. Add water or milk to beaten yolks. Add salt. Mix well. Then fold in fluffy whites until well blended, being careful not to stir roughly and so release air which has been beaten into whites. Cook omelet in heavy pan, such as iron skillet or omelet pan, which should be of such size that mixture will be about one inch deep. Put pan on to heat while eggs are being beaten. Melt in pan enough butter to coat the bottom, but do not allow the butter to brown.

Pour egg mixture into pan or skillet and put in moderate oven, cooking at low, even heat. Air then has chance to expand and raise omelet before proteins of egg and milk set. Managed this way, they set gradually without becoming too tough, and the omelet cooks through thoroughly. Cook until top sets. Then crease through center. If skillet has not been used, fold omelet over with spatula or knife and slide it gently onto hot platter.

Ten tons of tomatoes to the acre were produced in some parts of the Oroville, Wash., district this season.

SET the DIALS—

—that's all

Yes, actually . . . you put your dinner into the oven . . . set the dials that control the cooking heat and cooking speed . . . and forget about it!

It's true that meals actually cook themselves in an Electric Range. Once the dials are adjusted, the cooking heat turns itself on at the appointed time, remains at that uniform temperature which means perfect results until the cooking is done; and cuts itself off at precisely the right moment.

Think of it . . . meals that practically cook themselves . . . pots and pans that need no scouring. . . . Electric cooking heat is clean, highly efficient and really economical. Can you afford to overlook this superior cooking convenience and economy?

Mme. Bostrom Plans Return Next Spring

Daughters May Accompany Wife of Minister From Sweden.

THE background of royalty versus democratic Washington with its delightful charm of social life—this was the question confronting Mme. Bostrom, wife of the Minister of Sweden, when summer came to an end, and duties in America called the minister back to his post after a season abroad with their daughters, Mlle. Ellis Bostrom and Mlle. Pauline Bostrom. With a happy summer behind and a winter of gayety beckoning on either side of the Atlantic. Mme. Bostrom finally made her decision—Stockholm won and her friends in America lost—for the winter.

But from abroad comes assurance of the return to Washington in the spring of Mme. Bostrom, who may be accompanied by one or both of the daughters. The winter in the Swedish capital has been a gay one for the chatelaine of the embassy and for her daughters, who number among their personal friends the Swedish royal family and often are guests at the palace during the season.

Both young women were presented to court society in Stockholm this winter and have been in the midst of festivities surrounding the little coterie of youthful society which finds its center there in the royal palace.

Miss Ellis Bostrom made her debut here two seasons ago and remained in Washington last winter where she was at her wits' end sometimes in the frantic search for sufficient hours out of the 24 to fulfill all her engagements. For Mlle. Bostrom joined the "great army" of business girls last year and proved valuable aid to the staff of the Swedish legation with which she was allied.

Although not an avowed moving picture fan, Mlle. Bostrom relates with glee an incident of her visit with her father to Hollywood last year when they encountered an amusing example of the hauteur for which high salaried actresses of the screen are famous. Announced as Mr. Bostrom and Miss Bostrom, the chief of the Swedish mission and his charming daughter were kept waiting by the sophisticated Greta Garbo at her film studio until the star finally realized they were old friends from her native land.

When the "audience" finally was granted and apologies forthcoming from the flustered actress Mlle. Ellis found the idol of the silver screen a delightful hostess who entertained her distinguished guests from Washington for several hours in her studios. Mlle. Pauline Bostrom did not come to this country last year but remained in Stockholm with relatives.

Emmanuel's Tomb Honored by Rulers

King and Queen Visit Pantheon and Place Laurel Wreath.

Rome, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—The King and Queen of Italy, accompanied by princes and princesses of the blood royal, today went to the Pantheon, the mighty pagan temple now a Christian church, to honor the memory of King Victor Emmanuel II, grandfather of the present ruler. Today was the fifty-third anniversary of that monarch's death.

The sovereign, in full uniform, solemnly laid a large laurel wreath on the tomb of his ancestor, and bowed his head a moment in recollection. After the royal party had left the Pantheon, the religious title of which is the Church of St. Mary of the Martyrs, the Governor of Rome deposited his wreath on behalf of the municipality, and other offerings were brought by patriotic societies.

The Pantheon was built by Agrippa, friend of Augustus Caesar, in 27 B. C., and reconstructed several times. The most important additions were made by the Emperor Hadrian, who died in 138 A. D.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

A NEW order issued by the Radio Commission provides that any State now over its quota can not be given additional radio facilities.

The District of Columbia appears to be sitting on the fence in this, for though it is under-quota it is only by four one-hundredths of a unit, which probably would not be enough to get it by for additional frequencies or power.

The Washington Gas Light Ensemble will offer Hungarian compositions tonight, (WRC)—6:15 o'clock).

THE bark of Lobo, German police dog, over networks with the signature number played by an orchestra, will be heard no more. Lobo died January 5, after suffering for three days from ptomaine poisoning.

Lobo's son, Lobo II, is expected to carry on in his father's place with the orchestra. Lobo was once rated as having the mentality of a 9-year-old boy in intelligence.

A half-hour of readings will be presented this afternoon by Nell Lewis Stafford (WJSV, 2:30 p. m.).

THERE is a real laugh in "The Policeman," from "Adventures in a Perambulator," by Carpenter, which Walter Damrosch will play at the conclusion of his program tonight (WRC, 9 p. m.).

John T. Adams, one of the most expert musical scouts, predicted over the air that so promising is Lily Pons, the French singer, who had the sensational debut at the Metropolitan Opera House, that her name will soon be a household word.

If he cuts loose, Senator Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, chairman of the campaign investigating committee, may have quite a story to tell about the influence of money in political campaigns tonight in the National Radio Forum (WMAL, 9:30 o'clock.

SENATOR DAVID I. WALSH, of Massachusetts, goes to bat as the heavy hitter when the National Democratic Club opens its series today (WMAL, 2:15 p. m.).

Stimulation of active musical interest in the home is to be the purpose of a new series of programs which will be presented semiweekly to a day-time audience.

The first, entitled "Keys to Happiness," will be this morning (WRC, 11:30 o'clock) with Carl Friedberg, pianist. Alois Havrilla will act as narrator.

Whenever an opera singer with a great name suddenly begins to get enthusiastic over radio, you can usually put it down in your little book that her voice is slipping.

Bank failures will occupy the attention of the League of Industrial Democracy today (WEAF network, 1:45 p. m.).

From the Boston Herald:
The broadcast from the submerged submarine came from a point so far down that we expected at first to hear a stock quotation.

Dare O INTERPRETS the MODE

A Dah-ray designed brassiere that helps lovely ladies to maintain youthful contours, and gives other lovely ladies back theirs.

Paris, Jan. 9.

'MEMBER the wun-der-ful brassiere that I figured out for you, oh, ages ago? 'Member how you crocheted it yourself and how it was light and fragile and dainty, and washed and was contour-fitting and even corrective?

Well, it was so awfully popular, and continued to be so very all that we claimed it to be, that a lot of lovely ladies kept writing in from time to time, asking for the directions for making it. So I just sketched it for you today, and want to remind you that it can be crocheted in an hour by some one who isn't even expert at crocheting—and that it is time to think of putting your lingerie box in shape for spring.

• • • •

'Nif you can't follow the idea out from today's sketch just take the time to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet which tells you exactly how to crochet it and finish it as to straps, &c. 'Nif you can't crochet at all, you can turn this leaflet over to some one who can, and you may be quite sure that she will be able to follow the directions—and that you will have a brassiere that you will never give up.

• • • •

My rainy-day hat that is so falsely named—there's absolutely nothing rainy-day looking about it—is offered you for the last time! That is, the leaflet which is at a very low point just now, describing just how to make a copy of this Agnes model is offered to you, not the hat itself, so this is your last chance to send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for it.

• • • •

Leisureliness is loveliness. That means Saturday is a day that all Dah-ray-ettes go about their loveliness in a leisurely way. And that means from the outside in, too—there's the matter of the little cleaning, pressing, mending and refurbishing of one's clothing, lingerie and accessories, and then there is the matter of one's own self. The day for that much-needed manicure, or that home facial or shampoo. Or what is much better, all of them.

• • • •

'N' before I forget about saving the serial stories each month from magazines, until you have the complete story to enjoy when you will, and all of it—have you ever thought about how nice such stories are for traveling? Each time you finish with a page—throw it away—and you'll have plenty to read on your trip, and less and less weight to carry all along.

• • • •

And tomorrow we have the weekly Dare fashion letter again. Do look for it in the big Sunday Post.

Au Revoir!

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

IN DEFENSE OF HIS SEX.

DEAR Frances McDonald: I am not a constant reader of your column but my aunt handed it to me this morning and pointed to the two letters slandering man. This letter is the natural result of my desire to defend my sex.

I have much to learn but have at least learned not to expect perfection. As to man's attitude having changed toward woman, surely woman's own attitude has changed—and greatly. She has changed visibly and in her mental outlook. She has fought man, and fought for equality with him, relinquishing her pedestal to do so. Having gained equality she now wants her pedestal back and naturally she can not get it.

Take facts as they are with woman as man's equal. No man can expect more respect than he demands. Neither can a woman. Your correspondent criticizing a young man for having made a rude and disrespectful remark to her in the presence of another man, admits that she went right on and danced with him. Why was it not possible for her to refuse to dance under such circumstances? Why honor such a man? Had she refused she would have raised herself in the estimate of two men. As it was both lost respect for her—through her own fault. In just such ways do girls disappoint men.

I used to expect more of women than I do now. At present I have only two requirements. And I seldom find a girl who meets them. One is that she shall not lie to me. And the other is that she extend to me the same courtesy that I extend to her. By that I mean if a girl calls me up and breaks a date with me because she wants to go out with some other man, I will still continue to date her if she is willing. Because her wishes in such a matter must decide and her reasons for breaking a date are none of my business. But if she pleads a headache and I meet her out with the other man I will never call her again.

Should I wish to marry a girl I would have one more requirement and that is that she love me more than all others. If that were the case she would not break any dates with me because she wouldn't want to. There is nothing else I require. Do I ask too much?

I went to college and believe most of my associates are both cultured and refined, with possible lapses that are experienced by even the most cultured and refined. As for the necking parties, and they are quite every-day occurrences, they are entered into by the girls as well as the boys with a mutual desire. I have lived in this city and in New York and can truthfully say I have never seen a man force his attention on any woman with a few exceptions, and in these rare instances the man was drunk, and I might add was properly and promptly squelched, by the other fellows present.

When a woman expects to be necked the first time a man is out with her she invites it and usually gets it. I have known fellows of my acquaintance to refrain from it to see the effect on the girl. In most instances it has been difficult to date girls unnecked in three dates. Of course, there were cases where we discovered a lovely, likable girl too weak to resist the good times and too inexperienced to know that necking is not necessary to get by. Note the type of girl men fall for. They are attractive, with a personality they have developed that will enable them to talk to any number of men at once and never lose the interest of one. And also they do not neck a man they are not very fond of.

In spite of what I have said about the "fairer sex," and in spite of the fact I believe all and know some of the things I have said are true, I like them and respect them all. There is the high and low, in both sexes. Girls should realize that men, being human, make their mistakes and have weaknesses, and have since the beginning of time.

Some years ago my father said to me, "Son, respect every woman you meet, regardless of how high or low her station in life may be, for, being a woman, she is your superior." As many other wise things he said to me that has often helped me to pick up the broken ideals shattered by various girls I have known. Don't expect too much.

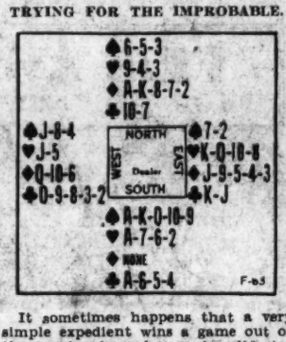
With all due respect to the comments slandering men, I still believe most men I know adhere unconsciously to the code of my father.

YOUNG MAN OF 24.

WORK ON BRIDGE

(This article is intended for the Auction and Contract Bridge beginner.)

TRYING FOR THE IMPROBABLE.



It sometimes happens that a very simple expedient wins a game out of the reach of a player who did not think of it.

The above hand would be played with Spades the trump at Auction Bridge, with four Spades the contract at Contract Bridge; and West would lead the Trey of Clubs. East would play the King and South, knowing from West's lead of the Trey, that East had at least one more Club (West could not have more than five) would hold up his Ace until the second round and, when East returned the Jack, would win the trick.

The Declarer could see that in addition to the one Club trick already taken, he had five Spades almost sure to win and the Ace of Hearts; but he probably would have to lose three small Clubs and three small Hearts if he exhausted the trumps. Dummy of course could ruff the third Club, but Declarer knew as West played the Deuce of Clubs on the second trick—that East had no more Clubs either. All that he would need from dummy was one successful ruff because he then could discard two losers on dummy's Ace and King of Diamonds, but how was he to get the successful ruff?

The best plan would be to lead two rounds of trumps first—the Ace and King. It might be that East had only two trumps and that playing in that way North could ruff the third Club and East could not overruff. Of course it was probable that East had three trumps and the scheme would not work; but it was well worth trying.

It will be seen in this hand how successfully it would result. When there is a chance for game, no matter how desperate it may be, it pays to see if it will work.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me why my sultana does not bloom.

MISS EMILY H. T.

As you have failed to tell me the care you have been giving the plant, I can not tell you where you are making a mistake. The Impatience sultana should bloom continuously if given a warm, sunny, well-ventilated location and a daily drink sufficient to moisten all the soil in the pot. A temperature of 68 degrees suits the plant.

Please tell me the proper soil to use when repotting a dracaena.

MABEL B. T.

A soil composed of loam, leafmold and a sufficient quantity of charcoal to keep the soil open and sweet. Later, when you find the plant is becoming well established and is starting to grow, give it an application of liquid manure.

No.

Please tell me the hardiest plant you know about for a fairly sunny living room heated by an old-fashioned stove. MRS. GEORGE T. C.

The aspidistra is the best plant for resisting neglect. It will live with too much or too little water, too much or too little fresh air, does not object to a dusty atmosphere and will stand any degree of temperature between 50 and 70 degrees.

Please tell me how to care for the tubers of tuberous-rooted begonias over the winter. WILLIAM V. T.

There are several methods used for keeping these tubers over the winter. Some allow them to remain in the soil in which they have been growing all summer (this applies to potted plants), allowing them to become quite dry. The pots may thus be stored in a dark closet where the temperature remains above 40 degrees, but does not go over 50 degrees. In March, such plants must be brought to the light and given water and heat. When sprouted they must be repotted into fresh soil. Another method is to leave the tubers in their pots until all foliage has died off. When the soil in the pots is dry the tubers are removed, wrapped in separate pieces of paper and stored in a dry, frost-proof room until March, when they are again started into growth.

Please tell me how often to water a crassula in a warm, but very well-ventilated place. JULIA F. T.

About once in two weeks.

Please tell me whether it is wise to uncover tulips in March.

AN AMATEUR GARDENER.

It all depends on the weather. It is best to uncover them gradually.

I have a beautifully, healthy calla lily a little over a year old, but it is showing no signs of blooming. Why is this? MARGARET K. L.

Please tell me what to do to make my red-berried ardisia grow. It is apparently healthy, but never gets any larger. HELEN F. H.

Nothing can be done to hasten the growth of this plant. The ardisia is a very slow grower.

(Copyright, 1931.)

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

The Wrong Appeal.

Many times one hears little children told to eat every bit of spinach or else "Mother will be so unhappy;" to be good else "Daddy won't love them any more;" not to run away or "Mother will cry."

As they grow older, they are made to elect schools, relinquish companions and pleasures, choose a career, all with reference to their parents' emotional reactions.

This method of control is wrong. A little child is confused by such a mixed use of ethical and emotional pressure. Learning to behave because one loves mother is not a sound basis for the development of a happily socialized personality.

It results in confusion in the child's mind. He is not learning to tell right from wrong in terms of fairness, consideration for others.

As he grows older and must make far-reaching and final decisions, this weighting of one side or another by the consideration of what makes father happy and what makes mother love one can only stand in the way of coming to sensible conclusions based upon the actual elements involved.

A little child best learns to behave as he should through an understanding of the relevant and sufficient reasons which lie back of the demands which his elders make.

He learns to behave because of some immediate practical result which even his immature intelligence may understand.

As he grows older and can generalize, he learns to do things on principle and in respect to certain general values of his own formulation.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

INTERESTING VEGETABLE RECIPES.

(U. S. Department of Agriculture.)

Harvard Beets.

½ cup sugar.
½ tablespoon cornstarch.
½ cup vinegar.
2 tablespoons butter.

Wash the beets, cook them in boiling water until tender, remove the skins and cut the beets into thin slices or cubes. Mix the sugar and the cornstarch. Add the vinegar and let the sauce boil for five minutes, stirring constantly. Just as the sauce is taken from the fire add the butter. Pour the sauce over the beets. Let them stand on the back of the stove for a few minutes so that the beets may absorb the sweet-sour flavor of the sauce.

Five-Minute Cabbage.

3 cups milk.
1 cup cream or rich milk.
2½ tablespoons butter.
2½ tablespoons flour.
Salt.
Pepper.

Cook the cabbage for two minutes in the three cups of hot milk. Add the cup of cream or rich milk, the blended butter and flour, and the seasoning and cook rapidly for three or four minutes. The result is a crisp vegetable, delicate in flavor and color.

What Today Means to You

"CAPRICORN."

IF January 10 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 10 a. m., from noon to 1 p. m. and from 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 3:30 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m.

You will derive energy and initiative from the astrological influences on this date, and a load which you have been unable to budge, should be readily moved. There will be a tendency to overdo things, however, and you should curb the fury of your impulses. Increased health and vitality for the ailing elderly.

Children born on this January 10 will have flexible natures, and environmental more than hereditary influences will stamp their imprint upon their characters. They will be imitative, highly imaginative, and afflicted with moods. They will want others to make up their minds for them.

Your short-comings as well as your virtues, if January 10 is your birthday, are negative in nature. Your faults are prohibitory, but are not vicious or destructive to your character. The world damns you for your unfulfilled intentions, and not for the deeds you do. You realize that your procrastinating habits show weakness and indecision on your part, but your will power is too weak for you to change. Opportunities come and go before you have time to make up your mind, or to get the nerve to meet them half way. You naturally lean on any one who will act as your prop, and experience has shown you that some of your props have been rotten at the core, letting you down at the wrong moment.

You have rather fatalistic views of life and accept good and bad fortune alike, as the workings of your Destiny. You seldom blame yourself, but sometimes whine at your luck, or envy those upon whom Fortune has seemed to smile more graciously.

You are happy with simple pleasures and comforts, and are a great home-body. You shun society in general, and do not readily make new friends. You are a passionate, loyal and jealous lover, and you are very possessive with those whom you consider your own. You are inclined to pout, and it would be better if you would "spout" out your troubles, when things are not to your liking.

Successful people born January 10:
Ethan Allen, Revolutionary soldier.
Julien Dubuque, pioneer of Iowa.
Louisa Lane Drew, actress.
Howard Chandler Christy, illustrator.

Hollywood Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY.

Hollywood—The movies' perpetual problem of finding new talent has become more perplexing in these days than it was when the delivery of lines was merely something to be seen, but never heard.

JOHN WAYNE.

New players, to replace the estimated 20 per cent bound to drop out in the annual turnover, must be had, but no approved source for finding them yet has been discovered. The stage has given a larger proportion of new talent to pictures in the last two years, but from there also have come many doubtful and countless failures.

Hollywood has learned that all who boast of stage training are not necessarily fitted for the talkies and greater care in the selection of "Broadway material" is expected to be shown.

Start a School.

Schools to develop likely newcomers have been discussed from time to time, to be sponsored and operated jointly by the studios.

A so-called "school of acting," the first since the one-term Paramount school of several years ago, which "found" Buddy Rogers, has been started by Warner Bros.-First, National.

Its methods will consist chiefly of practical training. "Students," numbering about a dozen, will present one-act plays in a small theater within the studio and play small roles in pictures.

Scholars for this unique school will be selected on their merits and given contracts at small weekly salaries.

If, after six months' training they show promise, they will be given more important parts—and probably more money. When they are not actually working, they will rehearse under the tutelage of a director.

Training Needed.

Schooling of this nature would be of great worth to such youngsters as Richard Cromwell, who played in "Tol'able David," and John Wayne, who was first seen in "The Big Trail." Both performances were amateurish; the young players lacked training.

Much needed new talent won't come from the extra ranks, because experience has shown there is little of it there.

Mayhap it will come from academies of acting.

Behind the Screens

—With NELSON B. BELL—

SPECIAL programs for juvenile audiences, under the personal direction of Mrs. Harriet Hawley Locher, formerly a chain-theater feature warmly supported by parents and teachers of Washington, are to be revived at the Fox Theater, beginning next Saturday morning, January 17.

The first of the major screen attractions to be presented by Mrs. Locher in her new series of programs will be "With Byrd at the South Pole," one of the most extraordinary films ever made. Appearing in person next Saturday, when this feature will be shown at the Fox at the performance for the junior audience only, will be three members of the Byrd expedition—Lieut. M. P. Hanson, Prof. Frank Davies and L. Z. Berkner. These companions of Admiral Byrd on what was perhaps his most thrilling adventure will be in the receiving line at the theater with Stephen E. Cramer, assistant superintendent of schools, and Lynn C. Drake, chief executive of the Boy Scouts.

A Boy Scout salute to the Flag will precede the showing of the picture. Bob West, who has just returned to the console of the Fox organ, will supply a wealth of musical entertainment and a screen comedy will complete the program.

Doors for this performance will be opened to the public at 8:45 a. m., and the special bill will continue until shortly before 11 o'clock, when the theater will be emptied in order that the regular Fox schedule for the day may be begun.

The regular children's admission price will be charged for all school children through junior high school age. Adults will be admitted at the regular adult rate. Since the juvenile program will be presented only once on Saturday morning, no more tickets will be sold than there are seats in the Fox, and no one will be admitted after the program has begun.

Important in the cast of "Free Love," opening today at the Rialto, is ZaSu Pitts, of whom Erich von Stroheim once said: "The greatest tragedienne on the screen—and she insists on wasting her talents on comedy." And therby hangs a tale.

In the old days of the silent cinema, Miss Pitts found it possible to vary her portrayals and occasionally essay a part that was not completely hilarious. There were those who harbored the erroneous notion, when sound came along, that audibility had relegated this experienced and distinctly individual player to that limbo of duration from which no reputation ever has been successfully salvaged. But the lady with the trick first name fooled 'em. What she actually was relegated to by sound was greater eminence than she had ever before enjoyed—but always as a comedienne.

There is something about ZaSu Pitts' voice that inspires a vast sense of amusement. The more serious she is, the funnier she becomes. Which, paradoxically, may be said to be the tragedy of it. For Herr von Stroheim was not distantly remote from the truth when he imputed to Miss Pitts a fine flair for those roles customarily draped in the sable plumes of sorrow. She can play them to a fare-thee-well, but the comic curse is on her, and, no matter how legitimate her effort, laughter always greets her work.

Although it may not be generally known, ZaSu Pitts was originally cast as young Baumer's mother in Universal's medal-winning production of Remarque's "All Quiet on the Western Front." In fact, she had completed her work in the picture, and what was supposed to be the master negative had been cut and assembled, when it was discovered that the preview audience refused to take Miss Pitts' characterization seriously and looked upon it as a purely comic creation. The print was recalled, Beryl Mercer hurriedly put in the part and the mother's scenes remade to avoid a situation that was not ZaSu Pitts' fault, but the public's.

So I presume she will be laughed at as the maid in the home of Conrad Nagel and Genevieve Tobin in "Free Love."

Word has just come over the wire from Martinsburg, W. Va., comes the flash that H. A. Doman, for many years manager of the Apollo and Central theaters in that city, has been appointed manager of the Maryland Theater in Hagerstown, Md., and is to be succeeded in advancing to Charles A. Clark, manager of the Warner Brothers Colony Theater, Georgia avenue and Farragut street, in Washington.

Since these are all Warner Brothers houses, further inquiry at the executive offices in the Earle Theater building elicited the additional information that Charles Grimes will be shifted from the Avalon to the Colony, to take Mr. Clark's place, and Walter Cersley from the York to the Avalon, to take Mr. Grimes'. The vacancy thus created at the York will be filled by the transfer of Maynard Madden to this city from the Virginia Theater in Harisonburg, Va.

Despite the fact that she has more than ten years of stage experience to her credit, Genevieve Tobin had never been married in a production, or played the part of a married woman, until cast opposite Conrad Nagel in "Free Love." In "Free Love," an adaptation of the Sidney Howard stage play, "Half Gods," Miss Tobin is married to Mr. Nagel, who, it will be remembered, played opposite her in her first picture, "A Lady Surrenders."

If the gentlemanly publicist has taken me for a ride with this one, don't bother to send in proof—I'll take your word for it.

A picture career, by the way, that was mixed up with the pie-throwing era graduates to the more substantial fare in the Paramount cinema pantry with the appearance of Lillian West in the part of Martha in the Ruth Chatterton talking picture, "The Right to Love," now at Loew's Columbia.

Miss West was one of the chief comedy tormenters of Gloria Swanson, Charlie Chaplin, Mabel Normand and a host of others before they rode to glory from the Sennett lot.

In the role of a waspish spinster Miss West returns to the screen in a dramatic impersonation after an absence of more than seven years—almost a celluloid lifetime!

When you come to think of it, RKO has ample reason to celebrate its second anniversary with a brilliant national flourish.

No other amusement enterprise of such ramifications has ever presented so complete a picture of well-rounded development in so short a period. Much has been heard, from time to time, about the amazing progress of Radio Pictures and the important place they have come to occupy in the industry. Starting with practically no organization or personnel, Radio-Keith-Orpheum has in two short years established Radio Pictures among the leaders in production.

RKO vaudeville, too, has made rapid strides toward a national revival during the past year, and public response has shown President Hiram S. Brown's confidence in this branch of amusements not to have been misplaced. In this field, of which RKO is undisputed leader, an extensive campaign of development and expansion is under way, and this season already has witnessed more progress in program building and the presentation of novelty than any previous interval.

But it is in the theater operations department that the most astonishing growth has been manifest. The acquisition of properties has been nationwide and in many instances has materially strengthened the physical structure of RKO in strategic points.

RKO has made amusement history in the first two years of its existence, and in so doing has laid a fine foundation for the building of future leadership and renown.

More steam to them, and if they want to bring vaudeville back to Keith's it will be okie with me.

This department acknowledges receipt of two very charming portrait studies of Miss Maxine Doyle, the piquant and pulchritudinous enunciator of entertainment at the Earle

Your Name
WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

The family name "Longworth" is of English origin. It means "the long inclosure" or "the long estate," and indicates the place of residence of the persons who were first so called. Many families which bear this name have received it because of having lived at one time in the town of Longworth in County Lancaster. This name does not seem to be recorded in English documents until a relatively late period. A marriage license was granted to a certain Isabel Longeworthe, of London, in the year 1572. A document of the year 1612 mentions an Alice Longworth, of Longworth, County Lancaster. Since the ending "worth" frequently becomes "-worthy" in English names, a common variation of "Longworth" is "Longworthy." These names have frequently become confused with "Langwith," "Langwath," and "Langworth."

The family name "Langwith" appears to be first recorded in English documents in the year 1524. A London marriage license of that year bears the name of a certain Agnes Langwyth. The name is ultimately of Scandinavian origin. Its full significance is "he who lives near the long woods." Residence in the town of Upper Langwith, Derbyshire, has frequently given rise to the family name.

The family name "Langwath" is ultimately of Scandinavian origin. Its full significance is "he who lives near the long ford." A certain William de Langwathe is mentioned in the Hundred Rolls, an important list of English names which was compiled in 1273.

The family name "Kuhl" is a low German form, the full significance of which is "he who lives at the ditch or hollow."

STATEMENT-MAKING, A FINE ART NOW

The old-time political spellbinder has been replaced by the professional slogan maker who writes, or seeks to write, eulogies and some times valedictories in a few arresting words.

President Andrew Jackson wrote one for himself, which has stood the test of time with practical politicians, in these words: "To the victor belongs the spoils."

Other Interesting Feature Articles Include—

When Eating Was an Art

An entertaining story of the old Canvasback Club as told by Gen. Allen, retired, its sole surviving member. He recalls the days when this club was a National institution at whose board assembled the outstanding men of the period. It numbered in its membership statesmen, artists and soldiers of the first rank. The story is fragrant with the memories of a more expansive day. Among the illustrations used in the article and etchings by the famous cartoonist, Tom Nast, one being of himself.

The Star Role in Uncle Sam's Latest Movie

This story has all the thrills and excitement of an actual hunt for the big cats of the Far West and describes the hazard of taking the motion pictures. It also contains authoritative information regarding the predatory beasts and birds which prey on domesticated animals and fowls.

Depression, Its Cause and Cure

This article discloses how largely good times and bad times are matters of public thought and points out many bright features in the picture, so gloom fogged by many. It should serve as a healthful tonic for the process of readjustment now going forward.

They See With Their Fingers

More than one hundred thousand persons who live in perpetual darkness are furnished reading matter of almost every kind through the Library of Congress and the Red Cross. Little is known generally and less has been written of the remarkable free service Uncle Sam performs for his citizens who are afflicted with blindness. This story presents an informative record of this service, a large part of which is rendered by persons who are themselves sightless.

PEACE MOVES FAIL IN BRITISH STRIKES

INVOLVES 2 INDUSTRIES

London, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—Today's developments in the labor disputes of two great British industries, coal and cotton, developed the gloomy probability of extended unemployment for about 650,000 workers, with resultant hardship for three or four times that number of women and children dependents.

Hope was bright this morning for a settlement of the South Wales coal stoppage, affecting 140,000 men, but a "peace" meeting at Cardiff, Wales, finally broke up over different interpretations of a single phrase, and the mines will remain closed at least until next week. Work was stopped in them on New Year's Day over disputes concerning wages and hours.

In the cotton dispute, which arose over the owners' announced intention of introducing more looms per weaver, the central committee of the Cotton Spinners and Manufacturers Associations at Manchester passed a resolution today recommending that association members close their mills on January 17 if the dispute remains unsettled on that date.

Also Suspend Spinners.

This action of the cotton spinners and manufacturers would throw about 250,000 weavers, against whom the action is aimed, out of work, and also would suspend automatically the same number of spinners, whose labor is supplemental to that of the weavers.

At the coal meeting held at Cardiff all appeared to be working toward agreement during the first hours, but a snag was hit over a phrase saying that if the conciliation board disagreed as to the reduction of wages, if any, the matter must be decided by the board chairman.

The miners insisted that this should be interpreted as giving the chairman power to decide the wage reduction, solely on a basis of two hours less work each week. The owners were just as firm that he be allowed to take all conditions into consideration, and the meeting broke up without any agreement being reached.

Plan Added Meeting.

Both sides, however, accepted an invitation of the chairman of the board of trade to meet again in London Monday, in one more effort to reach a plan agreeable to all.

In the cotton textile industry, difficulties have been encountered because of the weavers' refusal to accept the mill owners' demand that each man now operating four looms take over twice that number. The owners offered an increase in pay of about $10 a week, but the weavers contend that this change would throw many men out of work.

In nine mills at Burnley 5,000 weavers went on strike list week when the owners insisted on installing the new system, and since then it has been feared that the strike might extend throughout the industry. Conferences seeking a settlement have been fruitless.

Methodist Men Quicken Service

Calvary to Have Song Leader for Congregation tion Tomorrow Night.

The men of Calvary Methodist Church, on Columbia Road near Fifteenth street, are thinking up new ideas to keep the Sunday night service going at top speed. Since they took over this service they have built up the attendance until it now often equals that of the morning hour. One reason for this is that they have charge of it; another is that it has a lot of music as part of the program; a third is that their pastor, Dr. Mark Depp, condenses a two-hour sermon into fifteen minutes.

Tomorrow evening Dr. Depp will be assisted by Dr. H. M. Dudley, who will lead the song service; Kenneth Vipond, who will offer prayer, and William B. Wells, who will read the Scripture lesson.

The soloist will be Miss Helen Belt, violinist, who will be accompanied by Louis Potter.

New Armored Tank Sets Speed Record

Linden, N. J., Jan. 9 (A.P.).—The speediest armored tank ever built was put through its paces this morning before Capt. L. D. Thorp, U. S. Army inspector.

Powered by a 338-horsepower airplane motor, the machine, which closely resembles a racing automobile, zoomed about the field at a speed of 75 miles an hour. Walter J. Christie, who has spent ten years and $400,000 developing the tank, said that on wheels the machine would travel 90 miles an hour and on caterpillar tracks 45 miles an hour.

Five-eighth-inch steel armor protects the machine and its crew of two men. It can be changed from a track tread to four-wheel tread by the crew in a few minutes. Its armament consists of a one-pound cannon and a .30-caliber machine gun. It goes 3 miles to a gallon of gasoline on wheels and 2 on tracks. It is driven through the front wheels.

INDIANS TO REPLACE BRITISH IN WAR UNIT

MILITARY SCHOOL URGED

London, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—The gradual molding of the Indian Army into a national unit, in which the present British officer personnel eventually would be replaced by Indian, was announced today as a definite policy of the British government.

Speaking before the subcommittee on defense of the round table conference, J. H. Thomas, secretary of State for the Dominions, also said it was proposed to establish a national military school for India similar to Sandhurst, in England, and West Point, in the United States.

He reminded the delegates, however, it would be at least 35 years before the last British officer could be retired from the Indian army, but pointed out that complete Indianization of the forces would not be a prerequisite of responsible government in India.

Mr. Thomas emphasized the difference between national defense and the maintenance of law and order, and reminded that all the Dominions are still dependent on the British navy for protection.

Sir Mohammed Ismail, premier of Mysore, welcomed the announcement in regard to establishment of an Indian military school, but did not think the complete elimination of the British officer in India was desirable, even if practicable.

At Edinburgh today, where the freedom of the city was conferred on Srinivasa Sastri and the Nawab of Bhopal, Indian delegates, Sastri praised highly the accomplishments of the round table, which is expected to close about January 20.

"The brightest chapter in the history of Great Britain is being written at St. James Palace," he said, predicting that the freedom of India would be achieved by discussion, compromise, mutual understanding and mutual accommodation at the round table.

NORTHERN RAILWAYS DROP MERGER PLANS

I. C. C. Ruling Requiring Sale of the Burlington Line Blocks Program.

SCHEME OFTEN AIRED

New York, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—The prospective merger of the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern Railways, which has seemed on the verge of completion several times during a stormy career of nearly 30 years, has once more been called off.

The heads to the two roads, and the stockholders' unification committee, jointly announced today that the merger application filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission July 5, 1927, would be withdrawn, owing to inability to meet the terms under which the commission approved the application in February, 1930.

The stumbling block was the commission's stipulation that the two roads divest themselves of their joint control of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, over which the Northerns have access into Chicago. The commission's own consolidation plan published a year ago sets up an independent system on the basis of the Burlington system.

A unification of the two Northerns would result in a system of nearly 15,000 miles of line, and assets of a total book value, according to latest available statements, of approximately $1,700,000,000. The Burlington has additional mileage of more than 9,000 miles, and a book value of more than $700,000,000.

EASTERN AND WESTERN WIN IN SERIES THRILLERS

More Football Is Remedy of Southwest

Gridiron Profits Seen as Cure for College Sports Ills.

Decreased Receipts Causes Cut in Winter, Spring Teams.

By GAYLE TALBOT, JR.

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 9 (A.P.).—Sharp retrenchment in winter and spring sports, such as basketball, track and baseball, followed by a football boom in the more profitable sport of football, is prescribed by Southwest Conference athletic directors as the proper treatment of the college ills brought about by the current financial depression.

Although exact figures were not available, a survey of conference business offices reveals gridiron receipts were off something like 25 per cent for the recent season, some schools suffering worse than others. But, instead of letting the situation bother them, the financial directors simply plan to pile on bigger and better football attractions this year.

More Grid Games Seen Best But.

"There's nothing to be gained in setting up now. Curtailed receipts during the past season and a corresponding decrease in scholastic tuitions left many of us, especially the denominational schools, in a wobbly condition. Our best bet is to arrange more football games next season and pull out of it. A football game is one thing that can be counted upon to make money."

That Southwest directors are in accord with Dr. Blackwell's idea is reflected in next season's conference schedules. Each of the seven members has arranged a complete program of conference games and then added a few practice and intersectional tilts for good measure.

Among the intersectional contests will be: Texas vs. Harvard, at Cambridge; Southern Methodist vs. Navy, at Baltimore; Rice vs. Arizona, at Tucson, and Arkansas vs. University of Chicago, at Chicago. Southern Methodist received five invitations to play on the Pacific Coast, including one from Southern California, but did not have an open date.

Winter, Spring Sports Held to Minimum.

Meantime, winter and spring activities are being held to a minimum. The Southwest Conference will play a full program of basket ball, each team meeting its six rivals twice, but every effort has been made to cut expenses. At least one team has arranged to make all of its road trips in automobiles owned by members of the coaching staff and individuals.

On the plea of harried financial directors, the conference faculty committee slashed the baseball schedule in half, reducing it from 20 games to 10.

Southern Methodist, which has conducted the invitational track meet the last two springs, asked to be relieved of the event in 1931. Rice Institute, an endowed school and consequently free of any outside demands on its athletic fund, agreed to take over the event for one year. The University of Texas, the one member of the conference that enjoyed bumper receipts during the recent football season, announced it would hold its invitational cinder meet as usual.

Spring Football Is Inexpensive.

Neither the spring football training camps nor coaching schools will be hampered by the depression. As the various business managers pointed out, spring training brings little additional expense. Coaching staffs already are on hand, on a salary basis, and the players use their old uniforms. Coaching schools are self-supporting.

Sande Enters Films; Will Act, Ride and Sing in Production

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—Earl Sande, premier jockey, is going to enter the movies.

Warner Brothers announced today they had signed Sande to make a film at their Long Island studio in which the jockey will act, sing and ride horses. His supporting cast is still to be selected.

Sande not only rode Gallant Fox to Kentucky Derby immortality, but more recently has neglected the turf in favor of music.

"The picture, which will probably be in production by March 1, will show Sande's ability and methods as a jockey," said the announcement. "It will also make use of his other talents, not the least of which is his singing.

"The 'love interest' for the picture probably will be chosen from among several prominent actresses now in the East. No title for the picture has been chosen."

CAREY HOLDS DIM HOPE OF BOUT

Jack Sharkey Agrees to Fight Stribling, However.

BOSTON, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight, today verbally agreed to battle Young Stribling in New York next month for the Madison Square Garden. Sharkey's promise to meet the Southerner was given during a conference between Johnny Buckley, his manager, and William F. Carey, head of the New York sports palace.

In an effort to help straighten out the muddled heavyweight situation Buckley also agreed to accompany Carey back to New York and sit in during the latter's conference with "Pa" Stribling, probably tomorrow.

Carey Not Optimistic Concerning Bout.

"We're trying hard," Carey said, "to get Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling together in a match and while we have not given up hope of getting Stribling in line, things are not looking any too bright for the bout. We want to put it on in New York if we can for we think it would prove the best attraction we could get at this time."

Sharkey, who is always in light training, began taking daily gymnasium workouts early this week. He has engaged a pair of sparring partners and his actions indicate that he expects to engage in some sort of a bout soon.

New York Angle Is Mystery.

New York, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—The heavyweight muddle took on all the elements of the first act of a mystery thriller today with harassed sports writers in the roles of the detectives searching for the corpus delecti or at least a motive.

"Pa" Stribling, head of the family that boasts W. L. ("Young") Stribling as its fighting member, arrived in New York, flashed across the stage, and immediately disappeared. A mysterious voice, identified as that of Nate Lewis, Chicago promoter, who wants to stage a heavyweight title bout between Max Schmeling and Stribling, announced the elder Stribling was hidden away somewhere, absolutely in his power, and there were immediate fears for the worst.

Joe Jacobs, manager of the German titleholder, who was dethroned by the New York State Athletic Commission last Tuesday, also vanished, though it was suspected he was merely sleeping somewhere.

"Pa" Stribling Declares For Schmeling Bout.

Decision Booed by Crowd of 10,000 in Garden.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—Vince Dundee, rough youngster from Baltimore, won the decision over Len Harvey, British middleweight, in a twelve-round feature bout tonight after being floored twice in the first round for counts of nine.

Gaston le Cadre, French lightweight, punched out a close decision tonight over Jack Portney, promising youngster from Baltimore, in the first ten-round bout. There were no knockdowns, but the going was rough and hard throughout. Le Cadre weighed 139½, Portney 134.

Izaak Walton League Hits Purse Net Fishing

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 9.—A resolution urging legislation for the elimination of purse net fishing in Maryland waters was adopted today by the Maryland and District of Columbia Regional Council of the Izaak Walton League of America in convention at the Lord Baltimore Hotel.

Action followed an address by M. E. Turner, president of the Maryland State Game and Fish Protective Association, who condemned purse netting in the Chesapeake Bay.

Another resolution calling for a law forbidding the taking of black bass for commercial purposes was adopted.

The need for legislation to regulate black bass fishing in the State was emphasized in a speech by Edward C. Kemper, Betheads, Md., chairman of the bass protective committee of the Potomac Anglers Association.

The legislation advocated in the resolution would prohibit the taking of bass except with hook and line and would ban the transportation or sale of bass in commercial quantities.

Georgetown Prep Wins Over Swavely Quintet

Special to The Washington Post.

Manassas, Va., Jan. 9.—Georgetown Prep School uncorked a second half rally that produced a 24-17 victory over the Swavely Prep School basket ball team here today.

Led by the sharpshooting of Ragland and R. Beekin, the Washingtonians outscored Swavely from the start although leading by only 5 to 4 at the end of the first half, which was featured by clever defensive play.

MARYLAND U. ROUTS V.M.I. FIVE, 38-18

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., Jan. 9.—Maryland's speedy crew of basketers with unerring eyes for the net proved too much for V. M. I. tonight in the opening Southern Conference game for both teams, and the Cadets went down in defeat, 35 to 18.

Norris, rangy Old Line center, caused the greatest damage to V. M. I. with six goals from the floor and five from the foul line. Capt. Ronkin, though held scoreless, was the spark plug of the fast breaking Maryland attack, and Chalmers located the basket four times, besides running the floor well.

Capt. Marion Brown was high scorer for the Cadets, and Cutchin dropped in two sensational long shots.

Norris and Berger put the Old Liners ahead by five points before Capt. Brown converted a free throw midway in the period. Clever passes accounted for two goals by Norris and one by May. Brown got the Cadets back in the game with two shots in a row, the second being from a difficult side angle. The half ended with Maryland ahead, 19 to 8.

Brown, Mergenhagen and Cutchin hit the hoops in the second period before Maryland scored, and V. M. I. was only four points behind. A foul by Chalmers and a long shot by Cutchin left the Cadets only three points in the rear, with ten minutes to go. Then Norris, May and Berger mixed dribbles and passes that accounted for six goals in a row before the game ended.

Bobby Jones' Illness Proves Mere Rumor

Special to The Washington Post.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 9.—Reports that Bobby Jones was seriously ill at his home here, which gained wide circulation during the week proved to be unfounded, investigation today revealed.

Rumors that had gained credence in many circles said that the king of golfers was suffering from pneumonia and complications and caused much unrest among his friends here. Jones, however, himself testified that he was hale and hearty and his appearance bore him out. He was amused at the report.

Takoma-Silver Spring Defeats Rockville, 17-15

Special to The Washington Post.

Rockville, Md., Jan. 9.—Successfully checking a last-half rally on the part of Rockville High here this afternoon, Takoma-Silver Spring High School cagers opened play in the Montgomery County High School League by defeating the Rocks, 17 to 15.

The winners had a 6-point margin at the intermission, which was wiped out in the first few minutes of the second half, when Perkins, Rockville forward, caged three sensational field goals to tie the score. The battle from this point on was nip and tuck until the end.

Mygatt, Takoma forward, carried off high scoring honors with four double-deckers and two fouls. Pritchard and Leisear also looked good for the winners. Perkins and Becker were the luminaries for the home team.

ONLY THREE ROBINS IN COLD

New York, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—The Brooklyn Dodgers, one of the first of the major teams to send contracts to its players, today announced the signing of Rube Bressler, veteran outfielder, who has been with the club for several years. Among the regulars only Capt. Glenn Wright, Babe Herman and Arthur C. Vance, the old dazzler himself, remain unsigned.

SELL'S SHOT DECIDES FOR AMERICAN

Two-Pointer in Final Minute Beats Gallaudet, 23-21.

COACH WALTER YOUNG'S fighting American University basketers downed an equally aggressive foe last night on their own floor when they defeated the Gallaudet College Five, 23 to 21. Oscar Sell's neat under-the-basket shot decided the hectic fray in the final 30 seconds of play, after the Blues had made a courageous fight to even matters up to that point.

The Eagles started off as if they intended to swamp their guests, scoring nine points in the first ten minutes of play before Delmar Cosgrove, brilliant scoring ace of the Florida avenue institution, finally broke through to start his mates on a belated rally. A foul shot by the same individual and two rapid baskets by "Rabbit" Ringle brought the score up to 9 to 7 in favor of American U. Woods then sank a foul for the Methodists, and Wurdeman dropped in a neat goal as the half ended, 10 to 9.

Dick Comes to Rescue.

A little known basketer, answering to the name of Lionel Dick, subbing for Woods, came to Coach Young's rescue with the resumption of play, making two field goals in rapid succession. A shot by "Red" Olsen ran the A. U. lead up to 16 to 9 midway of the second half. At this stage Cosgrove and Ringle, this time with some excellent foul shooting assistance by Wurdeman, tied the score at 18-all with three minutes to go. Double fouls were called on Wurdeman and Dick, and they both promptly made their attempts good, and the score was again deadlocked. Woods sent the Eagles into a momentary lead with a neat side-court goal, but Ringle again evened matters with a brilliant overhead basket. Then Oscar Sell, elongated center of the Massachusetts avenue collegians, clinched the contest with his all-important field goal.

The rival centers, Sells and Ringle, lead their mates in scoring, each making eight points.

Mike Gonzales Comes Back to Cards at 38

St. Louis, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—Mike Gonzales, at the age of 38, is coming back to play ball with the Cardinals for the third time, Branch Rickey, vice president of the Red Birds' organization, announced today. Gonzales will be used as a regular receiver to fill out the staff of two regulars, Mancuso and Wilson.

"Gonzales had a splendid season with the Minneapolis American Association last year," said Rickey, "and he is a valuable man to have on any staff."

Youth, 15, Survives in Miami Amateur

Miami, Fla., Jan. 9 (A.P.).—Win Day, 15-year-old Chicago youth, gave his fellow contestants something to think about for the second day in succession today as he pushed a quarter-final match in the Miami mid-winter amateur golf tournament to the nineteenth hole to win.

The youngster defeated C. A. Bailey, Akron, Ohio, 1 up in 19 holes to advance to the semifinals. He had a similar score yesterday when he defeated Millard Chase, Buffalo.

WAYNE MUNN.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 9 (A.P.). Wayne H. (Big) Munn, the Mastodonic wrestler who crashed his way to a brief reign in 1925 as claimant of the world's heavyweight mat title, died here today.

Bright's disease ended the career of the 35-year-old former University of Nebraska athlete. Six years ago in Convention Hall at Kansas City Munn tossed Ed "Strangler" Lewis out of the ring, won the match before 15,000 spectators, and was acclaimed the leading heavyweight grappler of the world.

It was January 8, 1925, when Munn dethroned Lewis, then generally rated as the champion. A little more than three months later—April

Sharkey and Stribling Offered $100,000 for Match With Walker

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9 (A.P.). Offers of $100,000 guarantees to meet Mickey Walker in a 10-round bout at the Municipal Stadium here next June were wired by the Arena Corporation today to the managers of Jack Sharkye and Young Stribling.

Latona Leads Attack as Business Five Bows, 28-23.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

TIMEKEEPER HAIGHT'S cannon brought to a close yesterday as spirited an opening day as a high school series has seen in several years. It was an afternoon of rip-snorting basket ball, revealing, when the smoke lifted, Eastern a 27-23 victor over Tech and Western a 28-23 winner above Business.

Three thousand fans filled Tech's gym to witness the defeat of the defending champions, Tech, and the restaging of one of the narrow defeats the fans have come to expect of Business in basket ball. It was a good hard game, this Business-Western battle, but it was rendered somewhat flat by the tempo established by the Tech-Eastern tussle.

The shifting tides of fortune during the first game kept the fans constantly yelling. Eastern, after establishing a superiority in the first part of the fray, was forced to stand by and see its work undone by the machine-like precision of Tech, and then Tech surveyed the vista of an Eastern team running in an unknown high gear, which overhauled them and left them slightly dusty toward the dying moments of the race.

Noonan Proves The Difference.

It was the entrance or exit of Big Bill Noonan which seemed to hold Eastern's fate in hand. The monumental center-passer-blocker-sharpshooter was taken out just before Tech went into the lead for the first time, at 11-10 near the end of the first half. Coach Guyon sent him back in at the near-end of the third period when Tech was out in front by the margin of 20-13.

The effect was instantaneous on the team as a whole. Lieb brought the score to 20-15 on a long potshot, then Noonan—big as he is—shook his guarding to sink two in quick succession, an exertion which brought his team up to within one point of Tech, and put Eastern one point ahead at the start of the last period after dribbling the ball the length of the floor.

Reed tied up the game, 22 to 22, by dropping in a gift basket, but Noonan boosted Eastern's score by 3 points in short order, which sent Tech's zone defense into discard. It was furious play at this point, with Tech's fans going mad when Reichardt dropped in two free tosses to bring his team to 26 to 23, but nothing ever came of it. Barney Kane, Eastern's captain, boosting the Blue and White score to 27 just as the game closed.

Height Served Eastern Well.

It is difficult to draw comparisons between Tech and Eastern. The winners won on any of several counts. Height, for one thing, was an asset of undoubted worth. Eastern's imaginative long shooting, over the heads of Tech's zone defense, brought fruit at opportune moments. Eastern got the ball off the backboard a bit more consistently, too.

Not to be overlooked was the work of Shirley, who not only directed the play at Eastern, but hung to Russell, Tech's renowned deadeye, like some sort of growth.

Generals in Overtime Victory Over St. John's

Special to The Washington Post.

Lexington, Va., Jan. 9.—Washington and Lee's basket ball team left the court here tonight badly scared after an exciting extra period game with St. John's, of Annapolis, which the Generals won, 28 to 26.

With the end of the game the score stood 24 to 24 and during the five-minute period, Washington and Lee's aces, Cox and Williams pushed through the Johnnies' defense for two pointers. Carpenter, of St. John's, pushed his team into the lead in the overtime with a shot from the foul line.

Yale Weekly Advocates Abolition of Coaches

New Haven, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—The Yale Alumni Weekly, in an editorial published today, urges abolition of paid football coaches except for freshmen teams.

"In football," the editorial says, "a practicable plan would be to have the freshman team under a competent, salaried year-round coach, attached to the university who would develop incoming material each year to go on later to the upper class, interhouse teams and into the varsity eleven.

"Varsity football would be in the sole hands of its captain. The coaching would be under a field coach, chosen from recent players and assisted by other returning graduates, all unpaid.

"Under such a scheme there would be no occasion at all for a head coach in the present meaning of the term."

ARM INJURY LATEST ILL LUCK TO STALK SAM WEST

X-Ray Shows Fracture in Elbow

Outfielder Troubled by Many Injuries in Career as Nat.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

HARD luck surely seems to be camping on the trail of Sam West, center fielder of the Nationals. His latest bad break is the discovery that the rest treatment ordered for an injured elbow of his throwing arm (his left), before the 1930 schedule was ended, has failed to bring about the hoped-for cure. While an operation is being considered, indications are that more rest will be ordered, as some improvement has been noted and the knife will be resorted to only as a last resource.

Sam left the team during the last Western trip of 1930, because, for some unknown reason, his throwing wing suddenly had started hurting him. He was told to go to his home at Rochester, Tex., and give his flipper nothing else but rest. On New Year's Day, in accordance with instructions from the Washington Club physician, he had X-ray photographs taken of his ailing elbow, and, when the proofs were forwarded here, he was told to follow quickly in person.

Small Bone Break Revealed by X-Ray.

West arrived here yesterday, and, during the afternoon had some more X-rays taken. These showed a small bone break on the side joint of his elbow and possibly a chip within the joint. The club physician is to make his report to Clark Griffith, president of the Nationals, this morning. While West may have to go under the knife ultimately, the physician stated last night that he is inclined to give the "rest cure" another chance before urging an operation.

This decision, no doubt, is based on the fact that the Nat fly chaser suffered from approximately the same thing while training at Chattanooga last spring, and, by laying off for only two or three weeks, was able to get back in the line-up and to play regularly for practically the entire season.

Handicapped Often While With Nats.

West has been handicapped one way or another ever since he joined the Nats. After he was bought from Birmingham in 1926, he was hit on the head by a pitched ball and suffered a bad brain concussion. Because of his natural ability, he was nursed along by the Nats all of 1927, his first season here. Since, one season saw two bad Charleyhorse attacks throw him off stride, while bad tonsils, which were later extracted, affected his play during another.

West apparently found himself last season. At the start, George Loepp believed him against southpaw pitchers, but later Sam faced all kinds. He ended with a nobby .328 average, his drives including 6 homers, 10 triples and 22 doubles. As to the timeliness of his blows, he drove in 57 runs, only one less than was credited to Mule Haas, of the Mackmen, who played in 10 more games than did West.

"Sam of Birmingham" has made many friends and admirers here and it is to be hoped that, just when he appears to have won himself a regular berth without question, this injury—and its cause is unknown—will not knock him back in the ruck again.

Emerson Five Plays Navy Plebes Today

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Jan. 9.—Naval Academy basket ball players will put on a double-header here tomorrow, the varsity five meeting Rutgers College, of New Brunswick, N. J., while the Plebes will tackle Emerson Institute, of Washington.

The Navy regulars have shown steady improvement as the season progresses. They have registered four straight victories and stand in good stead to take the measure of Rutgers. The Plebes have another strong combination and are in good trim for their debut.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

GOLF is not the only thing that has had its miniature stunts. In Fairbury, Nebr., there was conducted a miniature writing contest, and A. S. Bishop, after "training" for two weeks wrote his 49,170 letters on a postcard, comprising 1,639 sentences of five words each, in eleven and a half hours.

Charles von Berg, the 67-year-old hockey player, had the unusual pleasure of returning to his old home town in triumph. He moved away from it when he was 6, and returned when he was 58, playing in a State championship game as captain and goalie. He still plays a remarkable game, and is also a nimble, first-rated tennis player.

Boots and Saddles

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Fair Grounds Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

THE half-holiday program at the Fair Grounds today is the best so far at this meeting. While the Rex Handicap, $3,000 added for 3-year-olds at 6 furlongs is the feature and the best race, there are others that are above the ordinary, the Roosevelt Handicap and the Flying High Allowance Purse supporting the headliner with good horses. The Rex Handicap is recognized as a Louisiana Derby test.

It was in this race that Quatrain, Kentucky Derby favorite, was beaten by Justice F., the beginning of a remarkable winning career for Dr. Riddle's horse, whose racing career was ended by winning the New Orleans $50,000 Handicap. C. V. Whitney's CHENE is selected to win this renewal. This filly has won her last two starts, beating SPANISH PLAY and Reproof in her last race. SPANISH PLAY may again be the contender, for he later beat Malaita, and appears to be a speedy gelding. BRASS MONKEY has won two races at this track, and lost one. He should be a contender, as may also be LMA DREAMER and OUR JOHNNY.

FIRST RACE—This race is for 4-year-olds and up at a mile and a sixteenth. On his last race, PETER seems a shade the best, but is inconsistent. He ran second to Black On White, beaten a length. BLUE JOHN, which ran a good race the other day, finishing second to Poison Ivy, and only beaten a nose, is rated the contender. That race was in the mud, but the time was good. NAZDAR was fourth last out to Don Tinkey. This is a weaker field.

SECOND RACE—FUDGE should win the second. The C. V. Whitney colt beat Our Johnny a week ago, but on his last outing was third to Fly Guy. He led up to the last stride in Wednesday's race, but quit. He should go on in this. PEATBIT won her last out over a good field, but that was in the mud, she beating West Virginia. She should be the contender here. OUR JOHNNY has been running well, and should save third money.

THIRD RACE—BROAD MEADOWS, a failure in his last two starts, is selected to win the third because he is much better than those efforts indicate. He was odds-on last out and ran third to Zoom and Betty Beau. A few days previously he was third to Agiataor and was favorite in that race. He has weaker opposition in this and should win all the way, and doubtless will do so. ESSARE may beat GOLDEN PRINCE for place. The two seem to be the contenders here, with ESSARE due for another good effort.

FIFTH RACE—KADIAK will have SKIRL to beat in the Hotel Roosevelt Handicap. KADIAK is a consistent plater, having won three or four winter races, and in his last beat Bocaratone. SKIRL won last out and has more class, but at the distance the older horse has the edge. ROCKET GLARE has improved all along, won twice, and she should make it a close, three-horse finish.

SIXTH RACE—The sixth race seems to be to order for CELTIC PRINCE. BEHAVE CASH, which followed him home last out, should be the contender. JACK HASKELL won the last race in which these two ran second and third, respectively, and, with him out, the finish should be in the order named, while LITTLE GYP has only DISTURB to beat for show money, unless PARADISE should show great improvement.

SEVENTH RACE—HERENDEEN is the class of the seventh, and won his last out from Vanquish. DUELIST may be a keen contender, for he found victory easy over BROKEN in his last start. VOLTMETER, after a rest, may flash some form and finish in the money.

EIGHTH RACE—The eighth race is to be run as a substitute in the event a race should be declared off. VILLAGER may be the winner if they start. He was second to Zahn in his last start. HY SCHNEIDER probably is best of the others.

LONG-SHOTS FEATURE RACES

Choices Have Bad Day at Fair Grounds Track.

FAIR GROUNDS RACE TRACK, La., Jan. 9 (A.P.).—Elizabeth Bolla, one of the most consistent mares running here this winter, added another purse to her long list when she annexed first money in the Good and Gay Purse, fourth on the card and feature here today. She picked up 112 pounds, and, under Jockey Streeton's hustling ride, ran the 6 furlongs in 1:13. She paid $13.80.

Snooze and Reproof were used up in their attempt to set the pace, with the result that both of them tired badly, while Elizabeth Bolla, who was allowed to rate in third place to the stretch, easily took command and won by a length.

Bide A Wee was up in the stretch run to save the place by two lengths over Snooze.

Flo M. Driving Winner In Opener.

Flo M., belonging to the Jones Stock Farm, was a driving winner of the "baby" race, first on the card. It was a 3-furlong sprint, and Flo M won in a drive by half a length after leading all the way. Princess Ivre, favorite, was second, and Magna Mater third. The winner paid $43.20 for a $2 ticket.

Thistle Duke, paying $13.40, was a galloping winner of the second event, a 6-furlong affair. Lady Sweet was second and Chehalis third. Thistle Duke got away flying, opened a wide lead, and won by three lengths. Lady Sweet closed gamely from a slow beginning and was an easy second, with Chehalis saving third by a head from Ravine.

Black Alice, neglected in the betting and paying $26.10, scored in a drive in the third event, a gallop of a mile and a sixteenth. Junior C was second and Kelly's Pride third. Fair Folly was fourth.

Sidney Grant came from last place in the stretch to gain the purse in the fifth race, a gallop of a mile and a sixteenth. Fortunate Youth was second and Rueful third.

Sidney Grant Closes With a Rush.

Fortunate Youth led the field to the final sixteenth, where Sidney Grant closed with a powerful rush on the outside to win by half a length. The winner paid $29.

LIMATE SELLING CUTS 22 INTO STOCK GAINS

DECLINE IN U. S. STEEL

New York, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—Rails were hosts at another stock market rally today, but the party ended in some confusion when the bears insisted on taking charge.

Cheered by the generally favorable character of the news in the last week, the market was able to report progress during most of the session, only to run into late selling that chipped 1 to 3 points net from the active industrials, specialties and utilities and halved extreme advances of 2 to 7 points in the carrier issues. Trading increased sharply over yesterday, sales totaling 2,794,720 shares.

Early heaviness in the steels and chemicals was accompanied by higher prices for the rails. Toward noon the motor stocks also rallied and other groups, with the exception of the chemicals, regained their small losses.

Rails Advance Rapidly.

By afternoon the rails were advancing rapidly, carrying many of the specialties with them. The trend was reversed, however, in the last half hour and gained momentum in the final dealings.

Railway equities closed with net gains for the most part, and a few of the inactive shares showed wide improvement. Jersey Central held a 33-point rise and Pittsburgh & West Virginia finished with its extreme advance of 16 points intact. Reading was up 7, but Southern Railway, New York Central, Rock Island, Baltimore & Ohio and others offered less resistance to profit taking and short selling.

Closing quotations on United States Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Dupont, American Can, Sears-Roebuck, National Biscuit, United Corporation, Consolidated Gas and International Telephone were 1 to 2 points lower. Auburn Automobile and Case lost 3, while Allied Chemical dropped 9, to 164, the lowest since 1928. Selling of the stock has been based on the weakness of prices of soda ash, the chief product of an important subsidiary.

Atterbury's Statement Cited.

The statement of President Atterbury, of the Pennsylvania, that the prospective railroad consolidation would require several years for completion seemed to embody Wall street's own conservative appraisal of the situation, since it is well realized that a merger plan, however desirable, can not be immediately translated into such tangibles as increased traffic and earnings. Mr. Atterbury also offered the reminder that the railroad business usually does not improve until about six months after other lines.

Movements of the grains were mostly narrow. Corn, influenced by larger country markets and an unsettled cash market situation, reacted about a cent, but wheat closed steady, with small fractional gains predominant. Cotton finished 8 points lower to 3 higher.

A rally in the Canadian dollar followed announcement of a $5,000,000 gold shipment, which contradicted rumors of a Dominion embargo on the metal. European rates eased nominally. Far Easterns sagged with the ¼-cent drop in bar silver.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—Responsive to stock market reactions, all grain dropped today. Temporarily, corn rallied on reports that shipments from Omaha were about double arrivals and that Nebraska feeders were paying elevator 3 cents a bushel premium for corn. Drought advices from domestic wheat territory were also a transient stimulus, but afterward strength oozed out of the markets all around.

Rain closed unsteady, ⅝@1¼ cents lower than yesterday, wheat ⅛@⅜ cents up, oats ¼@⅝ down and provisions 5 to 15 cents setback to 3 cents gain.

Handicapped by weather which permits grazing in many sections, especially in the Southwest, friends of higher prices for corn made no lasting headway. The fact that Chicago arrivals, 87 cars, were somewhat enlarged acted as a weight on values and did much to counterbalance curtailment of new supplies elsewhere. Primary receipts totaled 930,000 bushels, against 1,424,000 a week ago, but were considerably in excess of the amount a year back, 650,000.

Foreign buying of May wheat appeared at times, but the demand waned quickly and was ascribed largely to drought buying was ascribed largely to drought complaints and was subject to comment from trade authorities here that January crop scares afford a very insecure foundation for bull markets, notwithstanding that moisture since last July has been far below normal over most of the United States. The market was bearishly influenced also by Liverpool reports of pressure of offerings from Argentina and Australia. Oats followed corn, reflecting hog price downturns.

WHOLESALE PRICES REACH RECORD LOW

Farm Products' Level Also Recedes Sharply Along With Commodities.

PRODUCTION DROPS, TOO

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

A half-point drop of wholesale commodity prices to the lowest level in the present decline is revealed by the Department of Commerce summary of domestic business conditions for the week ended January 3, which shows that prices of farm products also receded sharply during the week. Those of semimanufactured goods and nonagricultural products rose during the same period. The iron and steel composite price index remained as of the preceding week, but the price of cotton middling advanced for the first time since the opening week of December.

Cotton receipts continued the seasonal decline, the current receipts being considerably under those reported for the same week of the year previous. Receipts of wheat at important centers continued the ascent which began during the second week of December.

Actual production of industrial commodities during the holiday week ended December 27 is shown by the report to have been under that of the previous full week. Bituminous coal production, while under that of the corresponding week in 1929 was of the same volume as during the comparative period in 1928.

Steel Ingot Output Drops.

Steel ingot production declined and was materially under 1928 and 1929, while building contracts were found on a level higher than that of the week prior, with adjustments made for the number of business days. The number of business failures for the week ended January 3 increased from the week previous and was above that reported during the opening week of 1930.

In a statement issued yesterday by Standard Statistics Co., of New York, prospects for chain stores, cigarettes, dairy products, electric light and power, package foods, shipbuilding, specialty bakeries and the telephone businesses were listed as "most promising." Those for beverages, chemicals and refrigeration were rated "good," and meat packing and motion picture business prospects were given an "uncertain" rating.

Prospects for the following were placed in the "fair" category: Agricultural machinery, automobiles, auto tires and parts, bread bakeries, building, canned foods, cement, cigars, department stores, electrical equipment, fertilizers, flour and feed, machinery, mail order, office equipment, paper, petroleum, railroads, railroad equipment, shoes, steel, sugar refining and telegraph.

"Poor" Prospects Listed.

The statement lists as "poor," the prospects for aircraft, apparel, coal, copper, cotton goods, electrical household supplies, floor coverings, furniture, lead, leather, lumber, radio, rayon, shipping, silk goods, sugar producing, tin, tractions, woolen goods and zinc.

"Sales of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., announced yesterday, were $81,346,706 for the four weeks ended December 27. This compares with $87,260,035 for the corresponding period a year ago, and shows a decrease of $5,913,349 or 6.78 per cent.

Sales for the 12-month period ended December 27 were $1,062,296,-931, compared with $1,027,914,479 for the same period in 1929, which is a gain of $34,381,852 or 3.34 per cent. Average weekly sales for December, 1930, were $20,336,677, compared with $21,815,014 in December, 1929, a decrease of $1,478,337.

Aid at Last Seen For Oil Situation

Stanolind Will Provide Market Outlet in Oklahoma Field.

Tulsa, Okla., Jan. 9 (A.P.).—Relief was at hand today for additional "stripper" oil production cut off from market by the Prairie Oil & Gas Company's withdrawal as a purchaser of crude oil. Under a plan worked out by a committee representing northeastern Oklahoma producers and the Stanolind Crude Oil Purchasing and Pipe Line companies, the Alluwe field in Nowata and Rogers Counties, Okla., will be provided a market outlet.

The committee announced negotiations had been completed with the Stanolind companies, subsidiaries of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, for an outlet for 3,500 wells in the northeastern Oklahoma field producing approximately 1,500 barrels of oil daily.

The plan calls for the Stanolind companies to build new gathering lines to leases in the Alluwe area, with the affected operators assisting by providing right of way and pipe. Stanolind officials said their companies stood ready to construct the gathering lines as soon as they learned the Prairie company would not sell its gathering lines.

GERMAN 5½ BONDS RALLY TWO POINTS

NEW FINANCING IS CITED

New York, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—Scattered profit taking gave a mildly irregular cast to the bond market today. The effects of realizing sales were noticeable throughout the list, with the exception of foreign issues, which strengthened appreciably. German 5½s rallied 2 points in a large turnover, and there were large advances in many of the Latin Americans.

Bankers are pleased by the current action of the investment market. Although the new levels have not been thoroughly tested and although selling for a profit might be expected on an extension of the advance, the increase in activity on a rising price scale is found to be encouraging. So far there has been comparatively little new financing to compete with listed issues, but such new offerings as have appeared have been well taken and have offered little conflict with seasoned bonds.

Some rather important pieces of financing are imminent. The Province of Ontario is to sell a $30,000,000 loan next week. In addition, the appearance in the near future of a $15,000,000 block of Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light 5s and the end of a $25,000,000 issue of Pacific Gas & Electric 4½s at 98 is anticipated.

A 7-point rise in International Great Northern adjustment 6s enlivened a rather quiet day in the rails. New York Central 4s, Frisco 4s and Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s, lost a point, but there was considerable firmness in a number of other first grade issues, as well as secondary carrier lines. Convertible rails were stong. Several industrials and specialties, including Lorillard 5½s, Goodrich 6s, Paramount Publix 5½s and Royal Dutch Shell 4s with warrants rallied a point. Utilities were quiet, but somewhat irregular.

The trend in United States Governments was mixed. The most active issue, Treasury 4½, eased nominally.

Curb Review

New York, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—A further drive toward higher prices in today's curb market struck rough going in the final hour, and several of the more active shares turned reactionary.

Net changes were largely narrow and mixed at the finish. The pace of trading quickened, the day's transfers aggregating 594,800 shares, or 139,000 more than yesterday's. The market turned extremely dull just before the late sag.

American Gas & Electric lost 2 points, Electric Bond & Share more than 1 point, and American & Foreign Power warrants and American Superpower closed off fractionally, after all had sold higher. United Gas sold ¾ of a point in a large turnover, then lost its gain. Among utilities to close higher, however, were Northern States A, up 3 and Electric Power.

Industrials were mixed and mostly dull. Acme Steel jumped 6 points in a few small transactions. Aviation Corporation of the Americas advanced 4, and U. S. Gypsum, 3. Dow Chemical sagged 3 to a new low, along with heaviness of big-board chemicals. Other industrials losing 1 to 2 included Dresser B, Driver Harris and Ford of Canada A. Oils moved narrowly. Standards of Indiana and Kentucky and Cities Service eased fractionally, while Gulf and Vacuum closed a little higher.

The rail shares on this board, which are very inactive, recorded some wide gains. Western Maryland first preferred, appearing for the first time in a long while, sold up 85, a net gain of 25 points. Pittsburgh & Lake Erie gained 4½ in a few odd-lot sales.

In the investment trusts U. S. and International first preferred shot up 6 points, while Ungerleider sagged more than a point.

WALL STREET GOSSIP

New York, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—A reduction of one-quarter of a cent a pound, to 10.55 cents, c. i. f. European base ports, was made today in the price of export copper by Copper Exporters, Inc.

The Reichbank report as of January 7 shows the following changes in reichmarks: Gold and bullion increased 164,000; reserve in foreign currencies decreased 68,824,000; bills of exchange and cheques decreased 474,597,000; silver and other coins increased 24,268,000; notes on other banks increased 8,947,000; advances decreased 189,383,000; investments increased 95,000; other assets decreased 1,386,000; notes in circulation decreased 452,473,000; other maturing obligations decreased 229,292,000; other liabilities decreased 18,951,000. Total gold holding, 2,215,945,000. Rate of discount, 5 per cent.

Albert H. Morrill, president of the Kroger Grocery & Baking Co., today said $2,000,000 would be expended in a program of improvements fn stores and plants of his firm's chain system. The program will provide work for many men in many communities, he said.

Reductions in rayon prices ranging from 15 to 35 cents per pound, the third in less than a year, have brought a standard grade to 75 cents per pound, compared with 95 cents named in July. Larger business was coming forward today. Cotton goods were somewhat easier on small sales. Percales were irregular. Silk was firmer in Japan and unchanged here. Silk merchandise inquiry was broadening. Burlaps were quiet. Men's wear suitings stocks were light and demand was better.

Raw silk futures closed steady. Sales, 780 bales: January, 2.50; March, 2.53; May, 2.52. Open market quotations (60-day basis). Shanghai steam extra B, 2.55; Canton double extra A, 14-16s, 1.80; Japanese crack double extra, 2.85.

Bradstreet's, in a forecast for the year, says that "on the whole, it seems possible at this writing to take fully as cheerful a view of the future as oversanguine observers did a year ago, always bearing in mind that our country is tied in with the rest of the world and must continue to be affected by world conditions."

Commercial failures for the week total 927, compared with an aggregate of 732 for the corresponding period a year ago, R. G. Dun & Co reports. An exact comparison can not be made with last week's returns, which were for five business days only, the survey says, but the daily average this week was appreciably higher. Aside from the Pacific Coast, where a slight decrease occurred, all geographical sections reported sizable increases this week over a year ago Of this week's insolvencies, 578 had liabilities of more than $5,000 each, compared with 483 similar defaults in the 1930 week.

Despite further price declines, domestic packer hide markets have appeared to be firmer, at least on the surface, Dun's says in its weekly review. Opinions on that point were mixed this week, but futures on the exchange were regarded as having reached a technically stronger position. It is felt in not a few quarters that the outlook is more hopeful, if for no other reason than that far-reaching readjustments already have been effected.

United Corporation today reported for 1930 net profit of $16,079,527, equal to 78 cents a share on the 12,360,531 no-par common shares outstanding at the end of the year. In the preceding year the company reported for the period from January 7, 1929 to December 31, net profit of $8,296,729, equal to 49 cents a share on 7,252,515 common shares outstanding December 31, 1929.

Dow, Jones & Co. says that the Missouri Pacific Railroad purchased between 25,000 and 30,000 additional shares of Texas & Pacific common stock during 1930, bringing its holdings to between 225,000 and 230,000 shares, or about 59 per cent of the outstanding common. Missouri Pacific also owns the entire issue of $23,703,000 Texas & Pacific, preferred, giving it over 74 per cent ownership of the outstanding capital stock.

General Public Service Corporation for the year 1930 reported net earnings of $1,027,222, compared with $3,385,890 for 1929. Income from cash dividends increased to $1,018,796 from $773,119 in 1929, while profits from the sale of securities decreased to $104,225, from $2,244,237. After payment of the regular preferred and common stock dividends, earned surplus at the end of 1930 was $3,783,465, compared with $4,120,316 at the end of 1929. During the year the market value of assets decreased 27 per cent and on December 31 the asset value of the common stock amounted to $12.65 per share.

The resignation of J. M. McDonald as vice president of Montgomery Ward & Co., effective January 15, was announced by the company today. Mr. McDonald, who joined the concern last May 30, formerly was with the J. C. Penney Co.

Directors of the Skelly Oil Co. today voted to omit the usual quarterly dividend of 50 cents per share on common stock for the first quarter of 1931.

While rather irregular, the cotton market here has shown a generally steady undertone during the past week. This is regarded as having reflected a tendency to take a more optimistic view of the general business outlook at the beginning of the new year and a belief that present prices will not only cause a reduction in the acreage planted next spring, but have an ultimately stimulating effect on the distribution of cotton goods. These views do not appear to have been strongly enough held to encourage aggressive buying on the advances, but they have been reflected by covering or scale down buying for either trade or speculative account. This has had a tendency to check declines below the 10½ cent level for May, although the bulges have met scattered selling from one source or another.

Wall street reports state that the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. has prepared a new price list, not yet in the hands of the dealers, with reductions ranging from 7½ to 11 per cent for first line passenger balloon tires and from 6½ to 12 per cent for so-called secondary line tires.

A total of 670,397 shares of Indian Refining Co. common stock, or about 52 per cent of the outstanding shares, had been deposited at the close of business January 8 under the deposit agreement in connection with the offer of Texas Corporation to exchange one share of its common for each eight shares of Indian Refining. The time limit for deposit originally was set for December 15, but later was extended to January 15.

Operations of tire factories in the Akron, Ohio, district are being stepped up to meet the demands of the spring shipping season, the Rubber Exchange of New York reports. The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. will this week produce 240,000 casings, which compares with a schedule of approximately 130,000 casings weekly in effect at the close of 1930. Operating schedules in the district also have been expanded by several smaller manufacturers.

It was reported in Wall street today that on Monday the United States Steel Corporation is expected to announce the reopening of some of its mills, which will boost the rate of production possibly as much as 7 per cent. The corporation will make its monthly unfilled tonnage report tomorrow, and current unofficial Wall street estimates indicate a gain in orders of somewhere between 200,000 and 275,000 tons.

Four new directors have been elected to the board of the Ward Baking Co. by the present directors to fill vacancies resulting from resignations and deaths since 1928. The new directors are Leroy W. Baldwin, president of the Empire Trust Co.; William H. Williams, chairman of the Wabash Railroad; Arthur T. Goodenough, president of the Shanferoke Coal & Supply Co., and Wade T. Holland, formerly president of the Holland Bread Co. They succeed Edgar Palmer and E. H. Ford, who resigned in 1928 and 1929, respectively, and William D. Ward and Charles A. Ward, who died in 1929 and 1930.

JANUARY 10, 1906.

F. M. Mahan, 80-year-old Chicago inventor, announced he would fly to Washington in a machine he designed after watching the flight of birds. He expects to make the trip in twelve hours.

Private Murnane, stationed at Fort Hunt, a short distance below Washington, was frozen to death last night while attempting to row across the Potomac. Sergt. Burroughs, a companion, was found unconscious on the river bank.

The Senate, in executive session yesterday, set a precedent evidently intended to conform with the wishes of President Roosevelt regarding restriction of publicity. It is expected that now there will be no more discussions in open session of the administration's conduct of foreign affairs.

The Rev. John Habersham Elliott, rector emeritus of the Church of the Ascension, died yesterday afternoon at the Parish House, Twelfth and O streets northwest. The Episcopal divine was 74 years old and had been ill three years.

Slippery streets yesterday caused two accidents to fire apparatus. A fireman was injured when the steamer of Engine Company No. 2 overturned at Seventh and H streets northeast. The hose wagon of No. 10 Engine Company lost a wheel while returning from the regular morning exercise of the horses.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE.

ONE of the principal causes of high blood pressure is worry and other emotional disturbances. Right on top of that statement we pile another. It is that more people worry about high blood pressure than anything else, unless it be hard times, low prices, and the conditions of the stock market. Sometimes a little knowledge is a source of anxiety.

For such needs the remedy is frequently—more knowledge. The fault is with the quantity. There are a few things about blood pressure other than how to take it, and it is well that the people should know them. One of them is that in some cases the blood pressure can be reduced, that it fluctuates, and can be made to fluctuate more.

In others, it can not be made to change materially; and that the significance of the two types differ. Further, he makes use of a test for differentiating the types, a test which any physician can apply. It consists of the following simple procedures:

The blood pressure is taken in the usual way. Then the patient crushes a pearl of amyl nitrate in a handkerchief, holds this to his nose and mouth, and takes four or five deep breaths. Within a minute his face flushes, the skin becomes moist, and he becomes somewhat dizzy.

At once, when these symptoms appear, the physician takes the blood pressure. He had everything all set for a pressure test when the patient inhaled the fumes. The effects of the drug persist long enough for the physician to repeat his test once or twice while the subject is under it. The test is safe and it leaves no after effects.

If there is much difference between the before and after blood pressures the physician concludes that the high blood pressure is due in part to muscle contraction of the blood vessel walls. If there is little or no difference the high pressure is the result of scar tissue changes in those walls. In the one case proper treatment will lower the pressure materially. In the other, treatment does not materially alter it.

GERMANY STRIVING TO CUT LIVING COST

1,500,000 Increase in Idle Spurs Move to Lower Prices and Wages.

COAL SELLS FOR LESS

Berlin, Jan. 9 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The government, aware that Germany is passing through an industrial crisis, is engaged in a campaign to bring down the cost of living through general reductions in the prices of staple commodities.

In view of the rapid increase in the ranks of Germany's unemployed, which now numbers 4,357,000—an increase of 1,500,000 in 1930—the government has decided it is necessary to push through rapidly reductions in wages and commodity prices before the situation becomes catastrophic.

So far, publicity has been the chief means used in arousing the country to the necessity for universal cooperation to restore the nation's economic life to a basis on which the increase in unemployment at least will be checked.

400,000 Men Dropped.

It is being called to the attention of the public that nearly 400,000 men were thrown out of work in the last fifteen days of December and that the only way to stimulate production is to increase the buying power of wages.

Beginning with basic industries—coal and iron—wages in the Ruhr, which have been under discussion for several weeks are to be reduced soon. The coal and iron producers and the manufacturers want wages decreased 8 per cent. The workers are ready to accept a reduction of 4 per cent. The government is expected to intervene and by emergency decree settle the dispute next week on the compromise basis of a 6 per cent reduction.

Rail Diners Cut Prices.

Railroads throughout Germany have ordered a 15 per cent cut in prices at all station buffets, restaurants operated by them and in dining cars. A general cut in other restaurant prices is expected.

Big cuts have been made in the sales prices of clothing and shoes. A 10 per cent cut in the price of coal has stimulated sales of that fuel and the index of the cost of living has dropped a few points but not enough to make a marked impression or to halt the government's efforts to bring prices down.

The increase in part-time work in the industries and in agricultural regions also reveals to the government necessity for rapid action.

Al Capone Hearing Set for January 19

Court Notifies Attorneys to Bring Iu Gang Leader; Contempt Charged.

Chicago, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—"Scarface Al" Capone, the elusive gang leader, was ordered today to be in Federal court January 19, when preliminary motions on his contempt of court case will be argued.

Judge James H. Wilkerson set that date for hearing on defense motions to dismiss the information in the contempt citation and to quash the attachment for his arrest. Addressing Capone's attorneys, he added "and have the defendant in court."

After the hearing, the defense attorneys said they had not heard from Capone recently, but that they believed he would appear. If he does not, his $5,000 bond can be forfeited, and a bench warrant issued for his arrest. If he does, he will also be subject to arrest on a vagrancy warrant sworn out by Municipal Judge John H. Lyle.

TWO TROLLEY LOOPS PLANNED AS RELIEF IN TRIANGLE TRAFFIC

VEHICLES WOULD MOVE AT SIXTH AND NINTH

Tracks Would Be Lifted From Federal Reservation; No Subway as Yet.

Practical agreement among the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, the Treasury Department, and the several city transit companies on the matter of providing transportation for approximately 13,000 Federal employes, who will be housed in the Mall Triangle under the Federal building program was reached yesterday at a conference of the agencies concerned. The problem has been discussed several years.

The plan approved in substance at the parley provides for the ultimate removal of all street car tracks in the triangle through the establishment of two loops, one at Ninth street and the other at Sixth street, where the cars and buses would circle a block north of Pennsylvania avenue, instead of entering the Federal reservation.

Report Divided for Study.

Constituting an exhaustive study by John A. Beeder, New York traffic expert, and his associates, done at the expense of the local transit companies, the report could not be taken up in detail at yesterday's session. Consequently, it was divided for distribution and further study by the various agencies. Reports on this research work will be made at a later meeting, the date of which was not set.

Abandonment for the present of any plan for the establishment of a subway in the area was contained in the report, which was also based on the condition that the two street car companies would continue to operate separately. It was indicated, however, such a plan might eventually have to be adopted.

Should the merger of the traction companies be effected before the plan is put into operation, numerous changes would be necessitated, it was said, and a more efficient system might be evolved.

The report calls for a general rerouting of busses and street cars in the area under consideration and new operating schedules. Additional transportation facilities will have to be added, it was stated, because of the concentration of the employes in a comparatively small area.

Discuss Alexandria Tracks.

The question of the ultimate disposition of the tracks of the Mt. Vernon, Alexandria and Washington Traction Co. and the Washington and Fairfax line was discussed by representatives of the company, but no action was taken.

Among those attending the meeting were representatives of the Treasury's board of architectural consultants, headed by E. H. Bennett; Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission; William F. Ham, president of the Washington Railway & Electric Co.; John H. Hanna, president of the Capital Traction Co.; E. D. Merrill, of the Washington Rapid Transit Co.; Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the Park and Planning Commission; C. W. Eliot 2d, director planning of the commission, and Capt. E. N. Chisolm, jr., engineer of the planning body.

Publicity Planned In Drive for Chest

Cooperation of Newspapers and Other Agencies Is Given in Campaign.

Plans for window displays showing the work of the Community Chest, to be arranged for the campaign period, January 26 to February4, were discussed at yesterday's meeting of the publicity council at the Y. W. C. A., Seventeenth and K streets northwest. Ernest S. Johnston, chairman, announced that arrangements had been made through the window display chairman, Tray Chambers, and that the Charles Schwartz & Son cup would again be awarded for the best window.

Mr. Johnston also announced that the newspapers had again agreed to give six pages of advertising each during the campaign week, and that the editorial management of each paper had promised cooperation. He also said the Norman Kal Advertising Co. had agreed to prepare advertising copy without cost, six commercial art companies had promised to make the drawings without cost, while six engraving companies have each agreed to do the cuts for one page without charge.

"We are asking the people for more money this year," Mr. Johnston said, "because of the crisis created by unemployment and other causes which necessitate more relief work in 1931. Because of this we have asked the men who prepare our publicity to do more this year and the response has been gratifying. A copy of the Chest campaign poster, bearing the new slogan, "Give More, the Need Is Greater," was displayed at the meeting.

Prison Term and Fine Given Liquor Importer

Frank Shore, who formerly operated a tire shop at 1223 New York avenue northwest, and who recently was convicted by a District Supreme Court jury on a charge of violating the customs regulations by the importation of liquor, yesterday was sentenced by Justice Peyton Gordon to serve a year and a day in jail and to pay a fine of $1,000.

Mr. Shore noted an appeal. The case was one of the rarest ever tried in District courts since the Government, in order to prove that the liquor was good, had to introduce chemists who know how real imported liquor is made.

Suit Against Smith Co. Continued to March 10

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 9 (A.P.).—The suit of the Murray Hill Building Co., Inc., against the F. H. Smith Co. of Washington and New York, pending in Superior Court here, was continued today until March 10.

Charles F. Richards, counsel for the Smith company, said a receivership action is pending against the company in the Court of Chancery here, and held that the case listed for today should not be tried until the other case was acted upon.

East Too Easty, So Chinese Here Drops Nuptial Plans

Parents of Girl of His Dreams Believe in Omens and Fear Sunday Evil Day for Marriage; All Too Much for Chin Bow.

East is East and West is West——

But——

There are other things to be considered.

For example—take Henry Chin Bow. Chin, as he is known to Chinese, or Bow, as Americans would say, went to District Supreme Court to get a license to marry Ching Yee Gui—the girl of his dreams.

The East marks time by centuries and the West by minutes, but, somewhere in the West—San Francisco, it is said—ancestors of the bride burned joss or punk sticks.

Today, Chin expects to cancel the marriage license, while the bride-to-be is said to be safe in New York's Chinatown.

"Sure, the marriage may come off," said Mortimer Lonyay, general counsel for the Merchants of Canton Province in America, "but it is problematical."

Later, Lonyay, who has been instrumental with several persons close to official Washington life, in seeking to give the wedding prominence, said:

"It's all off, fellows. You see, it was this way: Out in San Francisco they still believe in omens. This girl's people did not believe the wedding was opportune—Tomorrow * * * New Year * * * A decade * * * maybe * * * The East moves in centuries, and omens amount to lots."

The wedding was scheduled for Sunday and members of Congress and other notables had been invited. There also was to have been a reception.

Woman Asks $4,700 Of F. H. Smith Co.

Pitts Is Included in Suit Charging Fraud and Deceit.

In a suit for $4,700 filed yesterday in District Supreme Court, the F. H. Smith Co. and G. Bryan Pitts, former chairman of the board, are charged with conspiracy to "cheat, defraud and deceive."

Alma Morton, of the Francis Scott Key Apartments, is the plaintiff. She alleges that in 1929 she bought certain shares of a stock sold through the F. H. Smith Co.

Still later, she says, she accepted other stock in return valued at $2,500. At the same time, she says, she purchased other Smith company stock valued at $2,200. Attorney R. H. McNeil appears for the plaintiff.

U. S. Plane Brings Sick Soldier Here

Private Joseph P. Hargroder, attached to First Division Headquarters at Fort Hamilton, N. Y., was rushed by airplane to Walter Reed Hospital yesterday afternoon, suffering from paralysis which had puzzled medical officers at the Army base.

Accompanied by a flight surgeon, Hargroder was placed aboard a Fokker transport plane at Mitchel Field at 12:30 o'clock. Piloted by Lieut. Hugh C. Downey, the plane arrived at Bolling Field shortly after 2 o'clock and was met by an ambulance from the hospital.

At the hospital it was said Hargroder's ailment was being diagnosed and that he would remain there until cured. The plane left immediately for its home field. It was the first time an airplane from that field had been used as an ambulance.

12 Bids Submitted On SchoolAddition

Washington Firm Has Low Proposal of $104,495 on Project.

Indications of increasingly keen competition among building contractors for District projects were apparent yesterday afternoon when eleven bids for the erection of a 12-room addition to the Bowen School, Second and M streets southwest, were opened.

Loudon Rust Co., of Washington, was low bidder with $104,495, an estimate that ordinarily is given on an eight-room school addition. The highest estimate was $144,000, by a New York concern.

Maj. John C. Gotwals, District Engineer Commissioner, recently estimated that contracts let on building projects so far this year were about 20 per cent below the estimates of District authorities.

Boy Seriously Hurt When Struck by Auto

Elliott Jones, 12-year-old colored boy, was seriously injured yesterday when an auto struck him as he was crossing Thirteenth street at S northwest in a coaster wagon. The driver, George L. Hawkins, 39, colored, took the boy to Emergency Hospital. Elliott suffered possible fracture of the skull, concussion of the brain and lacerations.

Housebreaking Charges Faced by Trio Arrested

Two Takoma Park, Md., youths and a Capital man were charged with housebreaking yesterday, in connection with the robbery of a Takoma Park, D. C., bowling alley last Wednesday. They are Arnold Wolfe and John Burger, both 16, and of Takoma Park, and Paul S. Kilmer, 24, of H street near Seventh northwest.

Policemen Pool and Lewis, of the Thirteenth Precinct, say the trio confessed to entering the establishment and taking cigars, cigarettes and candy valued at $50.

Anton Brees played a recital on the carillon, including a number of old favorites of Mr. Bok. The City of Lake Wales sent a wreath and numbers of friends sent other flowers.

Police Lift Midget Car To Extricate Stricken Man

Add midget auto problems—what's to be done when a good-sized driver of one suddenly becomes helpless and the issue is to get him out for medical treatment?

Policemen Miller, Manning and Carver, of the Eighth Precinct, offered one solution yesterday. Miller hauling the man out while his two colleagues lifted the machine. They had to resort to the hoisting process on account of the perplexing angle at which the motorist was slumped over the wheel.

After extricating Ralph W. Matthews, 39 years old, the policemen took him to Freedmen's Hospital, where he was brought out of the stupor into which he had fallen while driving on T street. Doctors said it did not appear that Matthews had been drinking. His car came to a stop on the Ninth street car tracks. He was released after being returned to the police station for questioning.

Matthews lives on Iowa avenue near Allison northwest.

DETROIT MAN NAMED AS TAX CONSULTANT

$7,500 FUND IS ALLOWED

George Lord, expert tax consultant of the Detroit Clearing House Association, yesterday was selected by the House District fiscal relations committee as the man to make a study of District tax affairs in comparison with taxation enforced in other comparable cities.

Announcement of the selection of Mr. Lord was made by Representative Carl E. Mapes (Republican), of Michigan, chairman of the House fiscal relations committee.

The announcement followed approval by the House of an appropriation of $7,500 recommended by the committee on accounts to provide the fiscal committee with necessary funds for the employment of Mr. Lord and for other expenses incident to the study being made by the committee.

Mr. Lord is to have offices in the Senate Office Building and will have clerical assistance in the course of his study which is expected to occupy several weeks.

In 1921 Mr. Lord was chairman of the joint committee of the Michigan committee to investigate State taxes. The committee was named by the State Legislature. It made its report in the following year, in which was embodied principles evolved from its study.

Mr. Lord frequently has been employed as a consultant on budgetary matters by various States.

GERMAN DANSEUSE DELIGHTS AUDIENCE

METHODS NEW, BIZARRE

Mary Wigman, German danseuse, appeared in a special program at the new National Theater yesterday afternoon and added another applauding audience to her rapidly growing collection of laurel crowed presentations. Miss Wigman was presented to Washington under the local management of Mrs. Wilson-Greene.

Washington, accustomed to the best in choreographic art, was amazed by the new aspect of the dance shown them by the visitor with magic feet. Yet, as a matter of fact, Miss Wigman dances with more than her feet. Her hands, graceful and expressive, and the trained muscles of her lithe body and head and face all are summoned to give their meed of gesture, movement and pantomime.

Take one dance, for instance, "The Monotony Whirl Dance." With terpsichorean skill, sense of rythm and balance, Miss Wigman whirled for at least ten minutes as regularly as a top thrown from a string. At the end of this magnificent whirl the dancer fell full length on the stage, but was up on her feet again and smiling while the audience was still dizzy, just from watching her.

In the dance of "Gypsy Moods" the dansuese's flying feet expressed the wild, free moods of the Bohemians and in the pastoral dances there was a touch of fantasy and delicacy without sacrifice of the strength and force of her impersonations.

One of the most remarkable presentations was that of "Hexantaz," in which Miss Wigman not only danced the witches' dance, but gave a vivid impersonation of a witch in every turn of her hands and head and the weird figures of the interpretation as well as in the livid face and the long dark hair and the yellowed palm raised in rhythmic incantation to heaven.

"The Storm Song Dance" was another number on her comprehensive program which brought her many ovations.

So entirely does the German dancer give of herself to her art that she was obliged to rest for fifteen minutes between the two portions of her program.

An Emergency Hospital physician pronounced Mr. McCoy dead. The body was taken to the District Morgue on order by Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt, who will hold an inquest this morning to determine the cause of death.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

ARISE, YACHTSMEN, ARISE!

PRESIDENT MACHADO of Cuba is "jumpier" than most people had suspected. He has now closed the Havana Yacht Club and arrested its board of directors for criticizing the government. This calls for an uprising of Rocking Chair fleets the world over.

* * * *

If there is any place where anything and everything has always been held open to criticism by all civilized nations it has been yacht club porches.

* * * *

If President Hoover were to close all yacht clubs in which the members had talked freely and loudly there wouldn't be a Rocking Chair fleet left in the country.

* * * *

Membership in a yacht club carries with it the right to sit on the veranda in a comfortable rocker and let loose conversation have full sway.

* * * *

A member of a yacht club may own a yacht; in fact, he may even sail on one if he wishes. But this is a secondary matter. The spirit and tradition of any such institution are found in the right to talk against anything on earth, even against the commodore!

* * * *

* * * *

There's something about membership in a yacht club that makes a human being gassy.

* * * *

HE can sit on a golf club porch and be fairly uncommunicative. He can lounge around the athletic club and seem strangely sphinxlike. But give him a pair of white pants, a double-breasted blue coat, a yachting hat and push him into a yacht club rocker and he immediately becomes so free with his opinions that they have to fire the sunset gun to remind him that it's time to quit.

* * * *

Up until President Machado got so hot and bothered nobody had ever assumed it made any difference what kind of talk went on in a Rocking Chair fleet. Certainly, the President of Cuba is the first man ever to listen to such a conversation voluntarily.

* * * *

* * * *

It is not so much a blow at free speech as a blow at the white flannel pants industry.

There is even a more revolutionary possibility as a result of the Machado action. Heretofore thousands of members have done nothing but hang around the porches and talk. If this Cuban action goes unchallenged think what may happen; these members will have to buy yachts and go yachting!

LAW STUFF.

THE Court of appeals has overruled a contention that a tax on golf club shares is an impost on sunshine, fresh air and pleasure. As everybody knows who has spent any time around a golf course, it's a gas tax.

R-K-O has purchased Pathe Co. Here's hoping the merger will result in fewer pictures of the following type in the news reels:

1. Japanese schoolgirls at play.
2. Pictures of polar bears.
3. Bathing beauties at Miami Beach.
4. Italian horsemen taking their mounts down the sides of precipices.
5. The physical culture daddy who is always shown swinging his 1-year-old baby around by one leg.
6. Spanish beauties in old Madrid.
7. Spanish beauties in Mexico City.
8. All horse races on the ground that they all look alike anyhow.
9. Former President Coolidge.
10. Any and all views of a lot of airplanes doing nothing particularly inspiring.
11. Ski jumpers.
12. Mussolini.
13. The former kaiser at Doorn.
14. Street pageants in New Orleans.
15. Women exhibiting prize kittens.

THE District of Columbia Supreme Court has ruled that the packers may distribute products other than meats. It will be all right with us as long as they don't go in for razor blades, theater tickets, cigarettes and three-decker sandwiches.

THINK HARD, BOYS!

Apropos the annual Automobile Show, do you recall the days when—

There was always an exhibit of linen dusters and goggles?

There was skepticism about self-starters?

The first question the prospective buyer asked, with great earnestness, was, "I know all that, but will she really go up a hill?"

DOG WHICH SAVED FAMILY

Laddie, German police dog, owned by Helen Donnelly, 14, of 1249 Evarts street northeast, whose frantic efforts to escape from a burning cellar early yesterday morning woke the family in time to save themselves and prevent serious damage. He scratched on the door and howled until Mrs. V. Myers, Helen's aunt, went down to investigate.

BRISK FIGHT LOOMS ON SUNDAY CLOSING

MOVIES MAY KEEP OUT

A battle royal over the general question of Sunday closing of business is expected to be staged at a public hearing which has been called for 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon by the Senate District committee on the bill to compel barber shops in the District to close on Sundays.

The measure has the support of organized labor, and labor representatives are expected to present a picture showing that unorganized barber shops would be glad to be relieved of the burden of Sunday business if they could be assured that their competitors would close also.

A fight against this argument is expected to be based on the fact that many other activities are conducted on Sundays, and even those who argue for compulsory closing of barber shops probably would not be willing to carry their argument to the full degree and support a measure forbidding all work in the District on Sunday.

Whether the movies and legitimate theaters will take part in the argument before the committee is not known, but it is thought that the resentatives of these will seek to keep out of the fight and leave the battle to keep another blue law off the statute books to representatives of the Seventh Day Adventists and others who are opposed to such laws in principle without having a commercial interest at stake.

Brother of Erstwhile Ambassador Expires

New York, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—George W. Schurman, prominent lawyer and brother of Jacob Gould Schurman, former Ambassador to Germany, died of pneumonia today at his home in West Fifty-third street. He was 63 years old.

$50,000 IS SOUGHT IN ALIENATION SUIT

A. H. Lamp, Artist, Charges Clarence A. O'Brien Has Estranged Wife.

$25,000 ASKED IN ARREST

Clarence A. O'Brien, of 1615 Crittenden street northwest, was named defendant in two suits filed against him in District Supreme Court yesterday by his son-in-law, Adrian H. Lamp, a New York artist.

Lamp, who eloped with O'Brien's daughter, Mrs. Ruth A. Cady, on November 12, 1929, not only is suing his father-in-law for alienation of affections but also on the grounds of false arrest. He asks $50,000 for alienation of his wife's affections and $25,000 for alleged false arrest and imprisonment.

Mr. Lamp, a native of Holland, tells the court, on November 12, 1929, at Rockville, Md., he married the daughter of the defendant, who is a patent attorney. They lived happily together, it is said, until the father-in-law intervened.

O'Brien is accused of forcing his daughter to abandon her husband in New York and to return to Washington. As a result of that, Mr. Lamp claims he was totally divorced from his wife's affections. He came to Washington recently, and charges that his father-in-law caused his arrest.

He alleges that he had only a razor—for personal use—on him when taken into custody at the Terminal Station. That is the basis of the $25,000 suit.

"TRIAL" OF CAPITAL TEACHER IS TODAY

OPEN HEARING IS SOUGHT

Malcolm M. Young, 26-year-old history teacher and former honor student at the University of North Carolina, who was dropped from the faculty of McKinley High School last November, charged with unsatisfactory service, will be given a hearing before the committee on complaints and appeals of the Board of Education at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Franklin School.

Mr. Young says his last efficiency rating was "good."

The hearing will be secret unless members of the committee—Dr. J. Hayden, Johnson, chairman; Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle and H. B. Learned—vote to admit reporters. Dr. Johnson told The Post yesterday he would put the question to a vote. Mr. Young has asked that the hearing be open. He will insist on this today, he said.

Mr. Young's case was lifted out of the usual because he was reported to have pacifistic opinions and is opposed to the cadet corps in the high schools. The rumor circulated that his anti-militaristic views had led to his discharge. Schol officials, however, emphatically denied that the teacher's opinions had anything to do with the action against him.

Mr. Young announced that protests on his behalf have been made by the following: Senator F. M. Simmons, of North Carolina; Representatives George Pritchard, Chas. A. Jonas, J. Y. Kerr, Lindsay Warren and Frank Hancock, of North Carolina; Robert Blackburn, of Kentucky, and Ross Collins, of Mississippi.

Also by Dr. Raymond Heffner, of Johns Hopkins University; M. L. Radoff, of Johns Hopkins; Prof. Henry B. Slaughter, formerly of the department of English, University of Alabama. Mr. Young also said that he has filed protests with the committee on District appropriations of the House of which Representative Robert G. Simmons is chairman, and with the American Federation of Teachers.

One of the principal witnesses to testify against Mr. Young will be Frank C. Daniel, principal of McKinley High School. Mr. Daniel recommended that Mr. Young be dropped after the school examiners had rated him unsatisfactory.

This recommendation was made to Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, who, in turn, referred it to the Board of Education for final action. Mr. Young had completed his probationary period when the rating was made.

Eggs Made Gratin Popular and Timely

Eggs au gratin constitute not only a tasty luncheon or dinner dish, but one easy and inexpensive to prepare. Furthermore, because the eggs, milk and butter comprising the ingredients are rich in vitamin A, the dish serves to build up the resistance of the body against winter coughs and colds.

2 tablespoons flour.
2 tablespoons butter.
1 cup milk.
6 eggs.

Make white sauce of flour, butter, salt and milk. Break eggs carefully into buttered baking dish. Cover with white sauce and then with grated cheese. Bake 15 minutes in moderate oven. Six servings.

Strawberries Are Best When Folded in Cream

Strawberries Supreme.

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

½ cup or more powdered sugar.

Wash the berries well, drain, and cap. Whip the cream until thick, add the salt and the sugar. Continue the whipping until all are well blended. Fold the berries into the cream until each berry is coated with the cream. Take care not to crush them. Serve at once. If the berries stand after combining with the cream, the juice is likely to be drawn from them and the cream thinned.
